Longest Session Of Congress In 11 Years Ends; Charges Fly

High Altitude Blast Slated For Tonight

Weather Outlook Is Favorable For Test Over Pacific

HONOLULU (AP) — The United States was set Saturday to explode its second high - altitude nuclear shot in five attempts Sunday night above Johnston Island.

Radio reports from Johnston said the countdown was under way with generally favorable weather conditions predicted for blast time.

FRONT STOPS

A cold front which threatened to delay the test stopped about 300 miles north of Hawaii, raising hopes Pacific skies will be clear when the rocket-borne nuclear device is detonated.

Scientists at Johnston Island insist on good weather for visual observation of the test.

The device is scheduled to be lifted by a Thor missile between 30 to 40 miles above Johnston and exploded between 9:30 p.m. Hawaiian Standard Time Sunday—2:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time Monday—and 2:30 a.m. Monday—7:30 a.m. EST.

The blast will be in the sub-megaton range—less than one million tons of TNT.

It is expected to produce an orange glow in Hawaii, 750 miles northeast of Johnston and the nearest populated area to Johnston.

The test will black out high-frequency radio signals for about five minutes.

Three of four previous tries to explode a nuclear device at high altitudes above Johnston this year failed because of missile troubles. The only successful shot came July 8 when a thermonuclear blast was set off 210 miles high.

That "megaton-plus" explosion lit up the Pacific from New Zealand to Alaska.

Task force officials will give no specific information on the size or altitude of Sunday's planned blast.

Astronaut To Receive Accolades

ORADELL, N.J. (AP)—Walter M. Schirra Jr., a native New Jerseyan who became America's six-orbit astronaut, arrives home Sunday to receive the accolades of a proud state.

Leading state officials and thousands of New Jerseyans are expected to take part in the welcome which begins with Schirra's scheduled arrival at Newark Airport at 5:18 p.m. Sunday.

With the astronaut will be his wife, Jo, their two children and his parents.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes, Sens. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., and Newark Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio will be among those on hand at the airport to meet Schirra's plane.

Also present will be the newest astronaut's host for the night, Oradell Mayor Frederick E. Wendel, who will move out of his home to make room for the Schirra family.

No ceremonies or speeches are planned for the arrival and the official party will travel here by motorcade via Rt. 22 and the Garden State Parkway. The motorcade will not enter Newark because of a conflicting parade.

Bunting, flags and welcome home signs in red, white and blue already adorn stores along the main street in this community of 8,000 where Schirra was raised. He was born in nearby Hackensack.

Price Restated For Prisoners

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro was quoted Saturday as saying the Bay of Pigs prisoners rescue committee must put up not less than $62 million worth of "things such as medicine (and) medical equipment" to win the prisoners' release.

At the same time it was learned that local health authorities some time ago instructed hospitals to draw up lists of needed drugs and equipment of American origin, while cancelling orders for such Soviet goods.

These two developments again raised the hope of relatives and friends of the 1,113 captives lingering behind bars here.

Guard Units Arrive For Natchez Duty

Chlorine Danger Causes Call-Up Of 2000 Troops

NATCHEZ, Miss. (Special) — Between 1,500 and 2,000 Mississippi National Guard troops arrived here Saturday to assist in any emergency that might occur during the raising of chlorine tanks from a sunken barge in the Mississippi River near here and the green light was given to resume dredging operations.

Col. Warren S. Everett, U. S. District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, Vicksburg, Miss., in charge of "Operation Chlorine" said that he had received instructions to resume dredging the sand from barge laden with the deadly gas.

25-30 DAYS

The units came from Jackson, Hattiesburg, Meridian and other state cities, as Mississippi and federal officials announced plans to have the guardsmen on hand during the entire operations which may require from 25 to 30 days.

First phase of the operations to lift four chlorine tanks from the barge is expected to get under way Monday, under the direction of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Major Gen. William P. Wilson, adjutant general of the Mississippi Guard, released names of the units taking part in the standby emergency operations.

Saturday's troop movement includes approximately 1,500 to 2,000 guardsmen, with an additional 500 to 1,000 to be sent in later as needed.

Gen. Wilson will command the troop operations from headquarters set up in the National Guard Armory in Natchez. Guardsmen are bivouacked in and around Natchez.

The guardsmen will be on hand to assist local authorities in evacuating the populace if chlorine leakage occurs during salvage operations, to maintain law and order and protect property. Chlorine gas can be lethal, authorities warned.

Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett ordered the guard called up Friday after President Kennedy authorized the federal government to bear the expenses of the project.

SPACECRAFT READY

U.S. Moon Shot Set For Tuesday

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — The Ranger 5 spacecraft, shaped like a giant insect from another world, is scheduled for launching toward the moon Tuesday to take closeup television pictures and land an instrument package to measure moonquakes.

If Ranger 5 succeeds where two other Rangers missed earlier this year, the craft will be the first of a parade of vehicles designed to learn what dangers await moonbound American astronauts and to stake out the best landing spots for them.

Project officials have analyzed and corrected the problems which plagued the two earlier Rangers and are hopeful Ranger 5 will fulfill its mission.

DEVICE FAILED

Ranger 3 missed the moon by 22,862 miles last January because of excess rocket velocity. A timing device failed in Ranger 4 last April and the vehicle crash-landed on the moon's backside without producing desired data. Rangers 1 and 2, launched last year, were experimental craft not aimed at the moon.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported that Tuesday is the start of a four-day period in which the moon is in a favorable position for a launching. If the Atlas-Agena B rocket is unable to get off the ground in that time, the shot will be postponed until the next desirable period, starting about Nov. 13.

The complicated Ranger 5 flight involves firing the Agena B second stage into a "parking orbit" 100 miles high and at the precise moment restarting its motor to increase speed from 18,000 to 24,500 miles an hour.

Ellis Ross, 58, Succumbs; Rites Still Pending

Joseph Ellis Ross Jr., 58, district engineer for the Louisiana State Department of Highways, died at the St. Francis hospital Saturday evening after an illness of approximately one month.

Mr. Ross, who lived at 303 Browning St., West Monroe, was district engineer in charge of the new super highway — I-20 — in construction here now. He had been affiliated with the department of highways in Louisiana for 35 years.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete Saturday night, but will be under the direction of Peters Funeral Home.

A native of Many, Mr. Ross was a resident of West Monroe for the past 24 years and was active in many organizations. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe.

Mr. Ross served as president of the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club, and held active memberships in the Masonic Lodge No. 319 of West Monroe; the Knights Templar of Monroe; and the El Karubah Shrine Temple, Shreveport. He was president of the Louisiana Department of Highways Credit Union; served on the Board of Directors of Louisiana Highway Engineers Association; and was a member of the Louisiana Engineers Society.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Margaret Lee Ross, West Monroe; one son, Joseph Ellis Ross III, Ruston; two sisters, Mrs W. E. Wansley, Hobbs, N.M. and Mrs. Gladys Kerr, Hot Springs, Ark.

Ransom Hits Reductions In Acreage

Says Agriculture Secretary Plans Allotment Slashes

BATON ROUGE (Special) — The cotton chairman of the Louisiana Farm Bureau charged Saturday that Agriculture Secretary Orville L. Freeman intends to slash some 70,000 acres from the state's 1963 cotton allotment.

Paul Ransom of Monroe predicted that the sharp slash in Louisiana acreage, which would result in a loss of some $10.5-million in farm income, would be part of a nationwide cut of 2-million acres to be announced by Freeman Monday.

SUPPORT CUTS

He sharply attacked a statement issued Friday by USDA which claimed that keeping present acreage would require a six or seven per cent cut in the price supports for cotton.

"This completely inaccurate statement by the USDA is a smoke screen to divert farmers' attention from this unnecessary cut in our cotton acreage," Ransom said, "and reflects the secretary's gross misunderstanding of cotton farming.

"During the 1959 marketing year, cotton producers sold more than 16 million bales at an average price in excess of 31 cents per pound and at considerably less cost to the government.

"Mr. Freeman would now have us believe we can't sell even 14 million bales unless the price is cut to some ridiculous figure."

The Farm Bureau spokesman added, "I think it will be a tragedy if a political appointee from Minnesota is permitted to cripple and perhaps wreck the South's greatest industry."

Ransom said the Farm Bureau board of directors meeting here Saturday approved a resolution asking Louisiana's congressional delegation to seek legislative action which would maintain the 1963 cotton allotment at its present level at 18.1 million acres, which provides 630,000 acres for Louisiana.

Ransom said, "Most cotton farmers are satisfied with the 1958 act which gives the secretary the authority necessary to keep cotton in a healthy economic position. Mr. Freeman has ignored the intent of Congress, and has permitted cotton to drift to its present poor economic position.

"Now he intends to aggravate the situation further by a drastic acreage reduction and by maintaining a price support just high enough to curtail sales.

We realize, even if Mr. Freeman doesn't, that the government can control production," Ransom said, "but it can't force the mills to buy cotton when our price is too high. It's obvious that the secretary cannot force consumers to buy cotton when it's not competitive."

Ransom asked cotton producers to contact their elected representatives to seek support for adequate 1963 cotton acreage.

'WORST IN MEMORY'

45 Persons Die In Coast Storm

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The worst coastal storm in memory blew itself out over western Canada on Saturday after taking 45 lives and strewing wreckage over northern California and the Pacific Northwest.

The toll by states included California 16, Oregon 14, Washington 9, and in Canada, British Columbia 6. Damage soared into the multi-millions.

"Probably the greatest disaster that Oregon ever had," said Gov. Mark Hatfield.

CALLS OUT GUARDS

He declared a state of emergency Friday night and called out National Guard units to patrol the streets of the hardest-hit cities.

Hatfield said damage in the state was probably $150 million. He asked President Kennedy to declare it a disaster area to make federal aid available.

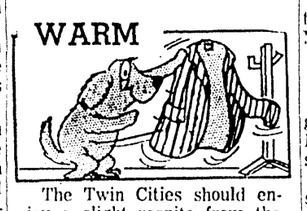
Oregon took the hardest punch of this hurricane-like blow, but along a 1,000-mile path—125 miles wide—there were shattered buildings, uprooted and broken trees, feeled power and telephone lines, ashes from a night of fires—and the dead.

There were reports of other details but communications were difficult in many areas and impossible in others.

Wind gauges blew away at many points at 80 miles an hour and more. Some clocked forces of 100 miles and more. It was 121 at Mt. Tamalpais north of San Francisco and an almost unbelievable 170 miles an hour at the north Oregon coast's Mt. Hebo radar station.

People in houses and cars died under the crashing trees, or from flying debris, or from heart attack.

WARM



The Twin Cities should enjoy a slight respite from the summer-like heat today, but nothing to get excited about. The high today is predicted to be about 88 degrees.

Partly cloudy to clear skies will accompany the warm weather, the forecast said Saturday night. Nothing was mentioned in the Twin City prediction about rain, but the Monroe area may see some isolated afternoon and evening thundershowers today.

The low tonight, according to the weatherman, will be around 66.

Saturday's high was a scorching 91 degrees and the overnight low was 65.

The outlook for Monday calls for no change.

Today will include 12 hours and 26 minutes of sunshine. Old Sol was due to peep over the horizon at 6:11 a.m. and is due to set today at 5:37 p.m.

Solons, JFK Assailed In Bitter Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The second session of the 87th Congress bowed out Saturday the way it came in last January—with members fighting bitterly among themselves and with President Kennedy and the Republicans trading heated charges.

The House and Senate adjourned until next January after the short-tempered members still on hand settled last-minute quarrels over homestate water projects, so-called vote-getting "pork barrel" items.

SHOUT APPROVAL

The Senate passed its sine die adjournment resolution at 3:41 p. m. EST. The House shouted approval of the resolution at 3:46 p. m. to make it official.

Scores of other legislators had ignored the windup and gone home to campaign for re-election.

But Congress finally quit after a nine-month session in which annual cash appropriations were pushed past the $100 billion mark for the first time in 19 years—or since the World War II year of 1943. Congress appropriated $114 billion in 1943 and $147 billion in 1942.

It was the longest session in 11 years. And as the doors closed, Republicans and Democrats squabbled over the "accomplishments" or "failures" of the 87th—the second session under Kennedy.

The President was out of town campaigning for the election of more New Frontier Democrats whom he said were needed to push more of his program through the new Congress next year. He said the Republican Party offered only a "no" pro-

Fire Declared Arson; Probe Underway Here

The Sept. 29 fire that gutted the third floor of the Heninger Building, office structure on South Grand Street, has been termed a definite "arson" case by local fire and police officials and state fire marshals.

Officials said Saturday they have been investigating the incident and had talked to a number of suspects in the case. They stated the fire that raged through the third floor of the building started in four different places, and had definitely been "set" by someone. It damaged the second, third and fourth floors.

The old building, located on South Grand at Grammont Street, was vacant at the time of the Saturday night fire. The first office building in the Twin Cities, the Heninger Building was constructed in 1906 and was the original Central Savings Bank. The structure cost $160,000 to build in the early 1900's.

It is now owned by a Monroe businessman, L. M. Ray, who bought the structure in the 1950's from Sherrouse Realty Company. The name was changed from Central Savings Bank to the Heninger Building in honor of S. K. Heninger, who bought the building from the bank and maintained office suites in it for years.

BUILT FOR AIR FORCE

New Type A-Blast Detector Unveiled

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A device which could be a forerunner of a worldwide network of nuclear blast detectors was announced Saturday by the California Institute of Technology.

The new instrument, a cross between an earthquake-recording seismograph and a computer, was built for the Air Force as a part of the Advanced Research Projects Agency's Project Vela, which is concerned with the detection of nuclear explosions.

Called a digital seismograph, it has greater precision and longer range than conventional recorders of earthquake motions. Because of these qualities, it is regarded as a step forward in the art of detecting distant nuclear blasts.

Scientists can tell a conventional quake from a nuclear shock by studying seismograms. Installation of a network of supersensitive seismographs has been proposed as a way of policing nuclear blasts if an international agreement to ban tests is reached.

A spokesman for the institute said the instrument is believed to be the first of its kind.

"This first application of the digital data-logging technique to seismology has great flexibility," said Dr. Frank Press, director of Caltech's seismological laboratory. "The system is capable of recording earth motions over the entire seismic spectrum. Thus the digital seismograph is equivalent to a combination of many conventional seismographs and provides greater precision and dynamic range. The uses to which it can be put is limited only by the imagination of the researchers."

SOLON BLASTS JFK

21 Americans Held In Castro's Prisons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., blasted the Kennedy administration in Saturday for "letting American prisoners rot in jails around the world," including Cuba.

Cramer said that at the same time, the administration was "backing" the Cuban prisoner ransom "blackmail deal."

Cramer said in a statement:

"Compassion for Cuban prisoners, is, for American prisoners, no, is the policy of the new frontier."

Cramer said he has been informed that 21 Americans were in Cuban prisons, "largely on bogus charges, and many are in ill health, being mistreated, and are underfed, but we hear little of efforts to get them out of prison..."

He said four Americans were in Red China prisons, one in Russia and four unaccounted for in North Korea.

"Our attitude about American prisoners rotting in Cuba's jails seems to be that nothing can be done for them short of efforts to free Cuba from Castro and communism," Cramer said.

"But our attitude about Cuban prisoners is that we must give in to Castro's ransom and indemnity demands and provide him with much-needed dollars, foodstuffs and medicine — all of which he can trade off for more war material to be used against us."

Cramer said the State Department refused to give the names of the 21 Americans in Cuban jails but said he obtained the names of 18 from other sources.

He released names of the 18.

Longest Session Of Congress In 11 Years Ends; Charges Fly

High Altitude Blast Slated For Tonight

Weather Outlook Is Favorable For Test Over Pacific

HONOLULU (AP) — The United States was set Saturday to explode its second high - altitude nuclear shot in five attempts Sunday night above Johnston Island.

Radio reports from Johnston said the countdown was under way with generally favorable weather conditions predicted for blast time.

FRONT STOPS

A cold front which threatened to delay the test stopped about 300 miles north of Hawaii, raising hopes Pacific skies will be clear when the rocket-borne nuclear device is detonated.

Scientists at Johnston Island insist on good weather for visual observation of the test.

The device is scheduled to be lifted by a Thor missile between 30 to 40 miles above Johnston and exploded between 9:30 p.m. Hawaiian Standard Time Sunday—2:30 a.m. Eastern Standard Time Monday—and 2:30 a.m. Monday—7:30 a.m. EST.

The blast will be in the submegaton range—less than one million tons of TNT.

It is expected to produce an orange glow in Hawaii, 750 miles northeast of Johnston and the nearest populated area to Johnston.

The test will black out high-frequency radio signals for about five minutes.

Three of four previous tries to explode a nuclear device at high altitudes above Johnston this year failed because of missile troubles. The only successful shot came July 8 when a thermonuclear blast was set off 210 miles high.

That "megaton-plus" explosion lit up the Pacific from New Zealand to Alaska.

Task force officials will give no specific information on the size or altitude of Sunday's planned blast.

Guard Units Arrive For Natchez Duty

Chlorine Danger Causes Call-Up Of 2000 Troops

NATCHEZ, Miss. (Special) — Between 1,500 and 2,000 Mississippi National Guard troops arrived here Saturday to assist in any emergency that might occur during the raising of chlorine tanks from a sunken barge in the Mississippi River near here and the green light was given to resume dredging operations.

Col. Warren S. Everett, U. S. District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, Vicksburg, Miss., in charge of "Operation Chlorine" said that he had received instructions to resume dredging the sand from barge laden with the deadly gas.

25-30 DAYS

The units came from Jackson, Hattiesburg, Meridian and other state cities, as Mississippi and federal officials announced plans to have the guardsmen on hand during the entire operations which may require from 25 to 30 days.

First phase of the operations to lift four chlorine tanks from the barge is expected to get under way Monday, under the direction of the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Major Gen. William P. Wilson, adjutant general of the Mississippi Guard, released names of the units taking part in the standby emergency operations.

Saturday's troop movement includes approximately 1,500 to 2,000 guardsmen, with an additional 500 to 1,000 to be sent in later as needed.

Gen. Wilson will command the troop operations from headquarters set up in the National Guard Armory in Natchez. Guardsmen are bivouacked in and around Natchez.

The guardsmen will be on hand to assist local authorities in evacuating the populace if chlorine leakage occurs during salvage operations, to maintain law and order and protect property. Chlorine gas can be lethal, authorities warned.

Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett ordered the guard called up Friday after President Kennedy authorized the federal government to bear the expenses of the project.

The Sept. 29 fire that gutted the third floor of the Heninger Building, office structure on South Grand Street, has been termed a definite "arson" case by local fire and police officials and state fire marshals.

Officials said Saturday they have been investigating the incident and had talked to a number of suspects in the case. They stated the fire that raged through the third floor of the building started in four different places, and had definitely been "set" by someone. It damaged the second, third and fourth floors.

The old building, located on South Grand at Grammont Street, was vacant at the time of the Saturday night fire. The first office building in the Twin Cities, the Heninger Building was constructed in 1906 and was the original Central Savings Bank. The structure cost $160,000 to build in the early 1900's.

It is now owned by a Monroe businessman, L. M. Ray, who bought the structure in the 1950's from Sherrouse Realty Company. The name was changed from Central Savings Bank to the Heninger Building in honor of S. K. Heninger, who bought the building from the bank and maintained office suites in it for years.

Astronaut To Receive Accolades

ORADELL, N.J. (AP)—Walter M. Schirra Jr., a native New Jerseyan who became America's six-orbit astronaut, arrives home Sunday to receive the accolades of a proud state.

Leading state officials and thousands of New Jerseyans are expected to take part in the welcome which begins with Schirra's scheduled arrival at Newark Airport at 5:18 p.m. Sunday.

With the astronaut will be his wife, Jo, their two children and his parents.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes, Sens. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., and Newark Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio will be among those on hand at the airport to meet Schirra's plane.

Also present will be the newest astronaut's host for the night, Oradell Mayor Frederick E. Wendel, who will move out of his home to make room for the Schirra family.

No ceremonies or speeches are planned for the arrival and the official party will travel here by motorcade via Rt. 22 and the Garden State Parkway. The motorcade will not enter Newark because of a conflicting parade.

Bunting, flags and welcome home signs in red, white and blue already adorn stores along the main street in this community of 8,000 where Schirra was raised. He was born in nearby Hackensack.

Ellis Ross, 58, Succumbs; Rites Still Pending

Joseph Ellis Ross Jr., 58, district engineer for the Louisiana State Department of Highways, died at the St. Francis hospital Saturday evening after an illness of approximately one month.

Mr. Ross, who lived at 303 Browning St., West Monroe, was district engineer in charge of the new super highway — I-20 — in construction here now. He had been affiliated with the department of highways in Louisiana for 35 years.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete Saturday night, but will be under the direction of Peters Funeral Home.

A native of Many, Mr. Ross was a resident of West Monroe for the past 24 years and was active in many organizations. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of West Monroe.

Mr. Ross served as president of the Northeast Louisiana Shrine Club, and held active memberships in the Masonic Lodge No. 319 of West Monroe; the Knights Templar of Monroe; and the El Karubah Shrine Temple, Shreveport. He was president of the Louisiana Department of Highways Credit Union; served on the Board of Directors of Louisiana Highway Engineers Association; and was a member of the Louisiana Engineers Society.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Margaret Lee Ross, West Monroe; one son, Joseph Ellis Ross III, Ruston; two sisters, Mrs W. E. Wansley, Hobbs, N.M. and Mrs. Gladys Kerr, Hot Springs, Ark.

New Type A-Blast Detector Unveiled

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—A device which could be a forerunner of a worldwide network of nuclear blast detectors was announced Saturday by the California Institute of Technology.

The new instrument, a cross between an earthquake-recording seismograph and a computer, was built for the Air Force as a part of the Advanced Research Projects Agency's Project Vela, which is concerned with the detection of nuclear explosions.

Called a digital seismograph, it has greater precision and longer range than conventional recorders of earthquake motions. Because of these qualities, it is regarded as a step forward in the art of detecting distant nuclear blasts.

Scientists can tell a conventional quake from a nuclear shock by studying seismograms. Installation of a network of supersensitive seismographs has been proposed as a way of policing nuclear blasts if an international agreement to ban tests is reached.

A spokesman for the institute said the instrument is believed to be the first of its kind.

"This first application of the digital data-logging technique to seismology has great flexibility," said Dr. Frank Press, director of Caltech's seismological laboratory. "The system is capable of recording earth motions over the entire seismic spectrum. Thus the digital seismograph is equivalent to a combination of many conventional seismographs and provides greater precision and dynamic range. The uses to which it can be put is limited only by the imagination of the researchers."

Price Restated For Prisoners

HAVANA (AP)—Prime Minister Fidel Castro was quoted Saturday as saying the Bay of Pigs prisoners rescue committee must put up not less than $62 million worth of "things such as medicine (and) medical equipment" to win the prisoners' release.

At the same time it was learned that local health authorities some time ago instructed hospitals to draw up lists of needed drugs and equipment of American origin, while cancelling orders for such Soviet goods.

These two developments again raised the hope of relatives and friends of the 1,113 captives lingering behind bars here.

SOLON BLASTS JFK

21 Americans Held In Castro's Prisons

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., blasted the Kennedy administration Saturday for "letting American prisoners rot in jails around the world," including Cuba.

Cramer said that at the same time, the administration was "backing" the Cuban prisoner ransom "blackmail deal."

Cramer said in a statement: "Compassion for Cuban prisoners, is, for American prisoners, no, is the policy of the new frontier."

Cramer said he has been informed that 21 Americans were in Cuban prisons, "largely on bogus charges, and many are in ill health, being mistreated, and are underfed, but we hear little of efforts to get them out of prison..."

He said four Americans were in Red China prisons, one in Russia and four unaccounted for in North Korea.

"Our attitude about American prisoners rotting in Cuba's jails seems to be that nothing can be done for them short of efforts to free Cuba from Castro and communism," Cramer said.

"But our attitude about Cuban prisoners is that we must give in to Castro's ransom and indemnity demands and provide him with much-needed dollars, foodstuffs and medicine — all of which he can trade off for more war material to be used against us."

Cramer said the State Department refused to give the names of the 21 Americans in Cuban jails but said he obtained the names of 18 from other sources.

He released names of the 18.

Aerospace Meet Set October 27

The third in a series of Air Force Association aerospace education symposiums will be held Oct. 27 at Texarkana College in Texarkana with several space experts slated to be on hand for the one day session.

The meeting will be held in the college auditorium under the sponsorship of the Ark-La-Tex Air Power Council and the college.

The seminar will feature talks by Capt. Albert H. Crews of Alexandria, newly - named astronaut in the Dyna - Soar project; Dr. James A. Frasier, professor of physical science at the USAF Air University; Capt. Bart Slattery, USN; George C. Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala., and Maj. Gen. John S. Hardy, commander of Kesler AFB.

Also scheduled to attend the seminar are U. S. Senator James W. Fulbright, Ark.; U. S. Reps. Oren Harris of Arkansas, Wright Patman, Texas, and Joe D. Waggonner Jr. of Plain Dealing.

Maj. Gen. Hardy will highlight the afternoon session and Capt. Crews will be the principal speaker at 8:30 p.m. in the college auditorium.

On exhibit will be a large scale model of the Dyna - Soar and MC-2 space suit for astronauts, a special Dyna - Soar space showcase and a Titan II space vehicle.

A similar aerospace project held last year at Louisiana Tech in Ruston was called by former Tech President Dr. R. L. Ropp, "The most important project held on the LPI campus in its 63-year history."

Last year's project won an award for the Shreveport Times as the outstanding public relations project in 1961 among all newspaper in the United States.

Similar symposiums held in California, Utah, Boston, Pittsburgh and other cities have brought about marked developments in educational advancements toward meeting the needs of the space-age revolution, officials of the Air Force Association and the Aerospace Education Foundation said.

The Ark - La - Tex Air Power Council is an affiliate of the Air Force Association and the Aerospace Education Foundation. Dr. R. B. Robbins of Camden, Ark., is chairman of the council and the executive secretary is N. W. deBerardinis of Shreveport, public relations director of the Shreveport Times.

Other members of the Ark-La-Tex group are Howard T. Crumley and T. B. Lanford of Shreveport; J. Q. Mahaffey and Basil S. Hoag, Texarkana; J. C. Love, Ruston; T. M. Martin and Col. C. E. Haswell, El Dorado; Joe D. Smith and William Hamlin, Chester Bond and Col. Richard Travis, Alexandria; Robert Ewing Jr., New Orleans and Shreveport; R. A. McElvogue, Marshal, Tex.; F. L. Dahlstrom, Walter Hussman and Bob Hite, Camden; W. C. Blewster and Dr. Joe Rushton, Magnolia; and Lloyd Spencer, former U. S. Senator of Arkansas and Robert LaGrone, Hope.

Tickets can be obtained by applying by letter to Dean C. C. Burrus, Texarkana College, Texarkana, Ark - Tex. No fees or admissions will be charged for the seminar.

TWO HOSPITALIZED

Collision Fatal To Olla Woman

OLLA (Special) — Last rites for a 44-year-old Olla woman who lost her life in an automobile accident near Delhi Friday night will be held today at 3 p.m. in the First Baptist Church.

Mrs. Melba Gough Harris was killed in a head-on collision between the late-model car which she was driving and a pickup truck about four and a half miles north of Delhi on State highway 17 around 10:30 p.m.

Her husband, J. E. Harris Jr., 44, and their eight-year-old daughter, Nancy, were hospitalized. They were returning from a football game at Lake Providence.

The Rev. B. B. Cox, pastor of the church, will officiate and interment will be in the Olla Cemetery under the direction of the Riser and Son Funeral Home of Columbia. The remains will lie in state at the residence in Olla until time for the services.

Harris was in St. Francis Hospital of Monroe, Saturday, recovering from surgery and his daughter was reported improving from injuries not considered serious. They were transferred to the Monroe hospital from a Delhi clinic Friday night.

State police booked the driver of the pickup, Henry Henderson, 22-year-old Negro from Warden, in connection with the wreck. The Harris auto was traveling south and the Henderson vehicle was going north when the accident happened.

Other than her husband and daughter, Mrs. Harris is survived by one son, David Harris, also of Olla; one sister, Mrs. Lawfton Lurry of Irvingville; two brothers, Paul Gough of Urania and Audrey Gough of Houston; and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Gough of Urania.

Robbery Here Is Probed By Officers

A robbery in which a young man's wallet was taken from him outside West Monroe Friday was under investigation by the Ouachita Parish sheriff's department Saturday, while Monroe officers were investigating a burglary.

The Monroe officers also booked several on theft counts, and apprehended four Negro juveniles for shoplifting.

Fred Thomas, of 315 Irish St. West Monroe, reported the robbery which occurred on the Arkansas Road about three miles west of West Monroe Friday. Thomas, home on leave from the U. S. Marine Crops, told investigating officers he picked up a hitchhiker in front of the fairgrounds who later robbed him.

Thomas said the hitchhiker told him he lived on the Arkansas Road, and Thomas was taking him home. However, he stated that when they got about three miles outside the city limits, the unidentified man asked him to stop as he was sick.

While they were standing outside the car, the man attacked Thomas, took his wallet and fled. The billfold, described as black and tan with a Marine emblem on it, contained between $15 and $20 and his leave papers.

Monroe police were investigating the burglary of Walgreen's Drug Store at 149 DeSiard St. which occurred sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning. Investigating officers said the store was apparently broken out of, not broken into.

Chief James C. Kelly said that a small wooden cabinet containing money and barbituates was pried open, but assistant manager Aubry Chapman could find nothing missing.

Kelly said that the investigation indicates that someone was locked up inside the building, then pried open the cabinet and forced their way out of the store. He said the front door showed pry marks on the inside, and the front door lock was sprung. The incident was discovered and reported by Chapman, as he entered the store to open for business Saturday.

Monroe officers booked a 17-year-old Negro on two counts of unauthorized use of a movable (car) early Saturday morning. Kelly identified the youth as Marshall Lee Hackney, 3310 Church St., Monroe.

Monroe police also obtained a confession from two Negroes that they had shoplifted approximately $40 worth of merchandise from a downtown store. The pair, booked Friday afternoon for theft, were identified as Albert Edwards, 21, 817 Oak St., and Jessie J. Smith, 19, 310 8th St.

The four juveniles taken into custody Saturday morning by Monroe officers were charged with shoplifting approximately $7 worth of clothing and later released to the custody of their parents.

Another Negro, George Washington White, 29, of No. Two Tony's Alley, was booked for aggravated battery by Monroe police. White was booked in connection with the Sept. 22 attack on a 43-year-old Negro woman, Essie Bell Williams, of 123 Wallace St. She was attacked by a Negro at the rear of 802 Adams St. White was held under a $500 bond.

Monroe police were also investigating the report of either a stolen or lost billfold turned in by Mrs. Douglas Williams, of route three, box 295, Monroe.

She told officers that her black plastic wallet was either stolen or she lost in while shopping in Penney's Store downtown on DeSiard Street Saturday. The billfold contained approximately $33, her driver's license and identification papers.

They also received a report from Hugh Smith, Smith's Grocery, Renwick Street, that he lost a diamond ring Saturday. He said he lost the yellow gold ring around his store sometime Saturday.

West Monroe police reported a relatively quiet day.

ECUMENICAL DELEGATES

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The largest national group of prelates at the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council is Italian, with 430 among the 2,700 council fathers. The United States is next with 241, then Brazil, 204, and France, 159.

Mate Shoots Cigarette Out Of Wife's Lips

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mrs Dorothy Flanagan told a Magistrate Saturday she felt safe when she said "go ahead" to her husband's suggestion he shoot the cigarette out of her mouth "just for laughs."

She testified she counted nine bullets in the hand of her husband Robert, 27, as he sat on a chair, eight feet from her couch. She assumed the rifle he held was not loaded.

She explained to Magistrate Harry J. Ellick that she had taken nine bullets from the rifle several days ago.

Mrs. Flanagan said her husband replied "you know I wouldn't do that to you."

In the next instant, she said, "there was a deafening roar" and the cigarette flew out of her mouth. She said she ran to the street and summoned a policeman.

As Flanagan stood before the magistrate, his wife volunteered that her husband "had been drinking a little" but was no trouble when sober.

Ellick held Flanagan in $500 bail for the grand jury on a charge of wantonly discharging a firearm.

Pope Mixes With Leaders Of Churches

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Shunning his elevated throne, Pope John XXIII mixed warmly with Protestant and Orthodox church leaders Saturday night and promised them his utmost efforts to hasten the hour of Christian unit.

"If you could read my heart, you would perhaps understand more than words could say," Pope John told 39 non-Catholic observers to the Vatican Ecumenical Council who gathered in the Vatican Palace's Hall of Consistories for the special hour-long audience.

Never before had a pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church met with such a wide representation of other Christians. The confrontation was of an intimate nature unprecedented in the 400 years since the Protestant Reformation.

Meanwhile, progressive Roman Catholic leaders used a point of procedure to seize the initiative in the council's opening stages. The move reportedly drew an outburst of applause from assembled bishops and perhaps set the course of the historic meeting called to renew the Church and ease the way toward Christian unity.

For the audience with the Orthodox and Protestant observer delegates, Pope John ignored his empty throne atop a raised platform in the hall. Instead, he sat on a chair on the same level as the others, who were ranged around him in an intimate circle.

At one point, he moved about the room, greeting each one individually, shaking hands with some, embracing others, trading gentle banter with all.

On hand were representatives of world bodies of Lutherans, Presbyterians, Methodists, Congregationalists, Eastern Orthodoxy, Anglicans and others. They are attending the council's secret sessions but have no vote.

Speaking in French, Pope John told the group he "drew a special comfort from your presence."

Then referring to Christ's hopes for one flock, he said: "There burns in my heart the intention of working and suffering to hasten the hour when for all men the prayer of Jesus at the Last Supper will have reached its fulfillment."

ThePope continued: "It is now for the Catholic Church to bend herself to her work with calmness and generosity. It is for you to observe with renewed and friendly attention."

The Pope wore a simple white cassock and white skullcap for the audience.

Detailing his past association with non-Roman Catholics, before elevation to his present office, the Pope said: "I can not remember any occasion on which we were divided on principle nor that there was ever any disagreement on the plane of charity in the common work of helping those in need.

"We did not haggle, we talked together; we did not have discussions but we bore each other in good will."

WADE O. MARTIN JR.

Panel Slated On Personnel Management

BATON ROUGE (Special) — "Requisites for Effective Leadership" will be the subject of a panel discussion directed by secretary of state Wade O. Martin Jr., during the 10th annual Louisiana Public Personnel Management Conference to be held here Oct. 17-19.

Participating in the panel with Martin will be Dr. Arthur L. Seale, superintendent, Central Louisiana State Hospital, and Lee Brown, superintendent, Washington-St. Tammany Charity Hospital.

Following the panel, Martin will conduct a question and answer session on the basic qualities employers should look for in considering applicants for supervisory positions.

The panel on leadership is one of a series of discussions and addresses dealing with the problems and techniques of personnel management, to open Wednesday in the auditorium of the Public Welfare Building.

Dr. Seale received the B. S. degree from the University of Alabama, and was graduated from Tulane Medical School in 1931. In 1933 he became associated with Central Louisiana State Hospital at Pineville as assistant physician and psychiatrist and has since remained there, with the exception of four years in the armed services during World War II and about eighteen months in private practice.

Dr. Seale also was chief of psychiatry in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Alexandria. He has been superintendent of Central Louisiana State Hospital since 1949.

Senate Votes Equal Rights Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a parting shot at the House, the Senate adopted Saturday a resolution asserting it has an equal right under the Constitution to originate appropriation bills.

Furthermore, it said, it's willing to submit the issue to the judgment of a court or to a commission of "oustanding educators specializing in the study of the English language."

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., who offered the resolution, long has contended that anyone who could read and understand English would know that the Senate has just as much right as the House to originate appropriation bills.

Russell and other members of the Senate Appropriations Committee, however, haven't been able to convince their opposite numbers in the House. And they have been in a huff about it all year.

The issue was involved in a dispute that flared early in the session and stalled action on all appropriation bills for months.

At one point, before the deadlock over the measure was broken, the Senate adopted a continuing resolution that would have let the department spend at last year's level until Congress returned in January.

The House fired this right back to the Senate, saying it contravened the House's constitutional right to originate appropriation bills.

Russell's resolution took note of this and said the constitutional clause cited by the House provided only that all bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House.

"The acquiesence of the Senate in permitting the House to first consider appropriation bills can not change the clear language of the Constitution nor affect the Senate's co-equal power to originate any bill not expressly 'raising revenue'," the resolution declared.

ANABEL FEENEY is shown as she appears in daily physical fitness program Monday through Friday on KNOE-TV at 7:38 AM under sponsorship of CENTRAL BANK.

Central Bank Sponsors Daily Physical Fitness Program

In West Germany large companies place so much emphasis on physical fitness and consider it such an asset to better health for their employees that they pay for a teacher to come in to the plants to exercise their employees during coffee breaks. Officials report that the program more than pays for itself in reduction of employee absenteeism due to illness.

This information comes first hand from a dedicated American physical fitness instructor who recently returned from Germany where her husband was stationed with the United States Army. She is Mrs. Anabel Feeney, who now resides in Monroe with her army career-man mate who teaches in the ROTC program at Northeast State College. While Mrs. Feeney has already become well known in the Twin Cities where she has conducted classes in private homes and at the Paragon Club, her best opportunity to carry on her work comes with her early morning appearances on KNOE - TV each day Monday through Friday.

Starting tomorrow Central Savings Bank and Trust Company will sponsor her physical fitness program and engage in efforts to help her accomplish her aim of convincing every person in the viewing area of the importance of keeping physically fit.

Mrs. Feeney has an impressive background in her chosen field having studied at the University of Heidelberg in Germany where she received her diploma in 1956 and at the Sofie Trappe Seminar for physical fitness at Lindau on Boden Sea, Germany where she worked with teachers from England, Ireland, France, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Denmark. Because of her tireless efforts and teaching of German workers and children, she was given a membership in the exclusive Medau Institute Sports Club. She organized classes for American ladies in Germany. Since returning to the States she has devoted much of her time to teaching physical fitness among groups of children and adults. In Monroe, she has conducted a series of programs on KLSE, the State Educational TV Station. In addition to holding classes in the homes of some of Monroe's most prominent citizens where groups congregated, Mrs. Feeney still teaches lady members of the Paragon Club each morning in the Health and Beauty Bar.

She is gratified that several local doctors have recommended her TV exercise class to their patients and considers one of the big things to come into her life is Central Bank's making it possible for her to bring a physical fitness program into TV homes in this area.

The four juveniles taken into custody Saturday morning by Monroe officers were charged with shoplifting approximately $7 worth of clothing and later released to the custody of their parents.

Another Negro, George Washington White, 29, of No. Two Tony's Alley, was booked for aggravated battery by Monroe police. White was booked in connection with the Sept. 22 attack on a 43-year-old Negro woman, Essie Bell Williams, of 123 Wallace St. She was attacked by a Negro at the rear of 802 Adams St. White was held under a $500 bond.

Monroe police were also investigating the report of either a stolen or lost billfold turned in by Mrs. Douglas Williams, of route three, box 295, Monroe.

She told officers that her black plastic wallet was either stolen or she lost in while shopping in Penney's Store downtown on DeSiard Street Saturday. The billfold contained approximately $33, her driver's license and identification papers.

They also received a report from Hugh Smith, Smith's Grocery, Renwick Street, that he lost a diamond ring Saturday. He said he lost the yellow gold ring around his store sometime Saturday.

West Monroe police reported a relatively quiet day.

ECUMENICAL DELEGATES

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The largest national group of prelates at the Roman Catholic Ecumenical Council is Italian, with 430 among the 2,700 council fathers. The United States is next with 241, then Brazil, 204, and France, 159.

Mate Shoots Cigarette Out Of Wife's Lips

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Mrs Dorothy Flanagan told a Magistrate Saturday she felt safe when she said "go ahead" to her husband's suggestion he shoot the cigarette out of her mouth "just for laughs."

She testified she counted nine bullets in the hand of her husband Robert, 27, as he sat on a chair, eight feet from her couch. She assumed the rifle he held was not loaded.

She explained to Magistrate Harry J. Ellick that she had taken nine bullets from the rifle several days ago.

Mrs. Flanagan said her husband replied "you know I wouldn't do that to you."

In the next instant, she said, "there was a deafening roar" and the cigarette flew out of her mouth. She said she ran to the street and summoned a policeman.

As Flanagan stood before the magistrate, his wife volunteered that her husband "had been drinking a little" but was no trouble when sober.

Ellick held Flanagan in $500 bail for the grand jury on a charge of wantonly discharging a firearm.

Pope Mixes With Leaders Of Churches

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Shunning his elevated throne, Pope John XXIII mixed warmly with Protestant and Orthodox church leaders Saturday night and promised them his utmost efforts to hasten the hour of Christian unit.

"If you could read my heart, you would perhaps understand more than words could say," Pope John told 39 non-Catholic observers to the Vatican Ecumeincal Council who gathered in the Vatican Palace's Hall of Consistories for the special hour-long audience.

Never before had a pontiff of the Roman Catholic Church met with such a wide representation of other Christians. The confrontation was of an intimate nature unprecedented in the 400 years since the Protestant Reformation.

Meanwhile, progressive Roman Catholic leaders used a point of procedure to seize the initiative in the council's opening stages. The move reportedly drew an outburst of applause from assembled bishops and perhaps set the course of the historic meeting called to renew the, Church and ease the way toward Christian unity.

For the audience with the Orthodox and Protestant observer delegates, Pope John ignored his empty throne atop a raised platform in the hall. Instead, he sat on a chair on the same level as the others, who were ranged around him in an intimate circle.

At one point, he moved about the room, greeting each one individually, shaking hands with some, embracing others, trading gentle banter with all.

On hand were representatives of world bodies of Lutherans, Presbyterians, Methodists, Congregationalists, Eastern Orthodoxy, Anglicans and others. They are attending the council's secret sessions but have no vote.

Speaking in French, Pope John told the group he "drew a special comfort from your presence."

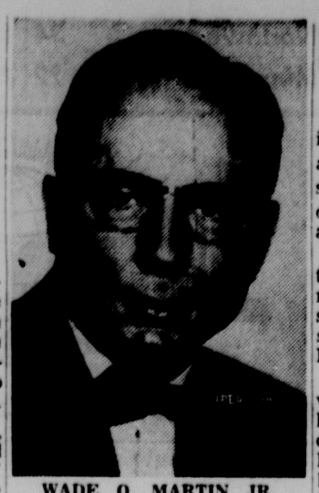
Then referring to Christ's hopes for one flock, he said: "There burns in my heart the intention of working and suffering to hasten the hour when for all men the prayer of Jesus at the Last Supper will have reached its fulfillment."

ThePope continued: "It is now for the Catholic Church to bend herself to her work with calmness and generosity. It is for you to observe with renewed and friendly attention."

The Pope wore a simple white cassock and white skullcap for the audience.

Detailing his past association with non-Roman Catholics, before elevation to his present office, the Pope said: "I can not remember any occasion on which we were divided on principle nor that there was ever any disagreement on the plane of charity in the common work of helping those in need.

"We did not haggle, we talked together; we did not have discussions but we bore each other in good will."



WADE O. MARTIN JR.

Panel Slated On Personnel Management

BATON ROUGE (Special) — "Requisites for Effective Leadership" will be the subject of a panel discussion directed by secretary of state Wade O. Martin Jr., during the 10th annual Louisiana Public Personnel Management Conference to be held here Oct. 17-19.

Participating in the panel with Martin will be Dr. Arthur L. Seale, superintendent, Central Louisiana State Hospital, and Lee Brown, superintendent, Washington-St. Tammany Charity Hospital.

Following the panel, Martin will conduct a question and answer session on the basic qualities employers should look for in considering applicants for supervisory positions.

The panel on leadership is one of a series of discussions and addresses dealing with the problems and techniques of personnel management, to open Wednesday in the auditorium of the Public Welfare Building.

Dr. Seale received the B. S. degree from the University of Alabama, and was graduated from Tulane Medical School in 1931. In 1933 he became associated with Central Louisiana State Hospital at Pineville as assistant physician and psychiatrist and has since remained there, with the exception of four years in the armed services during World War II and about eighteen months in private practice.

Dr. Seale also was chief of psychiatry in the Veterans Administration Hospital in Alexandria. He has been superintendent of Central Louisiana State Hospital since 1949.

Senate Votes Equal Rights Resolution

WASHINGTON (AP)—In a parting shot at the House, the Senate adopted Saturday a resolution asserting it has an equal right under the Constitution to originate appropriation bills.

Furthermore, it said, it's willing to submit the issue to the judgment of a court or to a commission of "oustanding educators specializing in the study of the English language."

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., who offered the resolution, long has contended that anyone who could read and understand English would know that the Senate has just as much right as the House to originate appropriation bills.

Russell and other members of the Senate Appropriations Committee, however, haven't been able to convince their opposite numbers in the House. And they have been in a huff about it all year.

The issue was involved in a dispute that flared early in the session and stalled action on all appropriation bills for months.

At one point, before the deadlock over the measure was broken, the Senate adopted a continuing resolution that would have let the department spend at last year's level until Congress returned in January.

The House fired this right back to the Senate, saying it contravened the House's constitutional right to originate appropriation bills.

Russell's resolution took note of this and said the constitutional clause cited by the House provided only that all bills for raising revenue shall originate in the House.

"The acquiesence of the Senate in permitting the House to first consider appropriation bills can not change the clear language of the Constitution nor affect the Senate's co-equal power to originate any bill not expressly 'raising revenue'," the resolution declared.

ANABEL FEENEY is shown as she appears in daily physical fitness program Monday through Friday on KNOE-TV at 7:38 AM under sponsorship of CENTRAL BANK.

Central Bank Sponsors Daily Physical Fitness Program

In West Germany large companies place so much emphasis on physical fitness and consider it such an asset to better health for their employees that they pay for a teacher to come in to the plants to exercise their employees during coffee breaks. Officials report that the program more than pays for itself in reduction of employee absenteeism due to illness.

This information comes first hand from a dedicated American physical fitness instructor who recently returned from Germany where her husband was stationed with the United States Army. She is Mrs. Anabel Feeney, who now resides in Monroe with her army career-man mate who teaches in the ROTC program at Northeast State College. While Mrs. Feeney has already become well known in the Twin Cities where she has conducted classes in private homes and at the Paragon Club, her best opportunity to carry on her work comes with her early morning appearances on KNOE - TV each day Monday through Friday.

Starting tomorrow Central Savings Bank and Trust Company will sponsor her physical fitness program and engage in efforts to help her accomplish her aim of convincing every person in the viewing area of the importance of keeping physically fit.

Mrs. Feeney has an impressive background in her chosen field, having studied at the University of Heidelberg in Germany where she received her diploma in 1956 and at the Sofie Trappe Seminar for physical fitness at Lindau on Boden Sea, Germany where she worked with teachers from England, Ireland, France, Germany, Austria, Switzerland, Denmark. Because of her tireless efforts and teaching of German workers and children, she was given a membership in the exclusive Medau Institute Sports Club. She organized classes for American ladies in Germany. Since returning to the States she has devoted much of her time to teaching physical fitness among groups of children and adults. In Monroe, she has conducted a series of programs on KLSE, the State Educational TV Station. In addition to holding classes in the homes of some of Monroe's most prominent citizens where groups congregated, Mrs. Feeney still teaches lady members of the Paragon Club each morning in the Health and Beauty Bar.

She is gratified that several local doctors have recommended her TV exercise class to their patients and considers one of the big things to come into her life is Central Bank's making it possible for her to bring a physical fitness program into TV homes in this area.

Guidance Center Aids In Problems

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles on the 13 agencies participating in the Ouachita Parish United Givers Fund.)

Four hundred local people with all types of emotional problems have received help from the Monroe Area Guidance Center this year.

With this on - the - spot United Givers Fund agency to help the mentally ill, Ouachita parish benefits in several ways.

"Our present caseload is 120 patients," states Mrs. Patricia Meriwether, clinical social worker.

"Of that number, we know that we have prevented 26 from having to be hospitalized.

"If each of these people earn $200 per month, they are bringing $5200 into the economic overall picture in the parish."

Officials also point out that the center presently sees 30 patients who had been hospitalized. This follow - up care helps them to remain out of a state institution.

"Certainly, in dollars and cents, if we keep these individuals out of the hospital, it represents a tremendous savings for the tax payers," officials note.

"Also, there is no way of estimating the number of marriages saved, nor even the number of lives.

"A large number of children have been helped with their emotional conflicts, so that they may be able to succeed in school and grow up to be emotionally stable, financially productive adults."

Rent and office supplies for the center are provided by United Givers Fund. This administrative expense comes to $4200 this year.

The staff put in a total of 6952 hours so far this year. The State Department of Hospitals pays their travel expense and salaries totalling $27,000.

Volunteers have put in 500 hours, on the Board of Directors and helping the center's operation, for a grand total of 7452 hours.

"This agency," points out Mrs. Meriwether, "is a mental health clinic where children and adults can receive evaluation and treatment of emotional disorders.

"Professionally trained staff members see the children and adults, and help them to understand and work out emotional conflicts which interfere with their everyday lives.

"The problems people have are varied. Adults may come to the Center with complaints of nervousness, irritability, physical ailments with no apparent physical causes, unreasonable fears and unrealistic demands on one's self and others.

"Parents may complain that they cannot get along with their children. They say that the children won't attend school, learn poorly, have temper outbursts and habit disorders.

"We treat them through interviews."

British Leader Praises Europe Common Market

LLANDUDNO, Wales (AP)—Prime Minister Harold Macmillan told 4,500 cheering party delegates Saturday Britain's entry into Europe's Common Market would signal a brilliant revival in European industry, trade, culture, sports and politics.

Declaring that the movement for European unity "has caught the imagination of the young," the 68-year-old Conservative asserted:

"Europe is once more on the move. This is a great moment of history."

The bubbling of revolt within the party against his plan to join the Common Market already squelched in the weeklong maneuverings at the party conference here, Macmillan appeared to be directing his words to Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and President Charles de Gaulle at the final session of the Conservative party's annual conference.

The West German chancellor and French president hold in their hands the British government's bid to enter the six-nation European trade group. Both men have appeared less than anxious for Britain's entry.

U.S. High Court Will Hear Appeals On Prayer Cases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, which won some plaudits and more criticism by striking down a New York State school prayer, is wading deeper into the emotional waters of church-state relations.

The court agreed this week to hear appeals on two more prayer cases, having many of the same elements, which resulted in opposing decisions in lower courts.

In Pennsylvania a three-judge federal court held unconstitutional a state law requiring the daily reading of 10 verses of the Bible. Officials of the state and of Abington Township appealed the decision, originally sought by Edward L. Schempp, a Unitarian living in a Philadelphia suburb.

In Maryland, the state supreme court upheld a Baltimore school board regulation requiring that school be opened each day with the reading of one chapter from the Bible or a recital of the Lord's Prayer. Mrs. Melyn E. Murray appealed. She said the school board ruling was offensive to her and her 11th grade son, William J. Murray. Both say they are atheists.

In both states children may be excused from participating.

The Supreme Court moved into the prayer situation in a 6-1 decision last June, which brought sharp reaction on both sides of the question.

The court held that a prayer prescribed by New York State officials for use in public schools violated the Constitution.

Many critics contended the court was banning all prayers in school and public functions. So sharp was the outcry that Justice Tom C. Clark recently departed from the custom of not commenting on a decision to express surprise at the criticism.

All the court had decided, Clark said, was that government can not take part in establishing religion under the federal Constitution.

Rulings on the two cases accepted by the court this week could help clarify the situation. But the problem of church-state relationships has been furrowing justices' brows for decades and any ruling on these cases won't be the final answer.

Since the court's opinions are, in themselves, guidance to lower courts, it is interesting to see the paths the court has followed on other church-state questions.

For instance, in 1930 the court upheld a Louisiana law permitting the state to provide free non-religious textbooks to children in church as well as public schools.

But only this week the court declined, without comment, to hear an appeal from an Oregon Supreme Court ruling that the state may not provide free textbooks to church schools.

In 1947, the court upheld New Jersey legislation allowing public bus transportation for parochial students.

In a pair of landmark decisions the court ruled against religious instruction during released time on public school property, but held that it was all right for students to be released from public school for religious instruction off school property during school hours.

The Baltimore regulation and Pennsylvania law which the court has agreed to examine are similar. Both say the Bible reading shall be without comment, precluding any discussion of it by the teacher.

JFK To Meet With Adenauer On Berlin Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and President Kennedy will meet here Nov. 7 in a new effort to align allied strategy on Berlin in advance of a possible conference between Kennedy and Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

Kennedy could conceiveably talk also with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and French President Charles de Gaulle if a Khrushchev trip to the United States should be decided upon. However, officials said Saturday there are no current plans for Western summit diplomacy beyond the Kennedy-Adenauer meeting.

Adenauer initiated the plan for his talk with Kennedy ten days ago and the White House made the public announcement Saturday.

While the United States, Britain, France and West Germany are agreed on the defense of West Berlin against any Soviet-Communist aggression or open threat to its supply line, there is evidence of disarray in Allied understanding of the approach to the expected new Berlin crisis in the next month or two. Most of the misunderstand seems to be in the Washington-Bonn relationship. Officials here privately say it is more apparent than real and that it is largely related to German domestic politics.

West German Foreign Minister Gerhard Schroeder will help prepare for the Adenauer visit in meetings next week with Kennedy, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

POLICE ARREST 15

Six Hurt In Wild Wisconsin Melee

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Six persons were injured and fifteen young men arrested in a wild, two-hour, early morning disturbance Saturday by a mob of from 3,000 to 5,000 persons near the University of Wisconsin campus in a prelude to the football game with Notre Dame.

Those charged with unlawful assembly included five Wisconsin students and three from Notre Dame. All defendants were placed under bail and ordered to report in court Monday morning.

The milling throng began to gather on state street near the campus after taverns closed at 12:45 a.m. It took a squad of 15 policemen, several firemen and Wisconsin Dean of Students Leroy Luberg two hours to restore calm.

At the start, the crowd was egged on by a few girls who waved lingerie from the windows of a dormitory.

Some of the men took up the chant: "We want panties."

Two dormitory custodians back members of a group trying to gain entrance to the dormitories. Both men were cut by flying glass.

The driver of a police squad wagon was struck in the eye by glass when a rock shattered the windshield, and a fireman driving a truck was hit in the face by a flying beer can. Another police officer was cut on the leg by a thrown beer bottle.

A car parked on an incline facing Lake Mendota was pushed into the water. Michael O'Connell, 20, of Waukesha, Wis., a student at Notre Dame, was asleep in the car. He waded to shore after getting soaked.

Police made arrests when their orders to disperse were unheeded.

Luberg described the scene as "a mob and a disturbance that could have turned into a major riot."

He said Wisconsin students arrested would be called before the faculty conduct committee and would face possible expulsion.

Luberg said approximately 1,000 Notre Dame students were in Madison for Saturday's game.

In addition to injuries to policemen and a fireman, a 20-year-old man suffered a broken foot when run over by a car in the melee and two employes of residence halls were treated for cuts from flying glass.

Gov. Barnett Acts To Protect Student Rights

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett appointed a nine-man committee Saturday to "protect the rights of students at the university of Mississippi."

Barnett said that since the invasion and occupation of the university campus by federal troops, it has come to his attention that violators of the constitutional rights of students have probably occurred.

Rioting broke out on the campus two weeks ago when federal marshals escorted Negro James H. Meredith on the campus for enrollment at the previously all-white school.

Barnett said reports indicate the students' constitutional rights to freedom of speech and freedom of assembly are also being threatened.

U.S. Seeking Meredith 'Acceptance'

By RELMN MORIN

OXFORD, Miss. (AP)—Federal officers are trying to achieve acceptance—or at least, indifference—for James Howard Meredith on the campus of the University of Mississippi.

"We want him to become as common a sight here as one of the trees," said a lawyer from the Department of Justice.

Meredith, a Negro, was forcibly enrolled at "Ole Miss" two weeks ago. Riots broke out immediately, and there have been some sporadic disturbances since.

Many students are inexorably hostile to the presence of he 29-year-old former Air Force sergeant.

Then how will the problem of making him a "common sight" be solved?

A new, and potentially dangerous technique, is being attempted by the federal agents. Here's how it works:

In the first few days, federal marshals walked beside Meredith in close formation when he went to classes. Then they let him walk alone, following some 30 to 40 feet behind.

On the fourth day, he entered the university library for the first time. Two marshals accompanied him. One or the other kept him in sight during the hour or so while he was there. But they were not always in the same room with him.

The same night, they escorted him to the university cafeteria. This was a bold step. The fight in the South over desegregating restaurants has been long and bitter, and has become one of the focal points of the whole civil rights controversy.

The marshals moved with him down the line, one ahead, the other behind him. They sat at his table during dinner. Thereafter, he began taking all three daily meals at the cafeteria.

Subsequently, the marshals walkes behind him in the line. It was all as unobtrusive as possible. The cafeteria is so large that not all the students were aware that Meredith was there.

On Thursday of last week, Meredith went to class by himself. Federal marshals were in the general area. A single student jeered as Meredith walked into Connor Hall. But later that night 100 to 150 students jeered him as he left the cafeteria.

The technique, in short, is to make Meredith's life on the campus appear as normal as possible in the circumstances.

EPIDEMIC HITS ISLAND

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) —More than a third of Greenland's population has been downed by measles in an epidemic which has afflicted the world's largest island since April. An official report issued Saturday said 10,771 cases were registered among the 32,000 Danes and natives on the island, with 49 native deaths attributed to the disease. Thule, site of a big U.S. Air Force base, was one of three settlements not affected.

Cities Mixing Old And New In Rebuilding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cities from coast to coast are mixing the old and the new in rebuilding run-down areas.

Along with the ripping out of rotted slums and commercial buildings and replacing them with gleaming, modern edifices, the planners are taking pains to preserve and restore structures of historical interest.

Federal law permits government slum clearance subsidy to be applied to the cost of acquiring historic sites, but not to restoring them in their original style. That's where the municipality, or quite often a citizens group, must shoulder the financial burden.

In a recent speech, William L. Slayton, head of the U.S. Urban Renewal Administration, listed more than a dozen cities in which historic restoration is mixed with urban renewal. Slayton's staff specialist on restoration, Margaret Carroll, reports: "I keep hearing of more that are cropping up."

In Bethlehem and York, Pa., Slayton said, when restoration of old structures is finished "it will be possible for the visitor to step back in time to the days of the revolution."

In Monterey, Calif., he reported, "the old streets will be closed to vehicles and returned to the pedestrian," bringing back to the area around the customs house the flavor of California's Spanish past.

Philadelphia's Society Hill project, an area filled with history and fine early American buildings, successfully blends the old with the new. It is planned to meet the demands of 20th Century living without destroying old city character.

Slayton cited similar projects in Mobile, Ala., Providence, R. I., Little Rock, Ark., New Haven, Conn., San Juan, P. R., Plymouth, Mass., and Wilmington, N. C.

He credited Jacqueline Kennedy's "restoration of the White House" as contributing to a revival of interest by Americans in their own past.

There are signs that word of the First Lady's search for genuine antiques of special significance for the White House has become well known in the land. A recent visitor to a southern city toured an 18th Century house built and occupied by a man of considerable political prominence in those parts at the time.

The house has been bought and restored by a citizens committee. One of the ladies on the committee was showing the house to the tourists from Washington.

In the kitchen she pointed out a wooden chair, which she related, had once belonged to George Washington when he was president. "But don't tell Mrs. Kennedy," she pleaded

"We want him to become as common a sight here as one of the trees," said a lawyer from the Department of Justice.

Meredith, a Negro, was forcibly enrolled at "Ole Miss" two weeks ago. Riots broke out immediately, and there have been some sporadic disturbances since. Many students are inexorably hostile to the presence of he 29-year-old former Air Force sergeant.

Then how will the problem of making him a "common sight" be solved?

A new, and potentially dangerous technique, is being attempted by the federal agents. Here's how it works:

In the first few days, federal marshals walked beside Meredith in close formation when he went to classes. Then they let him walk alone, following some 30 to 40 feet behind.

On the fourth day, he entered the university library for the first time. Two marshals accompanied him. One or the other kept him in sight during the hour or so while he was there. But they were not always in the same room with him.

The same night, they escorted him to the university cafeteria. This was a bold step. The fight in the South over desegregating restaurants has been long and bitter, and has become one of the focal points of the whole civil rights controversy.

The marshals moved with him down the line, one ahead, the other behind him. They sat at his table during dinner. Thereafter, he began taking all three daily meals at the cafeteria.

Subsequently, the marshals walkes behind him in the line. It was all as unobtrusive as possible. The cafeteria is so large that not all the students were aware that Meredith was there.

On Thursday of last week, Meredith went to class by himself. Federal marshals were in the general area. A single student jeered as Meredith walked into Connor Hall. But later that night 100 to 150 students jeered him as he left the cafeteria.

The technique, in short, is to make Meredith's life on the campus appear as normal as possible in the circumstances.

EPIDEMIC HITS ISLAND

COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) —More than a third of Greenland's population has been downed by measles in an epidemic which has afflicted the world's largest island since April. An official report issued Saturday said 10,771 cases were registered among the 32,000 Danies and natives on the island, with 49 native deaths attributed to the disease. Thule, site of a big U.S. Air Force base, was one of three settlements not affected.

Cities Mixing Old And New In Rebuilding

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Cities from coast to coast are mixing the old and the new in rebuilding run-down aeas.

Along with the ripping out of rotted slums and commercial buildings and replacing them with gleaming, modern edifices, the planners are taking pains to preserve and restore structures of historical interest.

Federal law permits government slum clearance subsidy to be applied to the cost of acquiring historic sites, but not to restoring them in their original style. That's where the municipality, or quite often a citizens group, must shoulder the financial burden.

In a recent speech, William L. Slayton, head of the U.S. Urban Renewal Administration, listed more than a dozen cities in which historic restoration is mixed with urban renewal. Slayton's staff specialist on restoration, Margaret Carroll, reports: "I keep hearing of more that are cropping up."

In Bethlehem and York, Pa., Slayton said, when restoration of old structures is finished "it will be possible for the visitor to step back in time to the days of the revolution."

In Monterey, Calif., he reported, "the old streets will be closed to vehicles and returned to the pedestrian," bringing back to the area around the customs house the flavor of California's Spanish past.

Philadelphia's Society Hill project, an area filled with history and fine early American buildings, successfully blends the old with the new. It is planned to meet the demands of 20th Century living without destroying old city character.

Slayton cited similar projects in Mobile, Ala.; Providence, R. I., Little Rock, Ark., New Haven, Conn., San Juan, P. R., Plymouth, Mass., and Wilmington, N. C.

He credited Jacqueline Kennedy's "restoration of the White House" as contributing to a revival of interest by Americans in their own past.

There are signs that word of the First Lady's search for genuine antiques of special significance for the White House has become well known in the land. A recent visitor to a southern city toured an 18th Century house built and occupied by a man of considerable political prominence in those parts at the time.

The house has been bought and restored by a citizens committee. One of the ladies on the committee was showing the house to the tourists from Washington.

In the kitchen she pointed out a wooden chair, which she related, had once belonged to George Washington when he was president. "But don't tell Mrs. Kennedy," she pleaded.

Solons, JFK Assailed In Bitter Fight

gram. He also was shooting at conservative southern Democrats who sided with the GOP many times to scuttle his welfare measures.

The Republicans fired back that Democrats caused all the President's troubles and that he needed fewer not less. They contended their "no's" were against reckless spending and more power for the executive branch. This was the theme drummed on by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in crusading for election of Republicans.

Involved in the last - minute congressional battles were three powerful figures—Chairman Howard W. Smith, D-Va., of the House Rules Committee, Chairman Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., of the House Appropriations Committee, and Sen Robert S. Kerr, D-Okla.

In essence, their battles were part of the age-old tug-of-war between the House and Senate over the action of the Senate in adding items to House-passed bills. The fights had delayed adjournment for days at least.

The House and Senate in an ill-tempered mood crawled over the last hurdles to adjournment by passing bills authorizing and appropriating money for "pork barrel" public works projects.

Jettisoned in the rush to close up shop was a catch-all $500 million supplemental appropriation measure.

Under the adjournment resolution, the next Congress—the 88th—will convene Jan. 9 to legislate during the last two years of President Kennedy's present term in the White House.

The windup was signalled by these actions:

The House passed a $5 billion money measure for public works projects and junked the supplemental appropriation bill. The Senate by voice vote passed a bill authorizing $2.2 billion in rivers and harbors project that had been approved by the House Friday. The Senate then passed and sent to the White House the public works appropriation bill clearing the decks for swift passage of the adjournment resolution.

Hopes for Friday adjournment were blasted late at night when the House could produce only 204 members—14 under a majority—for a roll-call vote on the $5-billion appropriations bill.

The roll call had been demanded by Rep. Clarence Cannon, D-Mo., who was irked by Senate action in putting into the supplemental money bill a $205,000 item stricken by House conferees from the public works bill.

But when Cannon moved Saturday for passage of the public works bill without the $205,000 for a survey of a cross-Florida canal, he lost on a 93-143 roll call. The main bill, with the Florida item included, then was passed by voice vote and sent to the Senate.

Cannon blasted the House leadership for its performance in the last few days of the session.

"I have served under 10 speakers," he said, "and never have I seen such biased and inept leadership."

A murmur of dissent swept the chamber at Cannon's words. He stopped talking abruptly and returned to his seat without a look at Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, who was presiding.

Just before attacking the leadership, Cannon spoke deridingly of the deals and counterdeals he said had been made in connection with the last big appropriation bills.

Rebels Claim Victory Over Yemen Rivals

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — Republican sources Saturday claimed a "crushing victory" over royalist tribesmen in northeast Yemen and added Prince Saif Al Islam Al Hassan was forced "to flee in panic back to Saudi Arabia."

Al Hassan is the claimant to the Yemen throne which was toppled Sept. 26 by army rebels led by Col. Abdullah Sallal who proclaimed a republic.

On the other hand, royalist sources claimed victories at two places 50 and 60 miles north and northwest of Sana, the capital. Radio broadcasts from Mecca, Saudi Arabia, and Amman, Jordan, both sympathetic to Al Hassan, said royalist tribesmen were pressing hard against besieged republican forces at Sinnar, 60 miles north of Sana, and scored fresh successes in the mountainous region of Hajja, 50 miles northwest of the capital.

Cairo radio, reporting republican claims, said royalist tribesmen suffered "the heaviest possible casualties" at Sadam, 15 miles south of the Saudi Arabian border in three days of stiff fighting.

Republican national guardsmen and air force, the broadcast said, strafed and bombed the tribal warriors who fled back to Saudi Arabia, leaving behind many dead.

The victory, the radio said, blocked an attempt to relieve pressure on royal warriors who had moved from British-protected Aden into the eastern fortress of Madrid. It also checked a plan to penetrate Yemen's coastal northwest from Saudi Arabia, Cairo radio said.

Indians, Pakistani Exchange Shots

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India embroiled in a bloody dispute with Red China along the Tibetan border, reported Saturday shooting along the Pakistani frontier.

The foreign ministry said trouble flared up in an area near Sabrum and Ramgarh. A government spokesman accused Pakistani troops of firing across the border with rifles, automatic weapons and mortars for the past 12 days.

"This unprovoked fire is being returned by the Indian border force," the spokesman said.

He made no mention of casualties.

The Indian spokesman said officials of the two countries met in an attempt to arrange a truce but the talks failed. India, he said, would welcome another peace conference.

Sporadic shooting has blazed along the India-Pakistan border for years but these troubles have usually been resolved by negotiation—unlike the standoff Prime Minister Nehru's government faces on the front with the Chinese Communists.

A lull appeared to have set in along the Tibetan border where India and the Chinese fought Wednesday and then reported more than 100 casualties.

The Nehru government rejected a Peiping charge that Indian planes made reconnaissance flights over a Chinese air field north of Lhasa, the Tibetan capital, Wednesday night.

New Delhi's reply to a Chinese note said Indian planes have strict orders to keep within India's borders and charged Peiping invested the overflight charge to whip up anti-Indian feeling among the Chinese.

Peiping charged Saturday that Indian troops that "intruded into the Chedong area of China's Tibet have continued to extend the scope of their aggression" and were "ready to launch attacks."

The Communist New China News Agency dispatch said Chinese frontier guards are "vigilantly on the alert." The agency said Indian troops made new "intrusions" after Wednesday's fighting northeast of the upper reaches of the Kechilang River.

Radio broadcasts from Mecca, Saudi Arabia, and Amman, Jordan, both sympathetic to Al Hassan, said royalist tribesmen were pressing hard against besieged republican forces at Sinnar, 60 miles north of Sana, and scored fresh successes in the mountainous region of Hajja, 50 miles northwest of the capital.

Cairo radio, reporting republican claims, said royalist tribesmen suffered "the heaviest possible casualties" at Sadam, 15 miles south of the Saudi Arabian border in three days of stiff fighting.

Republican national guardsmen and air force, the broadcast said, strafed and bombed the tribal warriors who fled back to Saudi Arabia, leaving behind many dead.

The victory, the radio said, blocked an attempt to relieve pressure on royal warriors who had moved from British-protected Aden into the eastern fortress of Madrid. It also checked a plan to penetrate Yemen's coastal northwest from Saudi Arabia, Cairo radio said.

TAX COLLECTION BATTLE

French Check Cars Leaving Monaco

MONTE CARLO (AP)—France shadow-boxed bewildered Monaco Saturday in their pantomime over who should pay what taxes.

French customs guards kept slipping out of the wings to check cars leaving the flower-strewn 368-acre principality flagging a portable sign reading: "Halt! Customs."

They attacked saying: "You have nothing to declare?"

The counterattack was "no."

The cars then sped ahead. The individual clashes lasted no more than 10 seconds.

One smiling customs official said at mid-day: "So far, no one has had anything to declare. There has been no difficulty at all."

A crew of customs inspectors also went aboard a few trains but failed to turn up evidence that passengers were smuggling anything more dangerous than suntan out of the Mediterranean paradise for gamblers and tax dodgers.

A stream of tourist buses rolled unmolested to the two ritaul stops in Monaco: The trim newly refurbished palace of Prince Rainier and fabled Monte Carlo Casino.

At the palace, where former American actress Grace Kelly presides as first lady, tourists scrambled out to take pictures of the six ancient cannon, with pyramids of cannon balls.

A palace guardsman in his natty blue uniform, with gaudy red stripes along the trousers and white puttees, marched ceremoniously up and down before the crenellated towers of the palace.

A weak sun came out late in the morning to add a dash of color against the blue sea.

At the gambling casino, where the whirl of the roulette wheel creates more anxiety than the tax collector, tourists could rush in for a quick test of luck in the high-ceilinged uncarpeted outer room which the croupiers call "The Kitchen."

Monacans kept their smiles but underneath there was some evidence of wounded pride. Monaco has been a French protectorate since 1861.

"Why don't they go away and let us alone?" one bartender asked.

"This is a fight between Frenchmen. Monaco is caught in the middle. The sooner the comedy is over, the better," added a businessman.

Death Claims Negro At 107

FARMERVILLE (Special) — A Negro funeral home here filed a death certificate this past week with the Union Parish Health Unit on a 107-year-old Negro man.

He was Ben Hendricks of Farmerville. The certificate listed his date of birth as June 27, 1855 in Union Parish. He died in a Monroe hospital.

Progressive Leaders Take Vatican Lead

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Progressive Roman Catholic leaders seized the initiative Saturday on a point of procedure, in the opening stages of the church's historic ecumenical council.

At the first general working session, influential churchmen of France, Holland and Germany, the heartland of new movements in Catholicism, headed off action on apparently ready-made slates for key legislative commissions.

They said more time was needed for assessing and nominating personnel for the 10 important groups that will draft proposals and channel them to the floor for council consideration.

The move, upheld by the gathering of 2,700 bishops, archbishops and cardinals from around the world, brought an early adjournment to the opening session. It lasted only an hour.

"Plenty of vigorous elements are evident here," Dutch Bishop Andrew Bronk said. "Some people thought this was going to be a cut and dried affair, with no changes. But that's not it at all."

Others saw a similarly energetic tenor in the beginning phases of the meeting, the first of its scope in a century.

"There is a more progressive note here," observed Bishop Thomas McCabe, of Wollongong, Australia. "It's quite definitely apparent that the bishops intend to meet the changing circumstances of the world."

It was Achille Cardinal Lienart, of Lille, France, who moved for the delay in naming 160 members of the subcommissions, a Vatican communique said following the closed meeting.

The motion was seconded by Joseph Cardinal Frings, archbishop of Cologne, Germany. He also reportedly acted in behalf of three other cardinal archbishops: Bernard Jan Alfrink, of Utrecht, Holland; Julius Doepfner, of Munich, and Franziskus Koenig, of Vienna.

These are leaders of a developmental church trend, mainly centering in the West European areas.

The movement seeks a decentralization of authority, fuller incorporation of the laity into the church's life, closer relations with other Christians, clarification of certain doctrines and other adjustments.

U.S. Troops Conduct War Games In Berlin

BERLIN (UPI)—U. S. forces equipped with tanks and helicopters staged a public "combat-in-cities" mock battle Saturday to underscore American readiness to defend West Berlin.

Hundreds of West Berlin spectators watched the war game at Parks Range, a mock village built to train Berlin-based U. S. troops in street fighting.

The "combat-in-cities" exercise was the highlight of two-day activities marking the 150th anniversary of the U. S. 6th Infantry Regiment. Two of the Army's three battle groups stationed in Berlin are part of the 6th Infantry.

Leaders In House Blasted

WASHINGTON (AP)—A blast by Rep. Clarence Cannon D-Mo., at "biased and inept leadership" sounded a discordant note at Saturday's final session of the House.

The chairman of the Appropriations Committee lashed out at Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, Majority Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Majority Whip Hal Boggs of Louisiana.

They sat silently through Cannon's tirade. When it was over, Albert walked over to Cannan and patted him on the arm.

Cannon, 83 and a veteran of more than 39 years in the House, was irked over his inability to knock from a public works appropriation bill a $265,000 allotment for a survey of the trans-Florida barge canal. The fight, started Friday, ended with Cannon on the losing side.

He accused Boggs of having stood "like an avenging angel" to prevent access to the speaker's desk Friday night and said Albert "assiduously opposed every effort at principle, every effort at economy, everything that the (appropriations) committee had done."

Cannon had been holding up action on a $500 million supplemental appropriation bill which he claimed was not needed and which Congress junked in its closing hours.

Friday night, he claimed, Albert told him that if Cannon would agree to let the supplemental measure go through, "we will turn and support you and give you this motion" to reject funds for the Florida canal.

"In other words, gentlemen," Cannon told the House, "justice is for barter and sale to the highest bidder. No one thinks about principle. No one thinks about the obligation of his office. They are ready to sell justice. At the end of these long months, the longest session Congress has ever had without any reason whatever—and I have sat under 10 speakers—I have never seen such biased and inept leadership."

McCormack, Cannon said, did not support the Appropriations Committee earlier in the year in its fight with the Senate over jurisdiction on money bills.

Swami Santha No. 102, Nomads of Avrudaka, will have a Halloween masquerade party 7:30 p.m. Monday in the dining room of Castle Hall, it was announced by Rani Callie Crow and Rajah Jim Tolson. Nomads from Shreveport, and El Dorado, Ark., are expected to attend the event.

DR. F. JAY TAYLOR

Tech Alumni Group Slates Meeting Here

Ouachita Parish members of the Louisiana Tech Alumni Assn. will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 16, at the Ouachita Parish Library, with the principal speaker to be Dr. F. Jay Taylor, president of the college in Ruston.

A. D. Williams of Monroe is making arrangements for the meeting at the library, which is located at North 18th and Stubbs.

Dr. Taylor became the 12th president of Tech on July 1, having resigned as dean of Louisiana College in Pineville to accept the Tech post.

After graduating from Gibsland High School in 1940, he attended Tech for two years, after which he enlisted as an aviation cadet in the United States Navy.

Dr. Taylor received a bachelor's degree in social science in 1948 from the University of California at Santa Barbara; a master's degree in history at Claremont Graduate School in 1949, and a Ph. D. degree from Tulane University in 1952.

Chamber Against Work Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — A shortened work-week would obstruct the national effort to speed up the rate of economic growth, a report by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce said Saturday.

The study, analyzing increasing demands by labor unions for a reduction in working hours to spread employment, suggested that the end-result could be the opposite — the spreading of unemployment.

The report noted, on the other hand, a variety of social gains that might result from cutting the 40-hour week to 38 hours, 36 hours or less. It mentioned more time for education, healthful recreation, civic activities and family life.

But the conclusions were similar to those reached by President Kennedy, who has opposed any "arbitrary" reduction of the work week as a potential handicap to business expansion at home and American trade overseas. Kennedy told a news conference he hopes instead to see "employment high five days a week, and 40 hours."

The Chamber study said a shorter work week standard "will inevitably raise total labor costs," and employers would be forced either to increase prices or reduce the amount of earnings devoted to research and investment.

This in turn would damage the ability of domestic goods to compete with foreign goods and in the long run could be self-defeating to labor, the Chamber said. It argued:

"In the highly competitive setting in which most firms operate today, the interests of labor will be better served if the level of profits of the business is adequate for continued investment than if the total increment goes to labor as higher wages or a shorter work-week.

"If profits are maintained through increased prices, inflation drains away the excess labor gain. But if profits are not maintained, enterprise failure and unemployment must follow."

Local Minister Says Methodist Giving Increased

Methodist overseas relief giving for the first four months of the current fiscal year has increased 28.09 per cent according to Rev. E. R. Haug of the Monroe District.

Rev. Haug, who attended the regional mid - quadrennial promotional conference of The Methodist church held in Houston, Tex., Oct. 10-11, said all "benevolent giving of the denomination" showed "substantial" increases except radio and television ministry and world mission advance special gifts.

World service giving, which includes both home and foreign missions, showed a total increase of 2.83 per year. Total for world service was $2,624,293.37, during these four months.

The Methodist committee on overseas relief which is responsible among other things for resettling Cuban refugees, received $201,077.01.

Accident Fatal To Local Negro On Nutland Lane

A 22-year-old West Monroe Negro was killed and two companions injured when their car went out of control on Nutland Lane south of Monroe Friday night, and crashed through a bridge railing into a canal.

Kary Clark Williams, of 1012 Bennie Breece Dr., West Monroe, was killed instantly when he was thrown from his car around 11:15 p.m. Friday. His two companions, Simon Smith, 23, Negro of 511 Haynes St., and James Earl Williams, Negro, 22, 1005 Ridge Dr., both of West Monroe, were rushed to Conway Memorial hospital for emergency treatment.

They reportedly sustained bruises and abrasions and were not seriously injured.

According to investigating state troopers of Troop F, the accident occurred 1.4 miles south of Monroe. Williams was driving south on Nutland Lane at a high rate of speed and apparently lost control of the car. The vehicle ran off the right shoulder of the road, struck a bridge railing and ran off into a canal. The front, rear and left side of the vehicle were damaged.

Williams' body was found approximately 120 feet west of the stopped vehicle, and according to Ouachita Parish coroner Dr. John P. Burton, death was instantaneous from internal injuries.

LATINS GET DRAINING

MEXICO CITY (AP) — About 9,000 Latin American are being trained under technical assistance programs of the Organization of American States, the United States and other countries of Europe and America. The figure was given in a report by OAS experts to a committee of the Inter - American Economic and Social Council.

Leaders In House Blasted

WASHINGTON (AP)—A blast by Rep. Clarence Cannon D-Mo., at "biased and inept leadership" sounded a discordant note at Saturday's final session of the House.

The chairman of the Appropriations Committee lashed out at Speaker John W. McCormack of Massachusetts, Majority Leader Carl Albert of Oklahoma and Majaority Whip Hal Boggs of Louisiana.

They sat silently through Cannon's tirade. When it was over, Albert walked over to Cannan and patted him on the arm.

Cannon, 83 and a veteran of more than 39 years in the House, was irked over his inability to knock from a public works appropriation bill a $205,000 allotment for a survey of the trans-Florida barge canal. The fight, started Friday, ended with Cannon on the losing side.

He accused Boggs of having stood "like an avenging angel" to prevent access to the speaker's desk Friday night and said Albert "assiduously opposed every effort at principle, every effort at economy, everything that the (appropriations) committee had done."

Cannon had been holding up action on a $500 million supplemental appropriation bill which he claimed was not needed and which Congress junked in its closing hours.

Friday night, he claimed, Albert told him that if Cannon would agree to let the supplemental measure go through, "we will turn and support you and give you this motion" to reject funds for the Florida canal.

"In other words, gentlemen," Cannon told the House, "justice is for barter and sale to the highest bidder. No one thinks about principle. No one thinks about the obligation of his office. They are ready to sell justice. At the end of these long months, the longest session Congress has ever had without any reason whatever—and I have sat under 10 speakers—I have never seen such biased and inept leadership."

McCormack, Cannon said, did not support the Appropriations Committee earlier in the year in its fight with the Senate over jurisdiction on money bills.

Masquerade

Swami Santha No. 102, Nomads of Avrudaka, will have a Halloween masquerade party 7:30 p.m. Monday in the dining room of Castle Hall, it was announced by Rani Callie Crow and Rajah Jim Tolson. Nomads from Shreveport, and El Dorado, Ark., are expected to attend the event.

DR. F. JAY TAYLOR

Tech Alumni Group Slates Meeting Here

Ouachita Parish members of the Louisiana Tech Alumni Assn. will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, Oct. 16, at the Ouachita Parish Library, with the principal speaker to be Dr. F. Jay Taylor, president of the college in Ruston.

A. D. Williams of Monroe is making arrangements for the meeting at the library, which is located at North 18th and Stubbs.

Dr. Taylor became the 12th president of Tech on July 1, having resigned as dean of Louisiana College in Pineville to accept the Tech post.

After graduating from Gibsland High School in 1940, he attended Tech for two years, after which he enlisted as an aviation cadet in the United States Navy.

Dr. Taylor received a bachelor's degree in social science in 1948 from the University of California at Santa Barbara; a master's degree in history at Claremont Graduate School in 1949, and a Ph. D. degree from Tulane University in 1952.

Chamber Against Work Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — A shortened work-week would obstruct the national effort to speed up the rate of economic growth, a report by the U.S. Chamber of Commerce said Saturday.

The study, analyzing increasing demands by labor unions for a reduction in working hours to spread employment, suggested that the end-result could be the opposite — the spreading of unemployment.

The report noted, on the other hand, a variety of social gains that might result from cutting the 40-hour week to 38 hours, 36 hours or less. It mentioned more time for education, healthful recreation, civic activities and family life.

But the conclusions were similar to those reached by President Kennedy, who has opposed any "arbitrary" reduction of the work week as a potential handicap to business expansion at home and American trade overseas. Kennedy told a news conference he hopes instead to see "employment high five days a week, and 40 hours."

The Chamber study said a shorter work week standard "will inevitably raise total labor costs," and employers would be forced either to increase prices or reduce the amount of earnings devoted to research and investment.

This in turn would damage the ability of domestic goods to compete with foreign goods and in the long run could be self-defeating to labor, the Chamber said. It argued:

"In the highly competitive setting in which most firms operate today, the interests of labor will be better served if the level of profits of the business is adequate for continued investment than if the total increment goes to labor as higher wages or a shorter work-week.

"If profits are maintained through increased prices, inflation drains away the excess labor gain. But if profits are not maintained, enterprise failure and unemployment must follow."

Local Minister Says Methodist Giving Increased

Methodist overseas relief giving for the first four months of the current fiscal year has increased 28.09 per cent according to Rev. E. R. Haug of the Monroe District.

Rev. Haug, who attended the regional mid - quadrennial promotional conference of The Methodist church held in Houston, Tex., Oct. 10-11, said all "benevolent giving of the denomination" showed "substantial" increases except radio and television ministry and world mission advance special gifts.

World service giving, which includes both home and foreign missions, showed a total increase of 2.83 per year. Total for world service was $2,624,293.37, during these four months.

The Methodist committee on overseas relief which is responsible among other things for resettling Cuban refugees, received $201,077.01.

Accident Fatal To Local Negro On Nutland Lane

A 22-year-old West Monroe Negro was killed and two companions injured when their car went out of control on Nutland Lane south of Monroe Friday night, and crashed through a bridge railing into a canal.

Kary Clark Williams, of 1012 Bennie Breece Dr., West Monroe, was killed instantly when he was thrown from his car around 11:15 p.m. Friday. His two companions, Simon Smith, 23, Negro of 511 Haynes St., and James Earl Williams, Negro, 22, 1005 Ridge Dr., both of West Monroe, were rushed to Conway Memorial hospital for emergency treatment.

They reportedly sustained bruises and abrasions and were not seriously injured.

According to investigating state troopers of Troop F, the accident occurred 1.4 miles south of Monroe. Williams was driving south on Nutland Lane at a high rate of speed and apparently lost control of the car. The vehicle ran off the right shoulder of the road, struck a bridge railing and ran off into a canal. The front, rear and left side of the vehicle were damaged.

Williams' body was found approximately 120 feet west of the stopped vehicle, and according to Ouachita Parish coroner Dr. John P. Burton, death was instantaneous from internal injuries.

LATINS GET DRAINING

MEXICO CITY (AP) — About 9,000 Latin American are being trained under technical assistance programs of the Organization of American States, the United Nations, the United States and other countries of Europe and America. The figure was given in a report by OAS experts to a committee of the Inter - American Economic and Social Council.

Zoo Introduces More Tenants

A new addition at the Monroe zoo featuring a reptile - ape house will be opened to the public October 28th when the Monroe Optimist Club sponsors "A Day at the zoo with Arthur Jones."

Finance Commissioner H. W. McSherry said Saturday an array of new animals and reptiles will be introduced with big game hunter Arthur Jones staging exhibitions at the one - day event.

The reptile - ape house — soon to be completed at the Bernstein Park zoo — will house the new attractions including numerous animals and reptiles from foreign countries.

McSherry said by the time the special "zoo day" is held the city will have obtained the following new animals and reptiles:

Giant monitor lizards, Gavin, 1300 - pound crocodile, four regal pythons including one that is 31 - feet long, Indian Rock phythons, cobras, boa constrictors, Himalayan Bear, American Bison, Eland (largest of the antelopes), Jaguar, pair of panthers, a leopard, a pair of grown chimpanzes, orangutan, mandrill baboon, a pair of ocelots, monkeys, an African ostrich, mynah birds, cockatoos, luries and Eclectus parrots.

"We know that we will have an assortment of animals and reptiles that will interest everyone," McSherry said.

He pointed out that the zoo has been under a re - development program of the past several months — guided by zoo director Kit Beecher, formerly associated with Arthur Jones.

Cost of the new reptile - ape house is estimated at $20,000.

Plans for the "zoo day," which is two weeks from today, include animal and reptile exhibitions by Jones, who supplied the city with many of the new attractions. The event will run from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m.

McSherry said the Optimist Club will accept voluntary contributions of 10 cents per person attending the event. Proceeds will go to the construction of a tiger cage at the zoo by the Optimist Club.

"We are fortunate in having the Optimists work with us in the planning of this special event, especially since we expect a large turn - out," McSherry explained. "They contributed one of our most popular zoo attractions — the monkey island."

Area Children's Group Meets In Ruston Thursday

The North Louisiana Association on Children Under Six had its fall meeting at the First Baptist Church Day School in Ruston Thursday.

Miss Sarah Nell Taylor, reading consultant at Northeast Louisiana State College, spoke to the group on "Initial Reading Readiness." After her talk, a lively discussion followed on what preschool could do to make children ready for the first grade.

The meeting was well attended by nursery and kindergarten teachers from Bastrop, Minden, Monroe, West Monroe, Ruston, Shreveport, and Bossier City.

The president, Mrs. Harry Lafoe of St. Christopher's Day School, Monroe, reminded all present to make plans to attend the all - day summer workshop next June.

Soviets Say Vatican Now On Decline

MOSCOW (AP)—A Soviet newspaper said Saturday the Vatican ecumenical council is attempting to find a way out of the Roman Catholic Church's "spiritual and political crisis."

"The Catholic Church is in decline and is going through a crisis," said an article in the youth newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda. "The modern Vatican is reminiscent of a live corpse. And no matter what dress this live corpse puts on and no matter what kind of invocations are prounced over it, nothing can resurrect it."

The Komsomolskaya Pravada article, written by I. Lavretsky, was the first editorial coment on the council to appear in the Soviet press this week. It said the Catholic Church hierarchy is split between "cold war advocates" and leaders who oppose what it called the Vatican's "anti-Communist policies."

"The reactionary policies of the Catholic hierarchy, gigantic scientific progress which the Catholic Church actually opposed, the Western civilization with whose fate the church bound itself, the liberation of colonial peoples from the imperialist yoke, the gigantic successes of the Soviet Union and other Socialist countries of Europe and Asia in the building of socialism—these are the causes of the spiritual and political crisis in which the Catholic Church now finds itself and out of which the council will try to find an outlet," the article went on.

The statement criticized Pope Pius XII, saying he had been "seized with hysteria" against communism.

"The present Pope is just as zealous an anti-Communist as his predecessor, Pius XII, but he displays greater political flexibility," it said. "John XXIII refrains from a public defense of 'cold war' policy.

Congress Hands JFK Victories, Stunning Defeats During Session

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's first full Congress, the 87th, gave him a dizzying succession of gratifying victories, stunning defeats, and halfway compromise measures.

Beyond doubt the President's greatest success was scored with passage of the new foreign trade bill, giving the chief executive broad powers to conduct tariff negotiations. It was the most far-reaching trade legislation in nearly 30 years.

One of Kennedy's most staggering setbacks was rejection of his health insurance plan for elderly persons to be financed under the Social Security program.

In its two sessions extending over 18 months, the 87th probably received more requests for legislation than any previous Congress, and in disposing of these requests it set up some hot issues for this year's congressional elections—and probably for the 1964 presidential campaign as well.

Despite heavy Democratic majorities in both Senate and House, it was no "rubber stamp" congress.

It started out in 1961 with new leadership in the Senate and began the second session in 1962 with new leadership in the House. Sen. Mike Mansfield of Montana became the Democratic majority leader of the Senate when Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas was installed as vice president in January 1961. John W. McCormack of Massachusetts became speaker of the House in January 1962, succeeding Sam Rayburn of Texas, who died last November.

Mansfield had a majority of 64 Democrats to 36 Republicans in the Senate and McCormack had a 261-174 edge in the House. Many of these Democrats were conservative Southerners, however, who didn't always follow the party line.

Two of the President's major defeats were in the House. It killed his proposal to create a department of urban affairs and housing, and the House Rules Committee shelved an aid to education bill passed by the Senate.

The House also was responsible for the President's failure to win approval of a more rigid crop production control bill, a bill to help colleges build classrooms, extended unemployment compensation this year, a mass transportation bill and a youth employment opportunities act.

The House Rules Committee, enlarged in an administration effort to smooth the way for the President's program, played a prominent role in retarding major phases of it. Still in committee files are such big bills as the general aid to education measure, the youth employment opportunities bill and the mass transportation bill.

But it wasn't all minus for the President on the domestic front.

Congress granted his requests for aid to economically depressed areas, an increase in minimum wages and expansion of coverage, broadening of the Social Security program, extension of his reorganization powers, extension of the housing program, increased postal rates, higher pay for federal employes, a manpower retraining program, an anti-recession public works program, stricter food and drug controls, and creation of a communications satellite corporation.

It also gave him new farm legislation and new tax legislation, both short of what he wanted.

It was in the field of international operations and national defense that the president chalked up his major victories.

Congress extended the foreign aid program for five years and financed it with almost $8 billion in new funds. It appropriated close to $100 billion for military programs. Twice it granted his requests for power to call military reservists to active duty. It gave legal status and financial support to the Peace Corps. It authorized purchase by the United States of $100 million in United Nations bonds.

Confronted by Communism in Berlin, Cuba and Asia, it was a nonpartisan Congress where foreign affairs were concerned.

Among its major legislative accomplishments, the 87th:

Overhauled the tax structure but refused to approve withholding of taxes on dividend and interest income.

Submitted to the states a proposed constitutional amendment to outlaw poll taxes.

Approved creation and enlargement of the Peace Corps.

Created 73 new federal judgeships.

Authorized the United States to lend up to $2 billion to the International Monetary Fund to strengthen world currencies.

Established the office of science and technology.

Approved reorganization plans for the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Federal Trade Commission and the Federal Maritime Board.

Raised the national debt limit three times.

Extended until Dec. 31, 1964, the sugar act allocating quotas for importation.

Appropriated almost $200 billion, including more than $100 billion for defense and foreign aid.

Tightened the foreign agents registration law.

Created an arms control and disarmament agency.

Extended the President's authority to use surplus food to help needy foreign countries.

Renewed its opposition to admission of Communist China to the United Nations.

Established a U.S. travel office to encourage tourist travel from abroad.

Authorized an increase in highway-use taxes to speed completion of the interstate highway system.

Continued federal aid for school districts burdened by an influx of government workers.

BIG BOOM

Sounds that are familiar to residents of the Twin Cities area and the northeast district, are causing the U. S. Air Force waves of troubles. The sounds are sonic booms which occur when planes exceed the speed of sound. The Air Force has been plagued with many claims for damage. Here is a report on the situation.

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the U.S. Air Force troubles come in waves these days — sound waves.

It all started back in 1955 when the first airplane capable of passing the speed of sound-762 miles an hour at sea level—in straight-away flight was added to the Air Force arsenal and designated the F86.

Those mysterious, man-made thunderclaps known as the sonic boom shortly began to be heard all over the country.

Since then the Air Force has added larger and faster aircraft to its inventory and the booms have become more frequent and louder to the continued irritation of some people coast to coast.

SOME SCARED

Windows have been broken by these booms, plaster cracks widened, dishes broken and bric-a-brac bounced around. And a good many people have been frightened witless, convinced that the boom spells doom.

One man wrote the Air Force that he was just about to light a cigarette when he was assaulted by a sonic boom and the cigarette was snapped in twain. He forwarded the cigarette to the Air Force as evidence and demanded a new one in return. He got it, but not from appropriated federal funds. It came from the private stock of an officer.

The greatest tale of woe yet recorded, though, came from a farmer. He said he was sitting in his living room next to his pot-bellied stove when the great shock wave struck him.

Well, sir, he allowed, he was knocked off his rocker and that jarred the stove so badly that live coals were scattered about the floor and set the place on fire.

In the ensuing scramble, he said, his trousers were burned, holes scorched in his shoes and assorted furniture was overturned and damaged.

As a patriot, he added, he was willing to forego claims for damage to the house, stove and furniture, but he was upset about losing his pants and shoes. Would the Air Force replace his trousers and send him a pair of shoes, size 9E? The Air Force declined.

CLAIMS

Since 1956 the Air Force has processed over 3,389 claims against the government for sonic boom damage. These claims totaled $1,461,661. It approved only 1,539 at a cost to the government of $159,234.

The first big year was 1961 when the bomber known as the B58 Hustler came into widespread operation in the Strategic Air Command. This job flies at 1,500 plus miles an hour on practice bombing runs over certain cities.

With the advent on the B58 claims jumped from 681 in 1960 to 1,146 in 1961. It is, incidentally, the only military aircraft in any service which deliberately and systematically breaks the so-called sound barrier.

Fighter aircraft are forbidden to travel faster than sound unless they are on a "scramble" mission to intercept unidentified aircraft approaching vital areas.

Except for the intercept missions, all military aircraft are forbidden to pass the speed of sound under 30,000 feet; 35,000 feet for the B58.

So what is a sonic boom?

As a plane reaches and passes the speed of sound-660 miles an hour at 35,000 feet-it compresses the air ahead and this compressed air flows around the aircraft forming a large cone.

When it reaches the ground the base of this cone may be 50 miles wide. The sound is created by the sudden flow of the compressed air around the airplane. The plane compresses the air and then the air explodes around the plane, passing over, under and around, creating a noise.

The forward rush of the released air also creats a vacuum behind it and the air rushing to fill this vacuum creates a second noise.

In the case of aircraft at high altitude, these two noises reach the ground often as a single, prolonged thunderclap. You can achieve a sort of minor sonic boom by popping the cork of a full champagne bottle.

Despite assertions to the contrary, the Air Force will not buy claims of structural damage attributable to sonic booms.

Maj. Edward Hilding, a desk-bound jet jockey in the Air Force's Community Relations Division, is the man in charge of sonic boom complaints.

"We in the Air Force," he said, "don't accept the statement that sonic boom will cause structural damage. In some atomic tests we found that it took 70 pounds of pressure per square foot to damage real flimsy construction.

"With the sonic boom, we'll cause pressures of two to four pounds.

"Of course," Hilding continued, "it is a shock wave and it will cause glass to break under certain circumstances by adding slight stresses.

"But nothing we have has shown that sonic boom will cause structural damage. Old cracks in old plaster may be widened, but that is about all."

Hilding said a mink farmer had claimed a sonic boom so frightened his minks that they turned on their young and destroyed them. And turkey farmers, he continued, have claimed damage.

The major said he wasn't well briefed on the habits of minks and so he couldn't say whether the sonic boom was really to blame, but he didn't think so.

As for turkeys, he added, "they will panic when they are in flocks, huddle against a fence and smother each other to death, but we don't think the panic is caused by the boom. Any large shadow overhead will panic flocks on the ground and so we think these things are caused by low-flying aircraft, not the boom."

INVESTIGATION

When a claim for damage is received, said Hilding, "we send out a team of experts-an engineer, a photographer and a lawyer type. An investigation is made of every complaint."

Each investigation costs the government about $200.

The sonic boom was first discovered in 1950 when an Air Force radar technician was using a new technique to gather test data by tracking a jet in a steep dive.

In the midst of his work he was startled by a loud thunderclap from a clear sky.

Puzzled, he then asked the jets to go upstairs and make four quick dives. He got four thunderclaps.

"In 1950," said Hilding, "it was quite a novelty and every country fair and air show in the country wanted a demonstration. So we would send around a jet and go boom-boom. When we found out what it was and what it could do, we quit."

With the advent of the B58 in numbers the Air Force expects the sonic boom problem to continue to increase, especially from people awakened in the middle of the night by booms.

The Air Force makes the point in its literature on the subject that "the next war-if there is one-will be supersonic. If our airmen are to fight supersonically, they must train supersonically."

Thus, the boom problem is going to get worse.

"Millions of people," said Hilding, "are exposed to this thing, but we find that if we explain why we are doing it, we find acceptance."

Most resistance, he said, comes from people who live in glass houses.

FALL, the mellow season, is in full swing. Soon the few remaining on - the farm syrup mills in the area will be radiating sweet aromas and steam as sugar cane juice is boiled into delectable syrup. And roadside stands will be featuring stalks of sugar cane for sale for those who like to cut them into small pieces and chew them to enjoy the sweet nectar. Of course, just ahead is the annual leaf raking task, when dry foliage billows down from many points. To some beleaguered persons it may seem that some leaves were in orbit for several minutes, coming from distant points before settling on mountainous piles of foliage just ahead of the rake.

AZUSA, Calif. (AP) — Two years from now developers expect the first test cruise of a submarine that could revolutionize undersea warfare and oceanographic research.

Its hull, spun from glass fibers finer than baby hair, should be many times stronger than steel and one-fourth the weight, enabling it to:

1. Descend safely and swiftly to the deepest trenches in the ocean floor, and even there maneuver with ease.

2. Shrug off all but direct hits by nuclear weapons.

3. Resist indefinitely the corosiveness of salt water, which, since the development of nuclear propulsion, is the major factor limiting how long a vessel may stay submerged.

Experiments in the United States point to the development soon of a submarine that may have a drastic influence on the modes of undersea warfare and underwater research.

EXPERIMENTING

A dozen or more companies are experimenting with glass-fiber submarines. One of them, the missile-making Aerojet-General Corp., recently disclosed some of its findings.

In an interview Edward L. Rucks, manager of Aerojet's Astrachem Advanced structures and chemistry Division, made this prediction:

"It takes a year to fabricate the hull of a Polaris-type submarine from steel. We have designed equipment which could fabricate a hull of the same size from glass fibers in less than two weeks."

Rucks exhibited a model of a glass-fiber spinning machine which he said could be made large enough to build hulls of unlimited size-up to hundreds of feet long.

The hull is shaped by winding threads of glass fiber around a core, or mandrel, in much the same way that a boy winds kite string around a stick-looping the string over the top, then the bottom, and turning the stick as he winds.

The threads can't ravel. They are impregnated with a resin that binds them together as it dries. When the thread has been laid on in thousands of thicknesses, from spools that travel up and down as the mandrel turns, the hull is baked.

The foot - thick finished product, says Rucks, is virtually indestructible.

COST HIGH

The only major drawback found so far is the cost, about double that of a hull made of steel.

"Once we get into production I am sure the cost will go down appreciably," Rucks says. "The greater strength of the hull and the speed with which it can be manufactured, however, more than compensate for the extra cost."

The only vessel built so far which can reach the depths planned for glass - fiber submarines is the bathyscaphe Trieste. This weird looking "water balloon" descended to the deepest part of the ocean-37,800 feet to the bottom of the Marinas Trench in the Pacific—Jan. 22, 1960.

The Trieste carries two men in a six-foot-diameter ball of steel with walls a foot thick.

Rucks displayed two models of submarines which he said could "fly" through water at any depth as aircraft fly through the atmosphere.

"We anticipate speeds of 60 to 90 knots," Rucks said, "depending upon the kind of power plant that is used. We are designing for nuclear propulsion eventually, but the first test hulls — which I expect will be in the water in two years—may use batteries and electrical motors."

CAPACITY

The first glass-hulled submarines, he said, probably will carry two to five men.

The glass - fiber submarine project is an offshoot of research on casings for solid-fuel rockets. These casings, also made of spun glass fiber, have to resist thousands of pounds of internal pressure to keep the rocket from exploding like a firecracker.

Experimentation showed that the casings also were resistant to external pressure, and the idea for spun-glass submarines was born.

Rucks admits that pressure-resistant hulls can be made of steel, but, he says, "they are so heavy they have no buoyancy, and you have to have buoyancy for maneuverability."

Something New Underseas

City Improvement Bonds

While all of the projects sought in the proposed $11,250,000 Monroe city capital improvement bond issue are worthy, the need for a new city hall stands out most like a sore thumb. Built 52 years ago, in 1910, the present city hall has been antiquated and dilapidated for more than a quarter of a century. It is the one thing in Monroe that puts the biggest damper on civic pride.

Paralleling in importance the need for a new city hall are four other proposed improvements which would make Monroe an up and coming city and one to which its citizens could point with pride. In addition, each of these propositions would fill a vital need.

An election to allow the people of Monroe to vote on the proposed bonds has been called for November 20 by the city council.

With a two-mill tax to be levied in 1963 to finance the 30 - year bond program, the council voted unanimously to present what it describes as a "long - range improvement program" to city property owners for approval.

The five propositions, which property owners can vote on separately, are as follows:

No. 1 — $2,750,000 for the construction of a sewerage treatment plant.

No. 2 — $4,650,000 for the construction of a municipal auditorium and civic center.

No. 3 — $650,000 to expand the city fire department, including the purchase of new equipment and construction of new station facilities.

No. 4 — $2,800,000 for the construction of a new City Hall, including a jail and city court.

No. 5 — $400,000 for a new airport terminal building and other airport facilities.

The council issued a joint statement urging property owners to support the program.

Mayor W. L. (Jack) Howard pointed out that if approved the projects will be completed by late 1967 or early 1968.

He said the council plans to sell $6 million in bonds in 1963, $3 million in bonds in 1965 and the balance in 1966. A maximum of 6 per cent interest can be charged in the sale of the bonds.

With warnings from the Department of Health to stop dumping the city's sewerage in the Ouachita River, the council listed the sewer plant as No. 1.

For the last three years the city council has been working with the city planning commission, architects, engineers, consultants and local citizens committees to perfect a long - range plan for major capital improvements.

These studies were completed and turned over to a citizens committee for evaluation and recommendation. The council held many meetings with various groups throughout the city in an effort to obtain advice from as many people as possible regarding these projects and what course the city council should follow.

The citizens committee, composed of many outstanding citizens, recommended that the city move forward as rapidly as possible in obtaining these improvements.

Everyone knows that a city must move forward or backward. There is no such thing as standing still. A city either keeps step with progress and advances or it decays and falls by the wayside as more progressive cities attract industries and people.

With more than 20,000 boys and girls in the two school systems, we must put our best foot forward and plan for the future. These young people soon will be out of school and become a part of our labor force, seeking jobs. Many of them will want to make Monroe their home.

Our city has reached a point in its growth and development at which we must provide these necessary improvements if we are to maintain a healthy, growing community, thereby providing additional job opportunities for our citizens.

Other cities have shown that by keeping in step with competing cities, by providing modern facilities, they can expand and grow and provide new jobs and improve their economy.

Fortunately, there has been no organized opposition to the proposed improvements. Most people realize the vital necessity of these projects. Some of them have reached the stage of absolute "musts." The city hall has been condemned as unsafe and anyone who goes into it realizes that it is a dillapidated trap. Without a sewerage plant, the situation in Monroe would be catastrophic if the health department should order the city to stop dumping sewage into the Ouachita River.

The proposed additional two-mill tax is not large. It will be a small price to pay for giving the city a handsome face, for providing civic advantages and for encouraging the economic growth of our city so our boys and girls can stay in their own progressive city instead of having to move to another.

North Louisiana Solons

Citizens of north Louisiana can be proud of one record established by members of the legislature from their areas.

The north Louisiana members of the house of representatives had an average of 85.7 per cent on the number of times they responded to roll calls and voted. This compared with 78.7 for those of south Louisiana.

Senators from north Louisiana had an edge over their south Louisiana colleagues of 95.4 per cent to 86.9 per cent.

On the whole, the legislators punched their voting buttons more faithfully in the 1962 legislative session than in several previous years.

Figures on the voting records were compiled by the Public Affairs Research Council of Louisiana.

PAR said Senator Harold Montgomery of Doyline led all members with a 100 per cent voting record on 998 roll calls in the senate. One senator voted on only 42.2 per cent of the roll calls.

Representative Dudley Bernard of Lafourche Parish led all representatives with a 99.8 per cent voting record of 1,120 roll calls in the house. One members of the house voted only 37.6 per cent of the time.

Since 1958, PAR has tabulated and published the percentage of votes each legislator casts on roll call votes. In 1958, the voting record of the house as 69.5 per cent, whereas, in the 1962 session, it was 81.2 per cent. The senate had an average of 82.5 per cent in 1958 and 90 per cent in 1962.

Three members of the house, in addition to Representative Dudley Bernard, and eight members of the senate, besides Senator Montgomery, voted on 99 per cent or more of the roll calls.

Those listed for the house were Representatives Elmer Bernard of West Baton Rouge, Henry Bethard of Red River and Joe Cooper of DeSoto.

Senators listed were Cecil Blair of Alexandria, Garland Bonin of Lafayette, W. J. Cleveland of Crowley, J. C. Gilbert of Sicily Island, Speedy Long of Jena, B. R. Patton of Farmerville, C. M. Poston of Hornbeck and Grady Stewart of Albany.

PAR gave consideration to the fact that there are times when members are authorized to be absent. In the house, members were absent with authorization in 1.6 per cent of the roll call votes and senators had average authorized absences of 1.8 per cent.

To the Editor:

Columnist de Toledano wrote in a recent column that a congressman had told him privately that in his opinion (the congressman's) a resolution declaring war on Cuba would pass both houses in a hurry — BUT, there wasn't a member of congress who would dare introduce such a resolution.

The obvious and logical question is: Why not? Any number of representatives and senators have said publicly that we should go down there and clean out the nest of communists. The resolution itself would mean nothing unless implemented by the President, assuming that it passed both houses. The record of how he voted would however, have been something for each member of the house to take back to this constituents on Nov. 6.

I wonder how many heart attacks it would have caused over in the state department if some member had had the courage to introduce such a resolution. It might even have 'shook' Nikita a little and made him wonder if the information he has been getting, or is reputed to have been getting from his diplomats, to the effect that the Americans won't fight is really true. It will never happen though because that would be an offensive move in the cold war and therefore unthinkable as far as our policy makers are concerned.

To the Editor:

We have so many master minds in the NAACP, until I believe it's high time we had a few in the White race.

They have schemed and planned every move, in the beginning, forced integration, selected Meredith as a perfect example of the Negro race, selected cities where their population wasn't too large, and now have a Negro girl all set and ready to follow in Meredith's foot-steps.

The Negro race is not hated by the white people, their morals, beliefs and standards of living are as different from ours as daylight is dark.

Let's all stand firm for what we believe and know is right for both races.

It's not integration, forced or otherwise.

Comments On UNICEF

To the Editor:

Last month you published an article by Thurman Sensing which sought to discredit the United Nations Children's Fund on the grounds that UNICEF has authorized an emergency allocation of $670,000 worth of supplies to alleviate the suffering of the children of Algeria, afflicted by the miseries of seven years of bitter warfare.

Mr. Sensing's criticims of the Algerian government - which has been recognized by the U. S. Government - is the expression of an opinion to which he is entitled. We beg to differ most emphatically, however, with his justification in denying UNICEF's emergency aid to needy children, wherever they are. Such aid is given under the strictest control and supervision, and any insinuation that it does not reach its intended beneficiaries is unfounded and irresponsible.

The suggestion that children should be abandoned to hunger and disease in order that their country's government may be led to "collapse" is saddening and revolting, besides being impractical. It should be clear even to Mr. Sensing that no government derives new power from the fact that needy children receive what he himself acknowledges to be "soap, vitamin capsules, whole milk powder and emergency medical supplies."

Mr. Sensing is obviously poorly informed about UNICEF's work and aims. Allow us to suggest that he, and your readers who are interested, read the report delivered on August 14 in the House of Representatives by Rep. Walter H. Judd (R.-Minn.) on the subject of UNICEF. Reprints from the Congressional Record will be sent by us, free of charge, on request.

She Quits Democrats

Alexandria, La.

To the Editor:

History is repeating itself, but this time with a switch. A hundred years ago it was the Republicans who brought the South to its knees. This time it's the Democrats who are attempting the same. One wonders if the American people will go to the polls in November and return to the Democratic majority in the U. S. Congress who have brought us to this pass not only as regards use of integration to destroy state sovereignty but the other matters too numerous to list that have reduced us to a socialist dictatorship.

Oh yes, I remember Little Rock during a Republican administration, but that was a lone Republican. The Kennedys and their ilk are legion and they are waiting in line for the presidency.

Perhaps the long - needed miracle will occur this election year and the entire nationa will take the example set by a disillusioned housewife in Redondo Beach, Calif., when she resigned from her position as recording secretary of the Women's Democratic Society there because she could not accept the Democratic platform adopted by the California Democratic Council in February 1961. Here is part of her letter of resignation. (The entire letter is in the Cong. Record of March 21, 1962, page A 2167):

"For your information I am going to state the 12 resolutions that were adopted by the California Democratic Council at their convention at Fresno as their official party platform:

"1. Remold the United Nations into a world organization that enacts and interprets and enforces world law upon INDIVIDUALS and governments alike.

"2. Demand that the U. S. disarm even if negotiations to achieve world disarmament fail, even if the USSR does NOT disarm.

"3. Include Red China in negotiations to halt nuclear tests.

"4. Abolish the House Committee on Un - American Activities.

"5. Abolish all loyalty oaths, state and federal.

"6. Oppose all legislation which would inhibit the powers of the Supreme Court.

"7. Outlaw secret congressional committee hearings.

"8. Strip the Postmaster General of powers to halt the use of the U. S. Mail by the purveyors of pornographic materials.

"9. Extend the right to organize and the right to strike to all public employees, firemen, police officers, etc.

"10. Extend all - out federal aid to education, including funds for teachers' salaries.

"11. Request the president to review the Morton Sobel treason conviction to secure ultimate justice.

"12. Increase economic aid to underdeveloped nations and reduce military assistance abroad.

"I have not had to re - register since the first, as I have voted in every election and have not moved. One of the happiest days . . . was the day I registered as a Democrat. One of my saddest days was when I realized that if my vote this year was to count for my country, the United States of America, I would have to register as a Republican. (I did this, and it hurt.) I sadly say that my party, the Democratic Party, no longer stands for the things in which I believe."

It seems needless to point out that the Democratic platform of California is probably representative of Democratic platforms for all the states. Also, there were many people in 1960 who did not read the Democratic platform because it was not circulated in the South to the rank and file.

How many Southerners would have the courage to resign from the "party of our fathers" because that party has changed completely and is leading us into socialism and tyranny?

Action Speaks

Winnsboro, La.

To the Editor:

It appears that President Kennedy and Robert Kennedy are more interested in registering James Meredith in all white Old Miss College in Mississippi than they are in the Russian build - up in Cuba. To prove that point, action speaks louder than words; they acted in Mississippi but didn't act in Cuba.

That reminds me of a verse of scripture that reads like this, "Ye blind guides which strain at a gnat and swallow a camel." (St. Matthew 23-24). They strain and gag at the racial question and at the same time swallow a camel by standing idly by and letting our number - one enemy got a foothold in our back door. Why didn't the President send his U. S. Marshals and troops to Cuba to stop Khrushchev instead of sending them to Mississippi to enroll Meredith in college - leaving off the more "weighty" matter and straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel?

I noticed that the Communists have endorsed the President's action in Mississippi. Congratulations.

We read and hear a lot these days about space flight, flying to the moon, etc. That may not be a bad idea, because when Khrushchev takes over, "them fellers" in Washington will need a place to go.

McGovern's Race

Shaping Up Much Like 1960 Campaign Against Karl Mundt

Former Food-for-Peace Director George McGovern's campaign for the Senate appears to be shaping up very much like his 1960 race against Republican Senator Karl Mundt — a close miss.

Mundt won that bitter contest 160,000 to 145,000. The latest South Dakota poll gives McGovern 48 per cent to 52 for Senator Joe Bottum — former lieutenant governor who was appointed last August following the death of veteran Senator Francis Case.

But while the indications point to a victory for Bottum, this nationally little-noticed but torrid battle is far from over. In recent weeks McGovern has been gaining.

That is shown by the latest poll, which is a decided improvement over an earlier one in which McGovern trailed Bottum 46 to 54 per cent.

Whether McGovern can close the gap, only the November 6 election will tell. President Kennedy's brief flying visit several weeks ago definitely gave him a shot in the arm. The subsequent statewide poll hiked McGovern's percentage to 48, while Bottum's dropped to 52.

Curiously, although Kennedy's appearance helped McGovern, it had the opposite effect on the rest of the Democratic ticket. The poll ratings of all the other Democratic candidates slumped.

McGovern is very anxious to have the President come again, but it's not in the cards. Other prominent Democrats are slated to do so, but how much good they will do is conjectural. Senator Mundt heads a list of Republican notables who will campaign for Bottum.

In contrast to Democratic doubts about making any headway in traditionally Republican South Dakota, the GOP is firmly confident of an across-the-board victory there.

The Republicans cite the fact that in 1960 Nixon, outrunning Senator Mundt by 15,000, swept South Dakota with a total of 175,000. Kennedy polled 125 000 — 20,000 less than McGovern. There is no indication there has been any material change in these over-all ratios.

The latest poll gives state GOP candidates an average of 70 per cent to 30 for the Democrats.

HOT AND HEAVY — The stormy Senate campaign is by far the outstanding attraction of the South Dakota election.

Senator Bottum is hotly assailing the Kennedy administration's spending policies, charging they are "taking nearly $200 million annually in taxes from our state."

To this McGovern, who served two terms as a congressman, is retorting, "Yes, South Dakotans do pay $200 million annually in federal taxes, and the federal government returns nearly $400 million each year to our state and local levels in such projects as highways, education and agricultural assistance programs. This is $2 for $1, and I think that's an extremely good deal."

Bottum is also stressing that he is a "sitting Senator" and very busy attending to state and national affairs in Washington. A political ad depicts him colorfully as follows:

"He is the man who will talk with anybody at any time. He bakes cookies at night so he can deliver them during the day. He is the composer of the song 'Under the Mount Rushmore Moon'. Vote for Joe Bottum."

Firing back, McGovern is charging that far from staying in Washington and attending to congressional business, Bottum has missed 28 out of 30 important roll calls, including notes on the trade expansion act, the drug protection bill, the tax measure, and the resolution on the Cuban crisis.

But there was one crucial vote, McGovern adds, that Bottum didn't miss. This was the farm bill — which he voted against. McGovern is making much of that opposition vote.

As a result of McGovern's previous House and Senate races, he is better known throughout the state than Bottum. Also McGovern is counting strongly on the powerful Farmers Union and rural electric cooperatives, whom he vigorously favors, to back him. But his campaign organization is distinctly inferior to Bottum's.

Also, Democratic National Committee observers think McGovern is talking too much about international problems and not enough about local affairs.

POLITICALS — Cuba is increasingly becoming a top campaign issue. The Senate Republican Campaign Committee is advising all GOP senatorial candidates to stress the Democratic administration's bungling and fumbling on Cuba. The Democratic National Committee is so concerned about this problem that it's sending Senator Gale McGee, D-Wyo., to stump a number of states expressly to discuss Cuba. McGee has just returned from a visit to the Guantanamo Naval Base, and gives a first-hand account of what is going on there and the administration "watchful waiting" policy. . . . The Cuban issue is causing so much concern to former Food-for-Peace Director McGovern that he is clamoring to help on this matter from the administration in his furiour campaign against Senator Joe Bottum, R-S.D.

As a counter to Republican blasts on Cuba, Democratic leaders are advising their party candidates to stress the medicare issue. For that purpose, the Democatic National Committee is circulating a study showing that in the East, West and Rocky Mountain states, around 71 per cent of the voters favor President Kennedy's measure for medical care for the aged under social security. The one area in which the Committee is advising this issue not be stressed is the Southwest, where the study shows only 47.9 percent of the voters favor the administration's proposal.

Senator Frank Lausche, O., is the only Democratic candidate who has not asked the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee for campaign funds . . . . When President Kennedy stumps Illinois next week for Representative Sidney Yates, in his race against Senate Republican Leader Dirksen, the President will warmly laud Yates but carefully take no slams at Dirksen — who supported the administration's trade expansion act and satellite communications bill . . . A new poll by the Democratic National Committee shows Governor Gaylor Nelson running almost neck and neck against veteran Senator Alexander Wiley, R-Wis. According to this Democratic poll, Wiley now has 48 to Nelson's 47 per cent, with 5 per cent undecided. As a result of this showing, the National Committee decided to give Nelson additional financial help.

Business Slump

Wall Street Slowdown Blamed On Small Stock Investors

The worst business slump in modern times has been sweeping through Wall Street since the stock market crash last May.

The recession is hitting financial houses ranging from the multi-million dollar giants with branches around the world to the small local firms specializing in cheap stocks traded in the over-the-counter market. Of course, there are exceptions to the trend — there always are in any industry — but there is no doubting the current downturn in the securities business from coast to coast.

"You," the disenchanted stock buying public, are the main reason for this recession in Wall Street.

You have sharply cut your trading in stock listed on all exchanges in recent months. Average daily volume of trading on the New York Stock Exchange this month is running under 2.8 million, far below the 3.5 million-share daily volume considered the break - even point for most firms. Volume of trading on the Big Board so far this year is down over 9 per cent from 1961. On the American Stock Exchange, the second largest exchange in the country, trading volume is down over 3 per cent from 1961.

You have turned cold on buying of mutual funds to a spectacular degree. Net purchases of mutual fund shares in August totaled only $76 million, down 43 per cent from July, down 71 per cent from January. Net purchases of mutual funds in September were even lower. The net figure measures the extent to which new purchases of mutual fund shares exceed redemtpions of the shares.

You have slashed your buying of over-the-counter stocks even more than your buying of listed stocks. There aren't exact statistics for this market, but no one tries to deny that the drop in trading in the over-the-counter market has been immense and that, as a result, a lot of over-the-counter firms are in a brutal financial squeeze.

You have also substantially reduced your buying of new stock issues — those "hot" stocks with which you were so enamored in 1960-61. The total of new stock issues sold through July was $6.2 billion against $8.4 billion in the same period of last year but this tells only part of the tale. Businesses the country over which had planned to sell new stock issues in this period have shelved their plans indefinitely not only because the buyers aren't there but also because they would have to sell the stocks at much lower prices than they had originally planned.

So it goes, with every statistic on trading in stocks confirming the decline in public participation. Nor are institutional investors offsetting this; they've cut their participation too.

Stand Firm

To the Editor:

We have so many master minds in the NAACP, until I believe it's high time we had a few in the White race.

They have schemed and planned every move, in the beginning, forced integration, selected Meredith as a perfect example of the Negro race, selected cities where their population wasn't too large, and now have a Negro girl all set and ready to follow in Meredith's foot-steps.

The Negro race is not hated by the white people, their morals, beliefs and standards of living are as different from ours as daylight is dark.

Let's all stand firm for what we believe and know is right for both races.

It's not integration, forced or otherwise.

Comments On UNICEF

To the Editor:

Last month you published an article by Thurman Sensing which sought to discredit the United Nations Children's Fund on the grounds that UNICEF has authorized an emergency allocation of $670,000 worth of supplies to alleviate the suffering of the children of Algeria, afflicted by the miseries of seven years of bitter warfare.

Mr. Sensing's criticims of the Algerian government - which has been recognized by the U. S. Government - is the expression of an opinion to which he is entitled. We beg to differ most emphatically, however, with his justification in denying UNICEF's emergency aid to needy children, wherever they are. Such aid is given under the strictest control and supervision, and any insinuation that it does not reach its intended beneficiaries is unfounded and irresponsible.

The suggestion that children should be abandoned to hunger and disease in order that their country's government may be led to "collapse" is saddening and revolting, besides being impractical. It should be clear even to Mr. Sensing that no government derives new power from the fact that needy children receive what he himself acknowledges to be "soap, vitamin capsules, whole milk powder and emergency medical supplies."

Mr. Sensing is obviously poorly informed about UNICEF's work and aims. Allow us to suggest that he, and your readers who are interested, read the report delivered on August 14 in the House of Representatives by Rep. Walter H. Judd (R.-Minn.) on the subject of UNICEF. Reprints from the Congressional Record will be sent by us, free of charge, on request.

She Quits Democrats

Alexandria, La.

To the Editor:

History is repeating itself, but this time with a switch. A hundred years ago it was the Republicans who brought the South to its knees. This time it's the Democrats who are attempting the same. One wonders if the American people will go to the polls in November and return to the Democratic majority in the U. S. Congress who have brought us to this pass not only as regards use of integration to destroy state sovereignty but the other matters too numerous to list that have reduced us to a socialist dictatorship.

Oh yes, I remember Little Rock during a Republican administration, but that was a lone Republican. The Kennedys and their ilk are legion and they are waiting in line for the presidency.

Perhaps the long - needed miracle will occur this election year and the entire nationa will take the example set by a disillusioned housewife in Redondo Beach, Calif., when she resigned from her position as recording secretary of the Women's Democratic Society there because she could not accept the Democratic platform adopted by the California Democratic Council in February 1961. Here is part of her letter of resignation. (The entire letter is in the Cong. Record of March 21, 1962, page A 2167):

"For your information I am going to state the 12 resolutions that were adopted by the California Democratic Council at their convention at Fresno as their official party platform:

"1. Remold the United Nations into a world organization that enacts and interprets and enforces world law upon INDIVIDUALS and governments alike.

"2. Demand that the U. S. disarm even if negotiations to achieve world disarmament fail, even if the USSR does NOT disarm.

"3. Include Red China in negotiations to halt nuclear tests.

"4. Abolish the House Committee on Un - American Activities.

"5. Abolish all loyalty oaths, state and federal.

"6. Oppose all legislation which would inhibit the powers of the Supreme Court.

"7. Outlaw secret congressional committee hearings.

"8. Strip the Postmaster General of powers to halt the use of the U. S. Mail by the purveyors of pornographic materials.

"9. Extend the right to organize and the right to strike to all public employees, firemen, police officers, etc.

"10. Extend all - out federal aid to education, including funds for teachers' salaries.

"11. Request the president to review the Morton Sobel treason conviction to secure ultimate justice.

"12. Increase economic aid to underdeveloped nations and reduce military assistance abroad.

"I have not had to re - register since the first, as I have voted in every election and have not moved. One of the happiest days . . . was the day I registered as a Democrat. One of my saddest days was when I realized that if my vote this year was to count for my country, the United States of America, I would have to register as a Republican. (I did this, and it hurt.) I sadly say that my party, the Democratic Party, no longer stands for the things in which I believe."

It seems needless to point out that the Democratic platform of California is probably representative of Democratic platforms for all the states. Also, there were many people in 1960 who did not read the Democratic platform because it was not circulated in the South to the rank and file.

How many Southerners would have the courage to resign from the "party of our fathers" because that party has changed completely and is leading us into socialism and tyranny?

Mrs. Edward F. Bailey

Action Speaks

Winnsboro, La.

To the Editor:

It appears that President Kennedy and Robert Kennedy are more interested in registering James Meredith in all white Old Miss College in Mississippi than they are in the Russian build - up in Cuba. To prove that point, action speaks louder than words; they acted in Mississippi but didn't act in Cuba.

That reminds me of a verse of scripture that reads like this, "Ye blind guides which strain at a gnat and swallow a camel." (St. Matthew 23-24). They strain and gag at the racial question and at the same time swallow a camel by standing idly by and letting our number - one enemy got a foothold in our back door. Why didn't the President send his U. S. Marshals and troops to Cuba to stop Khrushchev instead of sending them to Mississippi to enroll Meredith in college - leaving off the more "weighty" matter and straining at a gnat and swallowing a camel?

I noticed that the Communists have endorsed the President's action in Mississippi. Congratulations.

We read and hear a lot these days about space flight, flying to the moon, etc. That may not be a bad idea, because when Khrushchev takes over, "them fellers" in Washington will need a place to go.

McGovern's Race

Shaping Up Much Like 1960 Campaign Against Karl Mundt

Former Food-for-Peace Director George McGovern's campaign for the Senate appears to be shaping up very much like his 1960 race against Republican Senator Karl Mundt — a close miss.

Mundt won that bitter contest 160,000 to 145,000. The latest South Dakota poll gives McGovern 48 per cent to 52 for Senator Joe Bottum — former lieutenant governor who was appointed last August following the death of veteran Senator Francis Case.

But while the indications point to a victory for Bottum, this nationally little-noticed but torrid battle is far from over. In recent weeks McGovern has been gaining.

That is shown by the latest poll, which is a decided improvement over an earlier one in which McGovern trailed Bottum 46 to 54 per cent.

Whether McGovern can close the gap, only the November 6 election will tell. President Kennedy's brief flying visit several weeks ago definitely gave him a shot in the arm. The subsequent statewide poll hiked McGovern's percentage to 48, while Bottum's dropped to 52.

Curiously, although Kennedy's appearance helped McGovern, it had the opposite effect on the rest of the Democratic ticket. The poll ratings of all the other Democratic candidates slumped.

McGovern is very anxious to have the President come again, but it's not in the cards. Other prominent Democrats are slated to do so, but how much good they will do is conjectural. Senator Mundt heads a list of Republican notables who will campaign for Bottum.

In contrast to Democratic doubts about making any headway in traditionally Republican South Dakota, the GOP is firmly confident of an across-the-board victory there.

The Republicans cite the fact that in 1960 Nixon, outrunning Senator Mundt by 15,000, swept South Dakota with a total of 175,000. Kennedy polled 125 000 — 20,000 less than McGovern. There is no indication there has been any material change in these over-all ratios.

The latest poll gives state GOP candidates an average of 70 per cent to 30 for the Democrats.

HOT AND HEAVY — The stormy Senate campaign is by far the outstanding attraction of the South Dakota election.

Senator Bottum is hotly assailing the Kennedy administration's spending policies, charging they are "taking nearly $200 million annually in taxes from our state."

To this McGovern, who served two terms as a congressman, is retorting, "Yes, South Dakotans do pay $200 million annually in federal taxes, and the federal government returns nearly $400 million each year to our state and local levels in such projects as highways, education and agricultural assistance programs. This is $2 for $1, and I think that's an extremely good deal."

Bottum is also stressing that he is a "sitting Senator" and very busy attending to state and national affairs in Washington. A political ad depicts him colorfully as follows:

"He is the man who will talk with anybody at any time. He bakes cookies at night so he can deliver them during the day. He is the composer of the song 'Under the Mount Rushmore Moon'. Vote for Joe Bottum."

Firing back, McGovern is charging that far from staying in Washington and attending to congressional business, Bottum has missed 28 out of 30 important roll calls, including notes on the trade expansion act, the drug protection bill, the tax measure, and the resolution on the Cuban crisis.

But there was one crucial vote, McGovern adds, that Bottum didn't miss. This was the farm bill — which he voted against. McGovern is making much of that opposition vote.

As a result of McGovern's previous House and Senate races, he is better known throughout the state than Bottum. Also McGovern is counting strongly on the powerful Farmers Union and rural electric cooperatives, whom he vigorously favors, to back him. But his campaign organization is distinctly inferior to Bottum's.

Also, Democratic National Committee observers think McGovern is talking too much about international problems and not enough about local affairs.

POLITICALS — Cuba is increasingly becoming a top campaign issue. The Senate Republican Campaign Committee is advising all GOP senatorial candidates to stress the Democratic administration's bungling and fumbling on Cuba. The Democratic National Committee is so concerned about this problem that it's sending Senator Gale McGee, D-Wyo., to stump a number of states expressly to discuss Cuba. McGee has just returned from a visit to the Guantanamo Naval Base, and gives a first-hand account of what is going on there and the administration "watchful waiting" policy. . . . The Cuban issue is causing so much concern to former Food-for-Peace Director McGovern that he is clamoring to help on this matter from the administration in his furiour campaign against Senator Joe Bottum, R-S.D.

As a counter to Republican blasts on Cuba, Democratic leaders are advising their party candidates to stress the medicare issue. For that purpose, the Democatic National Committee is circulating a study showing that in the East, West and Rocky Mountain states, around 71 per cent of the voters favor President Kennedy's measure for medical care for the aged under social security. The one area in which the Committee is advising this issue not be stressed is the Southwest, where the study shows only 47.9 percent of the voters favor the administration's proposal.

Senator Frank Lausche, O., is the only Democratic candidate who has not asked the Democratic Senate Campaign Committee for campaign funds . . . . When President Kennedy stumps Illinois next week for Representative Sidney Yates, in his race against Senate Republican Leader Dirksen, the President will warmly laud Yates but carefully take no slams at Dirksen — who supported the administration's trade expansion act and satellite communications bill . . . A new poll by the Democratic National Committee shows Governor Gaylor Nelson running almost neck and neck against veteran Senator Alexander Wiley, R-Wis. According to this Democratic poll, Wiley now has 48 to Nelson's 47 per cent, with 5 per cent undecided. As a result of this showing, the National Committee decided to give Nelson additional financial help.

Business Slump

Wall Street Slowdown Blamed On Small Stock Investors

The worst business slump in modern times has been sweeping through Wall Street since the stock market crash last May.

The recession is hitting financial houses ranging from the multi-million dollar giants with branches around the world to the small local firms specializing in cheap stocks traded in the over-the-counter market. Of course, there are exceptions to the trend — there always are in any industry — but there is no doubting the current downturn in the securities business from coast to coast.

"You," the disenchanted stock buying public, are the main reason for this recession in Wall Street.

You have sharply cut your trading in stock listed on all exchanges in recent months. Average daily volume of trading on the New York Stock Exchange this month is running under 2.8 million, far below the 3.5 million-share daily volume considered the break - even point for most firms. Volume of trading on the Big Board so far this year is down over 9 per cent from 1961. On the American Stock Exchange, the second largest exchange in the country, trading volume is down over 3 per cent from 1961.

You have turned cold on buying of mutual funds to a spectacular degree. Net purchases of mutual fund shares in August totaled only $76 million, down 43 per cent from July, down 71 per cent from January. Net purchases of mutual funds in September were even lower. The net figure measures the extent to which new purchases of mutual fund shares exceed redemtpions of the shares.

You have slashed your buying of over-the-counter stocks even more than your buying of listed stocks. There aren't exact statistics for this market, but no one tries to deny that the drop in trading in the over-the-counter market has been immense and that, as a result, a lot of over-the-counter firms are in a brutal financial squeeze.

You have also substantially reduced your buying of new stock issues — those "hot" stocks with which you were so enamored in 1960-61. The total of new stock issues sold through July was $6.2 billion against $8.4 billion in the same period of last year but this tells only part of the tale. Businesses the country over which had planned to sell new stock issues in this period have shelved their plans indefinitely not only because the buyers aren't there but also because they would have to sell the stocks at much lower prices than they had originally planned.

So it goes, with every statistic on trading in stocks confirming the decline in public participation. Nor are institutional investors offsetting this; they've cut their participation too.

A Look Behind the Headlines

GOV. LUIS Munoz Marin, shown with his wife, is the architect of economic development in Puerto Rico. The 64-year-old Munoz wants continued commonwealth status for the island, granted by the United States in 1952. He contends that statehood would bring economic ruin. (AP Wirephoto)

Puerto Rica Shining Jewel Of Caribbean Sea Area

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Less than a generation ago in Washington, Puerto Rico's situation was considered hopeless, next to impossible.

Today Latin Americans sit up and take notice of the little fellow of the Caribbean. He has left them far behind in terms of wealth distribution and per capita income.

The onetime "poorhouse of America" is booming. And its ascent, lifting it out of the ranks of undeveloped areas, was a matter of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

BOOTSTRAP

"Operation Bootstrap," Gov. Luis Munoz Marin told me, "was a means of life, of attacking poverty. Operation Commonwealth was a means of insuring liberty. Operation Serenidad (serenity) was the pursuit of happiness, of finding ways of catching up with it."

Operation Bootstrap did the job. Operation Commonwealth, marking a status granted Puerto Rico 10 years ago by the United States, gave the island a boost out of the category of colonial status. Operation Serenidad is the search for means of enjoying the achievements.

During World War II a liquor shortage on the mainland put Puerto Rican rum in major demand and brought a $160-million windfall to the island. "That was our Alliance for Progress," the governor says.

The money was invested in development. Then, after the war, came new impulses. First, Puerto Rico was granted the right to elect its own governor. In 1952, it got commonwealth status, and it was on its way.

"That was the beginning of our revolution without bullets," said Munoz.

ERROR

After a trial-and-error period in which the government invested in industry, private enterprise was considered the most likely bet. Plants were sold to private investors. What once was a hand-to-mouth agrarian economy, in an island almost barren of natural resources, became gradually diversified.

A big help was Puerto Rico's exemption from U.S. federal income taxes. Any industry which came to the island got freedom from taxation for 10 years. If it located in a particularly undeveloped area of the island, it got a 13-year break.

In addition, the Korean war with its accompanying stateside labor shortage gave added incentive to industries to locate in Puerto Rico.

Tourism was encouraged. In the 1940s, a hotel built by the government on a gamble by Teodoro Moscoso—now U.S. Alliance for Progress chief—was called "Moscoso's Folly." It paid off. Last year tourism brought $66 million. By 1970 the government hopes the figure will be nearly triple that.

The administration stressed honesty and political stability, encouraged training of industrial personnel, raised local aspirations, instilled a feeling of local self-respect and a stake in the economy and government. Once Puerto Rico had a problem common to much of Latin America: Lack of skilled people because of an aversion of educated men to working with their hands. Puerto Ricans changed that by providing adequate rewards.

But, Gov. Munoz asserts, the most important ingredient in the success was people. Distribution of goods and wealth was the key. It changed attitudes and psychology. The island of 2.4 million people was champing at the bit, eager to race ahead.

People call Munoz "El Vate"—the bard. The 64-year-old governor has a poetic bent, and his "Operation Serenidad" illustrates that.

"Our idea," he told me, "is to make the economy serve the human personality. This is the opposite of the Soviet idea, which makes the human personality subordinate to the economy."

IRISH PRESIDENT

Celebrated 80th Birthday Sunday

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—President Eamon de Valera — American-born father of a country—is 80 years old Saturday with his work not done.

Typical of this tall, gaunt, almost blind Irish patriot, he plans to spend his Sunday quietly and without official ceremony.

Or so he thinks. He may be planning without thought to the enthusiasm of his countrymen.

At 80, Dev—as he's affectionately known—can look back on a life in which there's been no deviation or compromise.

Not long ago he said: "All my life has been political. I began having political experiences at the age of 5."

He then recalled how a brass band arrived at his grandmother's home in Limerick in 1887.

The band was leading a demonstration against Capt. Charles Cunningham Boycott, an Ulster Orangeman ostracized by Irish nationalists for serving as an English earl's rent collector. (This was the Boycott whose name became a common noun.)

Somebody gave young Dev a toy drum.

He tried to beat it mounted on his stomach as did the bass drummer in the brass band.

When he couldn't bring off the maneuver, he became furious.

He claims that from that frustrating moment on his vision of a free Ireland began to possess him.

Dev began to live for Ireland, ready to die for it if necessary.

Captured by the British, he was set for execution.

The fluke of his birth—he was born in New York of a Spanish father and an Irish mother—saved him.

The British didn't want to generate any more American anger by executing him. That spared him.

Despite his failing eyesight and his age, he's remarkably vigorous and enjoys excellent health.

He has nearly four more years of his seven-year term of office to complete.

JFK's Public Image Faces Biggest Test

Nov. 6 Voting Will Be Watched With Top Interest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Next month President Kennedy's public image, built so laboriously and so zealously, faces its great trial.

On Nov. 6 voters choose 435 representatives, 39 senators and 35 governors.

John F. Kennedy's name won't be on any ballot. Many races will be settled strictly on local issues and local personalities. Yet the results are bound to affect the President's political reputation.

Democratic gains, be they ever so humble, will be seized upon as proof that Kennedy is all but invincible, sure of another term in the White House.

Republican gains, especially in the House, will be taken as evidence that Kennedy will have his troubles in 1964.

Making it more exasperating for Kennedy, tradition is against him. Historically the party in power loses ground in these off-year elections.

Republican may pick up a few governors, where they now trail 34-16.

Democrats are expected to hold their own, or even gain, in the Senate, where they lead 64-36.

Most interest centers in the House, where the Democrats have control, more or less. Statistically Republicans must gain 44 seats to take over. Actually enough conservative Democrats have lined up with them to block pet presidential projects.

FIVE OR SIX

Since Kennedy and his advisers insist he must pick up five or six house seats, what the voters think of the President becomes increasingly important.

All Presidents have fretted about their image.

If Kennedy differs on this point from his predecessors, it's only in degree and in the new tools available to him. These range from jet planes, which can take him places fast, to private opinion polls, which can tell him what to say and what to avoid once he gets there.

Certainly no other President has given so many interviews, either singly or in small groups, to so many news people.

No President has been so quick to praise a story he likes, or to remonstrate in person when one distresses him.

What effect, if any, these efforts have on the average voter can only be guessed at.

Our impressions are influenced by Kennedy's speeches, messages to Congress, vacations, legislative proposals, news conferences, trips abroad, subordinates, eloquence, errors and relatives, maybe the most restless political family of all time.

The image a politician casts is often thought more important than what he is or what he stands for.

Perhaps this is an inevitable result of an age in which techniques of packaging, of selling, often are stressed until quality is forgotten.

Possibly too much has been made of Kennedy's differences with news writers and commentators, of his calling up reporters to protest, of his going to visit a columnist in an effort to persuade him to change his mind.

Rarely is it pointed our that Kennedy, once a newsman himself, always was interested in the written word, especially when it described him.

During the West Virginia primaries Kennedy had laryngitis, an ailment that plagued him throughout the campaign.

In one story I mentioned that as the crowds improved so did Kennedy's voice. One crowd hit 5,000 and Kennedy miraculously recovered to belt out a rousing speech.

Kennedy didn't like the story, Since he believes in direct action, he said so, employing an adjective that cannot be repeated in a family newspaper. When the President complains now, he is doing what comes naturally —to a Kennedy.

FRENCH PRESIDENT Charles de Gaulle, shown in a recent study, is squarely in the middle of a crisis in his country. The issue is whether Frenchmen should be able to elect their presidents by popular vote, or should the small electoral college system continue. De Gaulle decided to put the question to the people in a referendum. (AP Wirephoto)

Man Of Crisises Facing New One

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle, France's man of crisis, finds himself squarely in the middle of another one.

The World War II Free French leader who returned to power to quell the strife over Algeria has ridden into the lists for what promises to be an all-out joust with old-line politicians.

At this point no serious observer is willing to predict the outcome, but most everyone agrees that France will be deeply marked by the coming showdown.

As the fires of rebellion were quenched in Algeria, De Gaulle, 71, took a daring initiative in his long-simmering dispute with France's politicians.

On the surface the issue seems minor: Should Frenchmen be able to elect their presidents by popular vote, or should the small electoral college system continue?

De Gaulle decided to put the question to the people in a referendum.

Since the matter involves a revision of the constitution, most politicians and legal experts argued that the National Assembly should decide. They said this is spelled out clearly in the constitution.

The National Assembly registered its opposition to De Gaulle's plans by ousting his Cabinet. De Gaulle slapped back by dissolving the National Assembly. That will necessitate new elections.

French voters will file to the polls three times—Oct. 28 to give their verdict on the presidential election referendum and twice more in November in two rounds of legislative elections.

When the count is in on these tests at the polls, it should be clear whether the determined De Gaulle has won or lost. If the figures go against him, De Gaulle has said, he will walk out.

Many persons expect that De Gaulle will get a majority in the election referendum. The first reaction of the man in the street is "mais oui" (but yes—certainly) when he is asked if he wants a direct hand in electing the chief of state.

But the majority may be thin and abstentions heavy. The issue has been deeply clouded by questions going to the heart of modern-day French political life. Furthermore, now that the Algerian conflict has been ended, De Gaulle is perhaps no longer the country's indispensable man.

Reds Reorganize Farming Program

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—Drastic reorganization of Soviet agriculture and industry in the direction long ago taken by private enterprise is under way in the Soviet Union.

Apparently even more fundamental changes are contemplated. These are being worked out in study groups including top authorities, forced by the fact that Soviet productivity is not matching the West's.

A meeting of the Central Committee of the Communist party is expected to try to prod both industry and agriculture, especially the latter, into greater efficiency.

A summary of what is wrong with agriculture was contained in an article in the current issue of the official magazine Economic Questions.

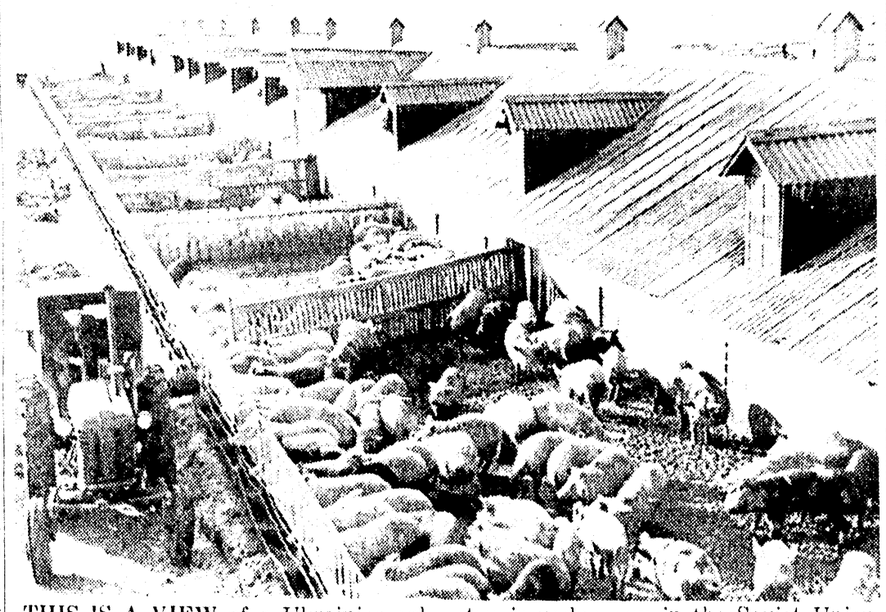
What is wrong with industry has been outlined piecemeal in a series of articles in the past two months in Soviet magazines and newspapers.

A test drive in the direction of the sort of private initiative common in the West has begun in the low region of Western Russia, an area which before the last war was a part of Poland.

Here 200 scattered plants have been consolidated into 41 firmas, a Communist adaptation of the capitalist firm. One manager is at the top of each firma, and his job is to coordinate the functioning of the several plants under his command.

The result is that for the first time in this area, individual plants are given specialized jobs to do. It is a shoe manufacturing center, among its other products. Under the new management, some plants are producing only uppers instead of the whole shoe. These parts then go to another section which produces soles, and there, or perhaps elsewhere, they are consolidated into shoes. Far more complex operations are undertaken in other areas.

Labor productivity in this country has increased in 10 years but still falls far below that of the West. Some state farms use up to 500 times as much manpower per acre as do Western farms. An excess of 10-20 times is common.



THIS IS A VIEW of a Ukrainian collective pig farm which is described as a model for Soviet farmers. Reorganization of Soviet agriculture and industry is under way in the Soviet Union because Russian productivity is not matching the West's. (AP Wirephoto)

BOOKS

Joe Plumbs Depths After Being On Top

LIFE AT THE TOP. By John Braine. Houghton Mifflin. $4.50.

There just had to be a sequel to "Room At The Top." That well - received book was about a poor boy, Joe Lampton, who got to what he thought was the top by marrying the daughter of the boss, a Yorkshire tycoon named A. Z. Brown.

Now at 35, Joe has to meet a complex crisis in his life. He seems to be doing well. His wife Susan is sexy. There are Harry 9, and Barbara, 4.

Joe and Harry don't seem to get along too well, but Joe and Barbara dote on each other.

American readers will find that Joe is like a character in their own fiction, a junior executive living in gadget-filled suburbia.

But two things are wrong. Joe finds it galling to be a mere pawn in his father-in-law's business, all the while recieving the sniffy disapprobation of his snobbish mother-in-law. And while Joe has a roving eye for the other sex, it upsets him no end to find that Susan is not so innocent either.

So this primarily is a story of Joe's disillusionment with his job and the marital infidelities of the world in which Joe and Susan live. Poor Joe reaches the depths when he breaks off everything to follow a woman named Norah to London. But then, in an ironic twist involving the children, Joe has to come back.

A skillful storyteller, Braine doesn't bother with soul-searching or psychological moaning. He just lets you know what could happen in a modern milieu.

Hammer Back At Work In New Thriller

THE GIRL HUNTERS. By Mickey Spillane. Dutton. $3.50.

"They found me in the gutter." Mike Hammer, private eye speaking.

That is the opening sentence in this book. Mike is in a bad way. Seven years an alcoholic. His business gone.

All because of Velda. She was the girl who worked with him. Mike was in love with her too. He had sent her off on an easy job, guarding a woman who wore a lot of jewels to a party. The woman was murdered. The jewels were gone. No trace of Velda. Mike, feeling guilty, had taken to the sauce.

They had a reason for picking him out of the gutter. A wounded, dying man wanted to talk to him. They thought Mike could learn from this dying man, Richie Cole, a clue to a senator's murder. What Mike leaned, and kept to himself, was that Velda still lived. But first he had to get a guy named the Dragon. Richie said that and died.

Mike stopped drinking everything but beer. Just like that.

The trail led to a hot blonde, name of Laura, and to an international spy ring. Tough going for Mike, without any legal status as an investigator, and he had even lost his license to carry a gun. One of the feds helped him, but made him promise not to kill, for a good reason.

Coronation Of The Queen Is Described

CORONATION. By Paul Gallico. Doubleday. $2.95.

Gallico shows us once again that he is a skillful artist who can present a small gem in significant setting.

His story is related to the coronation of Elizabeth II, from the viewpoint of a family from industrial Sheffield.

They are Will Clagg, foreman of No. 2 furnace at the Pudney Steel Works, his wife Violet, 11-year-old Johnny, 7 year - old Gwendoline and Clagg's mother-in-law, Granny Bonner.

Sacrificing their annual seaside vacation, they had decided to spend the vacation money on a trip to London to see the Queen ride past in her coronation parade.

Will had bought tickets for a vantage point of the parade route. But when they made their way through immense crowds they found the address given on their tickets were counterfeit. By that time it was too late to find standing room in the streets. They found themselves behind a very high wooden barrier.

But there is magic in the ways of the mind and heart. Each one of the five had approached this occasion with differing thoughts, and each of them found something to remember in the hours before they returned wearily to their home.

Funny Books Sometimes Fall Flat

FOR SPECIAL OCCASIONS. By Dore Schary. Random House. $3.95.

Funny, touching books are somethings nuggeted with memories of life with father and that swarm of relatives everyone had way back when. This is an in - betweener, mildly, diverting rather than amusing nostalgic.

As boyhood's troubadour on this occasion we have one of show world's most industrious executives. Formerly head of film production at MGM, Schary for several years has been a writer, director and producer of assorted Broadway stage fare. He intends to use material from the book for a future White Way exhibit. The project is clearly close to his heart — too close, perhaps.

The set of anecdotal sketches trace, with some evidences of writing haste, the tribulations and triumphs of the Schary clan in operation of a large - scale catering service at Newark, N.J. during and after World War I.

On hand are short-tempered dad, all - understanding mamma, orthodox grandpa and assorted employes. They cut up the fruit salad, restore the kitchen to kosher purity after a pork-and-bean Army invasion, rally from assorted banquet crises.

The participants are familiar; events have a way of turning out slightly flat. It may be unfair, but the reader can't help comparing this sedate picnic with previous, livelier family litearary outings.

Six Authors Analyzed By Tough Critic

IMAGES OF TRUTH. By Glenway Wescott. Harper & Row. $6.

Wescott, the novelist and critic, is a man who takes the long view. He is interested in literary careers, rather than in single books.

In this volume he brings us a combination of literary analysis and personal reaction, on six writers — Katherine Anne Porter, Somerset Maugham, Colette, Isak Dinesen (the Baroness Blixen of Denmark), Thomas Mann and Thornton Wilder.

It is an international selection. He has been a longtime intimate friend of Miss Porter a close friend of Maugham and a cordial friend of Wilder. He is a great admirer of Colette and the story-telling abilities of Isak Dinesen. He obviously has great respect for Mann, but the reader may feel that even Wescott cannot gloss over this writer's dark, forbidding qualities.

Wescott's claim to our attention lies in the fact that for years he has been sharpening his perceptual faculties in the literary realm and thus is well equipped to weigh, analyze and interpret the writers who are his subjects.

In this connection, it needs to be said — not in the spirit of quibbling accusation, but merely for the sake of clear identification — that he is an intellectual. Thus he thinks and writes as an intellectual, which almost inevitably means that not every reader will catch all the nuances of his meaning. Those who do will feel rewarded.

There is as much of Wescott in this book as there is of the six authors. That is a recommendation, not a criticism.

A Look Behind the Headlines

GOV. LUIS Munoz Marin, shown with his wife, is the architect of economic development in Puerto Rico. The 64-year-old Munoz wants continued commonwealth status for the island, granted by the United States in 1952. He contends that statehood would bring economic ruin. (AP Wirephoto)

Puerto Rica Shining Jewel Of Caribbean Sea Area

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—Less than a generation ago in Washington, Puerto Rico's situation was considered hopeless, next to impossible.

Today Latin Americans sit up and take notice of the little fellow of the Caribbean. He has left them far behind in terms of wealth distribution and per capita income.

The onetime "poorhouse of America" is booming. And its ascent, lifting it out of the ranks of undeveloped areas, was a matter of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.

BOOTSTRAP

"Operation Bootstrap," Gov. Luis Munoz Marin told me, "was a means of life, of attacking poverty. Operation Commonwealth was a means of insuring liberty. Operation Serenidad (serenity) was the pursuit of happiness, of finding ways of catching up with it."

Operation Bootstrap did the job. Operation Commonwealth, marking a status granted Puerto Rico 10 years ago by the United States, gave the island a boost out of the category of colonial status. Operation Serenidad is the search for means of enjoying the achievements.

During World War II a liquor shortage on the mainland put Puerto Rican rum in major demand and brought a $160-million windfall to the island. "That was our Alliance for Progress," the governor says.

The money was invested in development. Then, after the war, came new impulses. First, Puerto Rico was granted the right to elect its own governor. In 1952, it got commonwealth status, and it was on its way.

"That was the beginning of our revolution without bullets," said Munoz.

ERROR

After a trial-and-error period in which the government invested in industry, private enterprise was considered the most likely bet. Plants were sold to private investors. What once was a hand-to-mouth agrarian economy, in an island almost barren of natural resources, became gradually diversified.

A big help was Puerto Rico's exemption from U.S. federal income taxes. Any industry which came to the island got freedom from taxation for 10 years. If it located in a particularly undeveloped area of the island, it got a 13-year break.

In addition, the Korean war with its accompanying stateside labor shortage gave added incentive to industries to locate in Puerto Rico.

Tourism was encouraged. In the 1940s, a hotel built by the government on a gamble by Teodoro Moscoso—now U.S. Alliance for Progress chief—was called "Moscoso's Folly." It paid off. Last year tourism brought $66 million. By 1970 the government hopes the figure will be nearly triple that.

The administration stressed honesty and political stability, encouraged training of industrial personnel, raised local aspirations, instilled a feeling of local self-respect and a stake in the economy and government. Once Puerto Rico had a problem common to much of Latin America: Lack of skilled people because of an aversion of educated men to working with their hands. Puerto Ricans changed that by providing adequate rewards.

But, Gov. Munoz asserts, the most important ingredient in the success was people. Distribution of goods and wealth was the key. It changed attitudes and psychology. The island of 2.4 million people was champing at the bit, eager to race ahead.

People call Munoz "El Vate"—the bard. The 64-year-old governor has a poetic bent, and his "Operation Serenidad" illustrates that.

"Our idea," he told me, "is to make the economy serve the human personality. This is the opposite of the Soviet idea, which makes the human personality subordinate to the economy."

IRISH PRESIDENT

Celebrated 80th Birthday Sunday

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP)—President Eamon de Valera — American-born father of a country—is 80 years old Saturday with his work not done.

Typical of this tall, gaunt, almost blind Irish patriot, he plans to spend his Sunday quietly and without official ceremony.

Or so he thinks. He may be planning without thought to the enthusiasm of his countrymen.

At 80, Dev—as he's affectionately known—can look back on a life in which there's been no deviation or compromise.

Not long ago he said: "All my life has been political. I began having political experiences at the age of 5."

He then recalled how a brass band arrived at his grandmother's home in Limerick in 1887.

The band was leading a demonstration against Capt. Charles Cunningham Boycott, an Ulster Orangeman ostracized by Irish nationalists for serving as an English earl's rent collector. (This was the Boycott whose name became a common noun.)

Somebody gave young Dev a toy drum.

He tried to beat it mounted on his stomach as did the bass drummer in the brass band.

When he couldn't bring off the maneuver, he became furious.

He claims that from that frustrating moment on his vision of a free Ireland began to possess him.

Dev began to live for Ireland, ready to die for it if necessary.

Captured by the British, he was set for execution.

The fluke of his birth—he was born in New York of a Spanish father and an Irish mother—saved him.

The British didn't want to generate any more American anger by executing him. That spared him.

Despite his failing eyesight and his age, he's remarkably vigorous and enjoys excellent health.

He has nearly four more years of his seven-year term of office to complete.

JFK's Public Image Faces Biggest Test

Nov. 6 Voting Will Be Watched With Top Interest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Next month President Kennedy's public image, built so laboriously and so zealously, faces its great trial.

On Nov. 6 voters choose 435 representatives, 39 senators and 35 governors.

John F. Kennedy's name won't be on any ballot. Many races will be settled strictly on local issues and local personalities. Yet the results are bound to affect the President's political reputation.

Democratic gains, be they ever so humble, will be seized upon as proof that Kennedy is all but invincible, sure of another term in the White House.

Republican gains, especially in the House, will be taken as evidence that Kennedy will have his troubles in 1964.

Making it more exasperating for Kennedy, tradition is against him. Historically the party in power loses ground in these off-year elections.

Republican may pick up a few governors, where they now trail 34-16.

Democrats are expected to hold their own, or even gain, in the Senate, where they lead 64-36.

Most interest centers in the House, where the Democrats have control, more or less. Statistically Republicans must gain 44 seats to take over. Actually enough conservative Democrats have lined up with them to block pet presidential projects.

FIVE OR SIX

Since Kennedy and his advisers insist he must pick up five or six house seats, what the voters think of the President becomes increasingly important.

All Presidents have fretted about their image.

If Kennedy differs on this point from his predecessors, it's only in degree and in the new tools available to him. These range from jet planes, which can take him places fast, to private opinion polls, which can tell him what to say and what to avoid once he gets there.

Certainly no other President has given so many interviews, either singly or in small groups, to so many news people.

No President has been so quick to praise a story he likes, or to remonstrate in person when one distresses him.

What effect, if any, these efforts have on the average voter can only be guessed at.

Our impressions are influenced by Kennedy's speeches, messages to Congress, vacations, legislative proposals, news conferences, trips abroad, subordinates, eloquence, errors and relatives, maybe the most restless political family of all time.

The image a politician casts is often thought more important than what he is or what he stands for.

Perhaps this is an inevitable result of an age in which techniques of packaging, of selling, often are stressed until quality is forgotten.

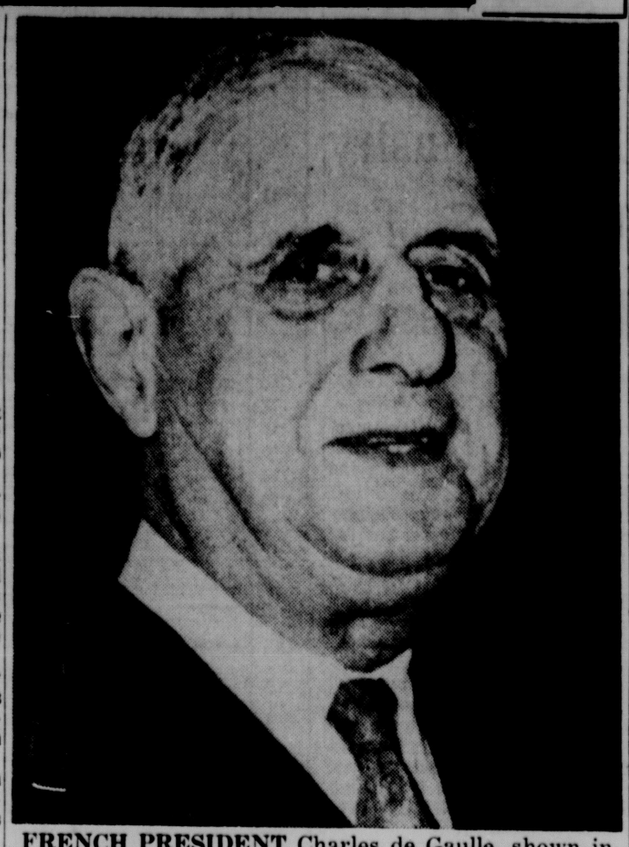
Possibly too much has been made of Kennedy's differences with news writers and commentators, of his calling up reporters to protest, of his going to visit a columnist in an effort to persuade him to change his mind.

Rarely is it pointed our that Kennedy, once a newsman himself, always was interested in the written word, especially when it described him.

During the West Virginia primaries Kennedy had laryngitis, an ailment that plagued him throughout the campaign.

In one story I mentioned that as the crowds improved so did Kennedy's voice. One crowd hit 5,000 and Kennedy miraculously recovered to belt out a rousing speech.

Kennedy didn't like the story. Since he believes in direct action, he said so, employing an adjective that cannot be repeated in a family newspaper. When the President complains now, he is doing what comes naturally —to a Kennedy.



FRENCH PRESIDENT Charles de Gaulle, shown in a recent study, is squarely in the middle of a crisis in his country. The issue is whether Frenchmen should be able to elect their presidents by popular vote, or should the small electoral college system continue. De Gaulle decided to put the question to the people in a referendum. (AP Wirephoto)

Man Of Crisises Facing New One

PARIS (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle, France's man of crisis, finds himself squarely in the middle of another one.

The World War II Free French leader who returned to power to quell the strife over Algeria has ridden into the lists for what promises to be an all-out joust with old-line politicians.

At this point no serious observer is willing to predict the outcome, but most everyone agrees that France will be deeply marked by the coming showdown.

As the fires of rebellion were quenched in Algeria, De Gaulle, 71, took a daring initiative in his long-simmering dispute with France's politicians.

On the surface the issue seems minor: Should Frenchmen be able to elect their presidents by popular vote, or should the small electoral college system continue?

De Gaulle decided to put the question to the people in a referendum.

Since the matter involves a revision of the constitution, most politicians and legal experts argued that the National Assembly should decide. They said this is spelled out clearly in the constitution.

The National Assembly registered its opposition to De Gaulle's plans by ousting his Cabinet. De Gaulle slapped back by dissolving the National Assembly. That will necessitate new elections.

French voters will file to the polls three times—Oct. 28 to give their verdict on the presidential election referendum and twice more in November in two rounds of legislative elections.

When the count is in on these tests at the polls, it should be clear whether the determined De Gaulle has won or lost. If the figures go against him, De Gaulle has said, he will walk out.

Many persons expect that De Gaulle will get a majority in the election referendum. The first reaction of the man in the street is "mais oui" (but yes—certainly) when he is asked if he wants a direct hand in electing the chief of state.

But the majority may be thin and abstentions heavy. The issue has been deeply clouded by questions going to the heart of modern-day French political life. Furthermore, now that the Algerian conflict has been ended, De Gaulle is perhaps no longer the country's indispensable man.

Reds Reorganize Farming Program

By PRESTON GROVER

MOSCOW (AP)—Drastic reorganization of Soviet agriculture and industry in the direction long ago taken by private enterprise is under way in the Soviet Union.

Apparently even more fundamental changes are contemplated. These are being worked out in study groups including top authorities, forced by the fact that Soviet productivity is not matching the West's.

A meeting of the Central Committee of the Communist party is expected to try to prod both industry and agriculture, especially the latter, into greater efficiency.

A summary of what is wrong with agriculture was contained in an article in the current issue of the official magazine Economic Questions.

What is wrong with industry has been outlined piecemeal in a series of articles in the past two months in Soviet magazines and newspapers.

A test drive in the direction of the sort of private initiative common in the West has begun in the low region of Western Russia, an area which before the last war was a part of Poland.

Here 200 scattered plants have been consolidated into 41 firmas, a Communist adaptation of the capitalist firm. One manager is at the top of each firma, and his job is to coordinate the functioning of the several plants under his command.

The result is that for the first time in this area, individual plants are given specialized jobs to do. It is a shoe manufacturing center, among its other products. Under the new management, some plants are producing only uppers instead of the whole shoe. These parts then go to another section which produces soles, and there, or perhaps elsewhere, they are consolidated into shoes. Far more complex operations are undertaken in other areas.

Labor productivity in this country has increased in 10 years but still falls far below that of the West. Some state farms use up to 500 times as much manpower per acre as do Western farms. An excess of 10-20 times is common.

THIS IS A VIEW of a Ukrainian collective pig farm which is described as a model for Soviet farmers. Reorganization of Soviet agriculture and industry is under way in the Soviet Union because Russian productivity is not matching the West's. (AP Wirephoto)

Joe Plumbs Depths After Being On Top

LIFE AT THE TOP. By John Braine. Houghton Mifflin. $4.50.

There just had to be a sequel to "Room At The Top." That well - received book was about a poor boy, Joe Lampton, who got to what he thought was the top by marrying the daughter of the boss, a Yorkshire tycoon named A. Z. Brown.

Now at 35, Joe has to meet a complex crisis in his life. He seems to be doing well. His wife Susan is sexy. There are Harry 9, and Barbara, 4. Joe and Harry don't seem to get along too well, but Joe and Barbara dote on each other.

American readers will find that Joe is like a character in their own fiction, a junior executive living in gadget-filled suburbia.

But two things are wrong. Joe finds it galling to be a mere pawn in his father-in-law's business, all the while recieving the sniffy disapprobation of his snobbish mother-in-law. And while Joe has a roving eye for the other sex, it upsets him no end to find that Susan is not so innocent either.

So this primarily is a story of Joe's disillusionment with his job and the marital infidelities of the world in which Joe and Susan live. Poor Joe reaches the depths when he breaks off everything to follow a woman named Norah to London. But then, in an ironic twist involving the children, Joe has to come back.

A skillful storyteller, Braine doesn't bother with soul-searching or psychological moaning. He just lets you know what could happen in a modern milieu.

Hammer Back At Work In New Thriller

THE GIRL HUNTERS. By Mickey Spillane. Dutton. $3.50.

"They found me in the gutter." Mike Hammer, private eye speaking.

That is the opening sentence in this book. Mike is in a bad way. Seven years an alcoholic. His business gone.

All because of Velda. She was the girl who worked with him. Mike was in love with her too. He had sent her off on an easy job, guarding a woman who wore a lot of jewels to a party. The woman was murdered. The jewels were gone. No trace of Velda. Mike, feeling guilty, had taken to the sauce.

They had a reason for picking him out of the gutter. A wounded, dying man wanted to talk to him. They thought Mike could learn from this dying man, Richie Cole, a clue to a senator's murder. What Mike leaned, and kept to himself, was that Velda still lived. But first he had to get a guy named the Dragon. Richie said that and died.

Mike stopped drinking everything but beer. Just like that.

The trail led to a hot blonde, name of Laura, and to an international spy ring. Tough going for Mike, without any legal status as an investigator, and he had even lost his license to carry a gun. One of the feds helped him, but made him promise not to kill, for a good reason.

Coronation Of The Queen Is Described

CORONATION. By Paul Gallico. Doubleday. $2.95.

Gallico shows us once again that he is a skillful artist who can present a small gem in significant setting.

His story is related to the coronation of Elizabeth II, from the viewpoint of a family from industrial Sheffield.

They are Will Clagg, foreman of No. 2 furnace at the Pudney Steel Works, his wife Violet, 11-year-old Johnny, 7 year - old Gwendoline and Clagg's mother-in-law, Granny Bonner.

Sacrificing their annual seaside vacation, they had decided to spend the vacation money on a trip to London to see the Queen ride past in her coronation parade.

Will had bought tickets for a vantage point of the parade route. But when they made their way through immense crowds they found the address given on their tickets were counterfeit. By that time it was too late to find standing room in the streets. They found themselves behind a very high wooden barrier.

But there is magic in the ways of the mind and heart. Each one of the five had approached this occasion with differing thoughts, and each of them found something to remember in the hours before they returned wearily to their home.

OIL, GAS DISTRICT

Pace Of Drilling Continues Heavy

Monroe Oil and Gas District drilling activity continued unabated over the preceding week, with a total of 20 completions recorded over 14 north Louisiana parishes — one more than a week ago. Sixteen of that number were in the Monroe Gas Field of Ouachita, Morehouse and Union Parishes.

Eight finals were reported in Ouachita Parish alone, according to District Manager Duncan S. Cook, all shallow gas producers, units of D. J. Simmons Company of Louisiana. Five were in Morehouse and three in Union.

Other completions during the week were found in Richland, Catahoula, Concordia and LaSalle Parishes, one each.

New locations continued to sprout over the area as summary weather held on into late Fall, and Cook listed a total of 22 fresh stakings. Six were marked out in Ouachita Parish, again all in the Monroe Field, with othar locations scattered over Avoyelles, Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia, LaSalle, Tensas and Union Parishes.

Active rigs numbered 36, most drilling or testing in Tensas Parish. Of an even dozen there, seven were in the Buckhorn Field. Out of 36 active, all but three were reported drilling.

A single active rig in Ouachita Parish was of more than nominal interest, that being a unit of J. C. Trahan Drilling Contractors, listed as boring at 1400 feet on parish Police Jury property at the site of the G. B. Cooley Hospital.

A final is expected this week.

Here's the week's rundown on completions, new locations and active rigs:

TO GAS, IMPORTS

Coal Industry Tires Of Losing Markets

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The coal industry is fed up with losing its markets to natural gas and foreign oil imports and has set out with new determination to reverse the trend.

It will carry its fight to the next Congress; to the Federal Power Commission (FPC) which regulates interstate gas prices and says where gas shall be sold; to the courts; to state legislatures and state regulatory bodies; to the market place, "and to wherever else the best interests of the public will be served."

The task ahead is monumental. It pits fuel giant against fuel giant. But National Coal Association (NCA) President Stephen F. Dunn thinks a modicum of success lies ahead if coal and allied interests fight hard and objectively.

The coal industry has been newly aroused by a series of adverse developments. These include:

—Ever stronger gas competition in all energy markets, with full approval of the FPC.

—Failure of Congress and the Kennedy administration to curb oil imports, especially heavy fuel oil which fires industrial boilers.

—Failure of Congress to adopt a national fuels policy which would allow coal to compete "more equitably" with gas and oil.

—A recent fuels study report prepared for the Senate interior committee which the NCA and the National Coal Policy Conference (NCP) felt unfairly damaged coal's competitive position.

Add to this a rather ironic situation for both goal and gas.

West Virginia's Consolidation Coal Co., perhaps the nation's biggest, is collaborating with a national gas carrier—Texas, Eastern Transmission Corp., Houston—on a proposal to build a coal slurry pipeline from the West Virginia-Ohio area to the Eastern Seaboard to compete with gas and oil.

At the same time coal interests are opposing before the FPC Texas Eastern's proposed sale of 22,440,000 cubic feet of gas daily to three New York and New Jersey utilities. Coal is charging the gas will fuel boilers in electric generating plants during off-peak periods.

Those are only a few of the problems that have beset coal and invigorated the NCA and the NPC into an all-out fight for coal's survival.

President Kennedy is giving ear to both industries. He recognizes that domestic oil and gas producers have been hurt by foreign oil and is keeping a sharp eye on imports which, however, play a big role in foreign policy.

Auto Industry Bright Spot In Business

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The automobile industry was the brightest spot in the economy during the week.

Most other segments of business rocked along at a good but far from startling pace.

The stock market wallowed in the slowest trading in many months. The Jewish religious holiday, the Columbus Day semiholiday and the World Series distracted interest.

Results in the automobile industry are being eyed as the key to general business conditions in the fourth quarter. If sales of new models are high it is anticipated that the spending will bulge over into other retail areas.

So far, carmakers report an enthusiastic public response to the newly introduced 1963s.

They stepped up production during the week to an estimated 156,000 passenger cars, the second-highest weekly output this year. All major companies worked overtime, and Chrysler recalled 600 idle workers to its Jefferson plant in Detroit.

Maintenance of the current production rate would make October the top month of the year with 705,000 cars.

Plans call for building 1.7 million to 1.8 million cars in the balance of this year, making a 1962 total of 6.8 million.

The steel industry was depending on the high automobile production to bite into inventories of steel and bring new orders.

Steel orders have been climbing the last two or three weeks but so far there has been no big gain from the carmakers. Steel industry leaders predicted a modest increase in production next month. Output during the week dipped 1.1 per cent from the previous week to 1,746,000 tons.

In the first 40 weeks of this year output totaled 76,528,000 tons, up 5.5 per cent from the 72,551,000 tons in the like period last year.

The University of Michigan's Survey Research Center poll indicated the outlook for consumer spending in the near future is optimistic. But it found that long-range trends "are far from comforting."

The survey found that most people do not expect the unemployment problem to be solved soon and feel that international tensions will have an adverse effect on business.

The Federal Reserve Board reported that department store sales during the week were unchanged from the comparable week last year. However, for the four weeks ended Oct. 6 sales were three per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1961.

Heavy construction awards in the week ended Monday rose to $504.7 million from $353.9 million the previous week and $338.9 million a year ago.

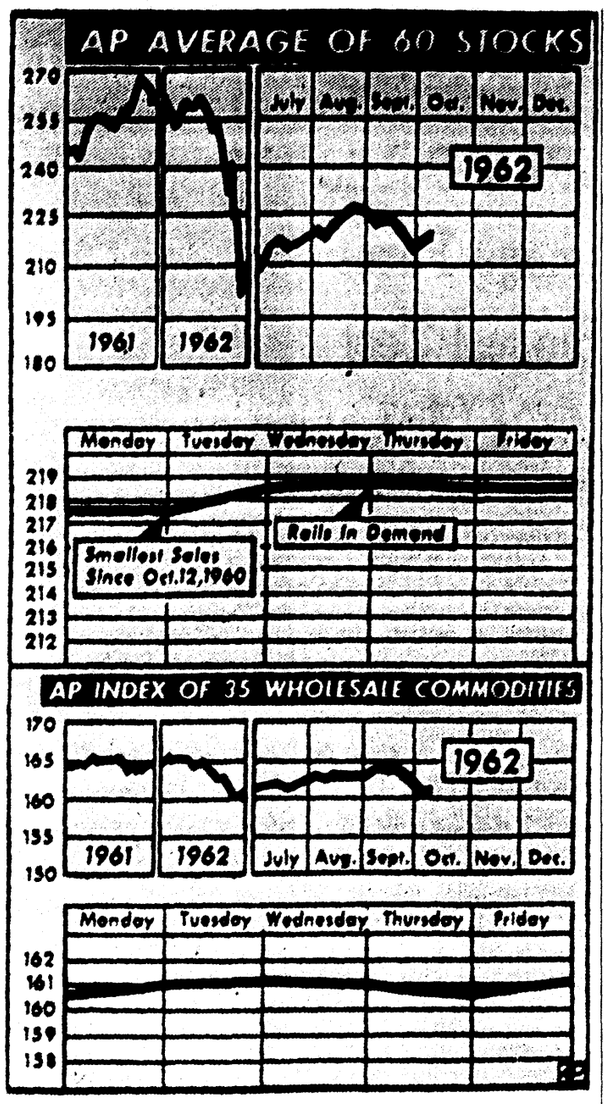
F. W. Dodge Corp., which gathers construction statistics, predicted that contract awards for new construction next year will increase to a record $43.4 billion, a gain of about five per cent over this year's anticipated total of $41.3 billion.

The company expects the boost to be inspired by income-tax cuts and greater government spending.

On the price front, the wholesale cost of coffee was cut up to five cents a pound by major roasters. Food chains indicated at least some of the reductions will be passed on to consumers.

The Justice Department filed a civil antitrust suit against three big oil companies, Cities Service, Sinclair and Richfield, and asked U.S. District Court in Los Angeles to order them to quit allocation of markets. The companies denied the accusations.

Briefly around the business scene: Foreigners have $22 billion invested in American business, most of it in common stocks . . . The Electronics Industries Association predicts that sales of industrial and commercial electronics equipment will rise to more than $4 billion in 1966 from $2.4 billion this year.



THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks advanced for the second straight week, closing Friday at 218.5 from 217.7 a week ago. The commodity index registered its first gain in three weeks when it closed today at 161.0 from 160.8 in the preceding period. Livestock showed the largest rise. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

DESPITE SCANDALS

Conservation's Progress Cited

By MAX SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Texas official says the state's slanted oil well scandal, although appalling, should not be permitted to detract from tremendous progress made in the conservation of oil and gas.

William J. Murray Jr., chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, says the equivalent of 111½ billion barrels of oil has been saved by sound conservation practices in the state since 1942.

This, he says, dwarfs the amount of oil involved in some 165 illegally slanted wells which have been found to be producing oil from adjacent leases.

Murray, as head of the state's oil and gas regulatory agency, does not minimize the seriousness of the slanted holes but says there is danger the scandal can overshadow an impressive record of progress.

Texas has more than 200,000 producing oil wells and, Murray says, less than one-tenth of one per cent are involved in the scandal.

Murray gives this breakdown for the 111½ billion barrels he estimates conservation regulations have saved the past 20 years:

1. Proration regulations which limit the production of each well to its maximum efficiency rate have added some 5 billion barrels to ultimate recovery.

"If, without maximum efficiency rate proration, the fields had been produced as rapidly as during the earlier boom era, then the estimate of 5 billion barrels increased recovery is extremely low," he said.

2. Secondary recovery operations, through which engineers boost the output from sluggish or marginal wells, have boosted ultimate recovery by 4 billion barrels.

"It is forecast that by 1980, and from that date forward, more of our annual oil production will come from secondary recovery operations than from primary production," Murray said.

3. Commission orders prohibiting the flaring of casinghead gas produced incidentally with crude oil have saved 15 trillion cubic feet of gas, the equivalent of 2½ billion barrels of oil.

"Last year, less than 2 per cent of the total gas-well and casinghead gas production was reported flared," he said.

Murray told the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association this week the commission is strengthening its investigative arm to guard against possible cheating.

"But policing must still remain subordinate to conservation," he said.

National security and population growth, he said, make such a long-range objective essential.

"The very survival of civilization will in large measure depend upon the world petroleum industry's ability to supply the energy starved masses of the world," he said.

Murray said it took all of civilization up to 1830 to produce a billion people on the earth.

"It took 100 years for the second billion, 35 years for the third billion, and it will take less than 20 years for the fourth," he said.

"If these trends countinue we will have a world population between 6 and 7 billion by the end of this century."

He said scientists in general say the dominant source of energy, not only for the United States but for the world, must be petroleum for the remainder of this century.

"The security of this nation and its future progress and standard of living depend greatly upon the petroleum industry and how well it is able to increase its exploratory efforts, improve its conservation practices, and avoid physical and economic waste," Murray said.

Cities Service Drilling Activity Is Started Over

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Cities Service Petroleum Co. resumed drilling today in its Greene County wildcat, the Robinson Land Co. No. 1, sec. 15-4n-8w, after recovering 26 gravity oil on drill stem test run in open hole at 7-876-97 feet.

Operators cored from 7,871-7,897 feet, and recovered oil sand in the Tuscaloosa formation. Drill stem test recovery was 705 feet, and bottom hole flowing pressure was 400 pounds.

The potential new field find is located in the sand hill area of Greene County, and is scheduled to be drilled to 13,000 feet.

Triad Oil & Gas Co. is drilling below 4,800 feet in its important Covington County wildcat, the Rawls No. 1, sec. 20-9n-16w, located near Mt. Olive. The venture has contract depth of 13,800 feet.

Larco Drilling Co., Best Oil Co., and E. B. Launius continue production tests at their poetential new pool opener in Amite County. The wildcat is the Whittington No. 1, sec. 4-2n-5e, located approximately two miles southwest of the east fork oil field. Operators had moved portable pumping unit in with the well flowing a small amount of oil by heads at a reported rate of approximately eight barrels of oil per hour. Tests are continuing in an effort to see if the well can be completed as a flowing well.

In the hardrock country of northeast Mississippi, Blanco Oil and Fairchild Oil Co. are below 3,400 feet in their Chickasaw County wildcat, the unit 33-1, sec. 33-13s-4e, with the venture scheduled to be drilled to 3,800 feet.

Bean And Corn Sales Highlight Market Activity

CHICAGO (AP)—Selling waves hit soybeans and corn futures on the Board of Trade last week and soybeans finished near the bottom while corn made only a modest recovery.

The sharp break in beans came Thursday, when the market responded to the Agriculture Department's October crop estimate forecasting production of 672 million bushels, 3 million bushels higher than the September forecast.

The report caught many traders completely by surprise. Reports of frost damage in northern producing areas had been circulating among traders for weeks. Some speculators thought the government estimate might drop as low as 650 million bushels.

Performance Of Mart Is Indifferent

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week put on a mixed and indifferent performance, yielding no clues as to where it may be heading.

Volume dropped to the lowest total in two years. Turnover for the week was 11,822,758 shares, compared with 13,956,680 the week before. It was the smallest weekly total since 10852,200 shares were traded in the week ended Oct. 15, 1960.

The reason for the light trading was at least threefold. Trading was cut drastically Monday because of the Jewish holiday Yom Kippur. The Columbus Day observance Friday also dampened trading. In addition, World Series baseball distracted Wall Street's attention.

A further reason for slow dealings was great uncertainty as to where the market is heading and, consequently, a reluctance of many investors to commit themselves.

"The public seems to have deserted the stock market, at least for the time being," said Bradbury K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohu & Stetson.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off .12 at 586.47, a minor change.

This average, incidentally, was moving close to where it was in the Columbus Day week of 1960, also a period of marked uncertainty. That year the market began to pick up steam before election day, a start of the tremendous market upsurge of 1961. Some stock analysts believe that election results this year, as well, may spur the market, but most of the experts have their fingers crossed.

The Associated Press average last week made a small gain of .8 at 218.5.

Even before the week started, Wall Streeters expected little of it. The holidays and the baseball games were too much to contend with, they knew.

The general market level was drifting along in a limbo between the June lows and the August highs, making no decisive moves.

The usual "mixed bag" of business and economic news backgrounded market action. The week started with a cheerful forecast that building contract awards in 1963 are likely to rise to a record. Steel production showed its first weekly drop since early September and reports were of a slowdown of incoming business.

Some of the corporate news, however, was quite good. Radio Corp. and IBM reported record earnings. General Electric reported a substantial rise in profits as well as record sales.

Bond prices closed mixed with only narrow changes resulting from lazy trading. Corporate trading on the New York Stock Exchange plunged to the lowest level in six years both Monday and Friday.

Corporates maintained a slight plus edge, the eighth gain in nine weeks, but much smaller than the previous two advances. Corporate volume for the week slipped to $16,276,000 par value from $18,796,000 the previous week and was the lowest since the holiday week of Sept. 5-9, 1960, when it was $15,870,000.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Lofts Novel Termed Excellent

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

A new novel by Norah Lofts is always eagerly received by the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. She has written several exciting books, dealing with the lives of people who have lived in different old homes in England. Her latest one is "The House at Sunset." This is a continuation of "The House at Old Vine" and while we do not meet the same house. It begins in 1739 and goes on to the present day. It is the story of three different women who loved the house and of the price they had to pay for this love. It is beautifully written and is a book which many readers will love and enjoy. Edison Marshall, who has written many historical novels has a new one "The Conqueror; a novel of Alexander the Great." As are all his books, it is carefully researched for authenticity and he has produced a book which makes the period in which Alexander lived come alive. It is told from Alexander's viewpoint and we get a good picture of what drove him to superhuman deeds and what finally destroyed him at the age of 32. His personality was a complex one. His early teacher, Aristotle had a great affect on his thinking, but when the lust for conquest took possession of him, he forgot those wise Maxims. This is a colorful, action packed book and although a long one is certain to be widely read. Two new mystery stories are available for patrons this week. They are "Of Unsound Mind" by Harry Carmichael and "Yet She Must Die" by Hugh McCutcheon. Both of these are crime club selections and are well written and interesting to read.

One of the most beautiful books that has been published in a long time is "The Horizon Book of Lost Worlds" put out by the editors of Horizon Magazine. It is a complete story of lost civilizations and of the wonderful discoveries in the field of Archeology which have taken place during the recent years. It is beautifully illustrated in color and in black and white. It has three chapters on ancient Egypt, three on the region of the Tigris - Euphrates valley, a chapter of Crete, one on Mycenae, Anatolia, the Etruscans and the Maya. This is truly a fine bok and we are very happy to have it in our collection.

A book which sheds much light on conditions in Japan during the years of the allied occupation is "Mother and Son" by Isoko and Ichiro Hatana. It has been compiled from their letters and it is a very fine piece of writing. A book which everyone should read is "A Study of Communism" written by J. Edgar Hoover. In this book, the author gives a history of world communism and also discusses Communism in the United States. Copies of this book are available at each branch of the library, so that everyone who wants it may have a copy to read. It is not a pleasant story, but it is one which will make you think.

"Jade, Stone of Heaven" is another fabulous book in the fine arts field. It was written by Richard Gump, the third of his line to head "Gump's the famed store on Post Street in San Francisco well known for its Oriental art and its unrivalled jade collection. This book is a remarkable blend of intensely practical information on the handling, carving and buying of Jade along with the most delightful and exotic legends of the precious stone's history. For those who wish to purchase jade and would like to know how much it should cost, how to distinguish the real from the fake and where to look for fine jade, Mr. Gump's work is indispensable. This is an outstanding book and the library is happy to have a copy in its collection.

Many people in this community are interested in painting and will welcome an outstanding book called "The Story Behind the Painting" by Leo Rosten. Some of the painters are old masters, some are modern. There are beautiful illustrations and also much factual information. This is truly a fine book and one that every library should own. "The Three Lives of Helen Keller" by Richard Harrity and Ralph G. Martin is a new biography of a most amazing woman. Those who have seen the play or the movie "The Miracle Worker" will be especially interested in this book. It is well done and makes exciting reading.

Northern Firm Reverses Stand On South Trade

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP)—A northern firm which refused to fill an order here "until Mississippi settles its difference with the government of the United States" had a changed mind Saturday.

"The South has risen again," said W. Weisbord, president of the Regent Standard Forms Inc.

About two weeks ago the Philadelphia, Pa., firm refused to fill an order for the Koestler Tile Co., of Greenville, and asked "shall we hold your order until such time as Mississippi has re-entered the union?"

Rudolph Koestler answered the question with an order to a Texas firm for the forms.

OIL, GAS DISTRICT

Pace Of Drilling Continues Heavy

Monroe Oil and Gas District drilling activity continued unabated over the preceding week, with a total of 20 completions recorded over 14 north Louisiana parishes — one more than a week ago. Sixteen of that number were in the Monroe Gas Field of Ouachita, Morehouse and Union Parishes.

Eight finals were reported in Ouachita Parish alone, according to District Manager Duncan S. Cook, all shallow gas producers, units of D. J. Simmons Company of Louisiana. Five were in Morehouse and three in Union.

Other completions during the week were found in Richland, Catahoula, Concordia and LaSalle Parishes, one each.

New locations continued to sprout over the area as summary weather held on into late Fall, and Cook listed a total of 22 fresh stakings. Six were marked out in Ouachita Parish, again all in the Monroe Field, with othar locations scattered over Avoyelles, Caldwell, Catahoula, Concordia, LaSalle, Tensas and Union Parishes.

Active rigs numbered 36, most drilling or testing in Tensas Parish. Of an even dozen there, seven were in the Buckhorn Field. Out of 36 active, all but three were reported drilling.

A single active rig in Ouachita Parish was of more than nominal interest, that being a unit of J. C. Trahan Drilling Contractors, listed as boring at 1400 feet on parish Police Jury property at the site of the G. B. Cooley Hospital.

A final is expected this week.

Here's the week's rundown on completions, new locations and active rigs:

COMPLETIONS

CATAHOULA PARISH, Tew Lake Field—H. A. Harper's Mrs. E. H. Taliaferro no. 1, located in sec. 26-9-6E, depth 4370 ft.

CONCORDIA PARISH, Deer Park Field—J. C. Trahan Drilling Contr.'s Graham no. 1, located in sec. 45-5-9E, depth 6136 ft.

LA SALLE PARISH, Wildcat Field—Tensas Delta et al's HOR-Ten. Delta no. 1, located in sec. 6-5-4E, depth 5310 ft.

Auto Industry Bright Spot In Business

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The automobile industry was the brightest spot in the economy during the week.

Most other segments of business rocked along at a good but far from startling pace.

The stock market wallowed in the slowest trading in many months. The Jewish religious holiday, the Columbus Day semiholiday and the World Series distracted interest.

Results in the automobile industry are being eyed as the key to general business conditions in the fourth quarter. If sales of new models are high it is anticipated that the spending will bulge over into other retail areas.

So far, carmakers report an enthusiastic public response to the newly introduced 1963s.

They stepped up production during the week to an estimated 156,000 passenger cars, the second-highest weekly output this year. All major companies worked overtime, and Chrysler recalled 600 idle workers to its Jefferson plant in Detroit.

Maintenance of the current production rate would make October the top month of the year with 705,000 cars.

Plans call for building 1.7 million to 1.8 million cars in the balance of this year, making a 1962 total of 6.8 million.

The steel industry was depending on the high automobile production to bite into inventories of steel and bring new orders.

Steel orders have been climbing the last two or three weeks but so far there has been no big gain from the carmakers. Steel industry leaders predicted a modest increase in production next month. Output during the week dipped 1.1 per cent from the previous week to 1,746,000 tons.

In the first 40 weeks of this year output totaled 76,528,000 tons, up 5.5 per cent from the 72,551,000 tons in the like period last year.

The University of Michigan's Survey Research Center poll indicated the outlook for consumer spending in the near future is optimistic. But it found that long-range trends "are far from comforting."

The survey found that most people do not expect the unemployment problem to be solved soon and feel that international tensions will have an adverse effect on business.

The Federal Reserve Board reported that department store sales during the week were unchanged from the comparable week last year. However, for the four weeks ended Oct. 6 sales were three per cent higher than in the corresponding period of 1961.

Heavy construction awards in the week ended Monday rose to $504.7 million from $353.9 million the previous week and $338.9 million a year ago.

F. W. Dodge Corp., which gathers construction statistics, predicted that contract awards for new construction next year will increase to a record $43.4 billion, a gain of about five per cent over this year's anticipated total of $41.3 billion.

The company expects the boost to be inspired by income-tax cuts and greater government spending.

On the price front, the wholesale cost of coffee was cut up to five cents a pound by major roasters. Food chains indicated at least some of the reductions will be passed on to consumers.

The Justice Department filed a civil antitrust suit against three big oil companies, Cities Service, Sinclair and Richfield, and asked U.S. District Court in Los Angeles to order them to quit allocation of markets. The companies denied the accusations.

Briefly around the business scene: Foreigners have $22 billion invested in American business, most of it in common stocks . . . The Electronics Industries Association predicts that sales of industrial and commercial electronics equipment will rise to more than $4 billion in 1966 from $2.4 billion this year.

TO GAS, IMPORTS

Coal Industry Tires Of Losing Markets

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The coal industry is fed up with losing its markets to natural gas and foreign oil imports and has set out with new determination to reverse the trend.

It will carry its fight to the next Congress; to the Federal Power Commission (FPC) which regulates interstate gas prices and says where gas shall be sold; to the courts; to state legislatures and state regulatory bodies; to the market place, "and to wherever else the best interests of the public will be served."

The task ahead is monumental. It pits fuel giant against fuel giant. But National Coal Association (NCA) President Stephen F. Dunn thinks a modicum of success lies ahead if coal and allied interests fight hard and objectively.

The coal industry has been newly aroused by a series of adverse developments. These include:

—Ever stronger gas competition in all energy markets, with full approval of the FPC.

—Failure of Congress and the Kennedy administration to curb oil imports, especially heavy fuel oil which fires industrial boilers.

—Failure of Congress to adopt a national fuels policy which would allow coal to compete "more equitably" with gas and oil.

—A recent fuels study report prepared for the Senate interior committee which the NCA and the National Coal Policy Conference (NCP) felt unfairly damaged coal's competitive position.

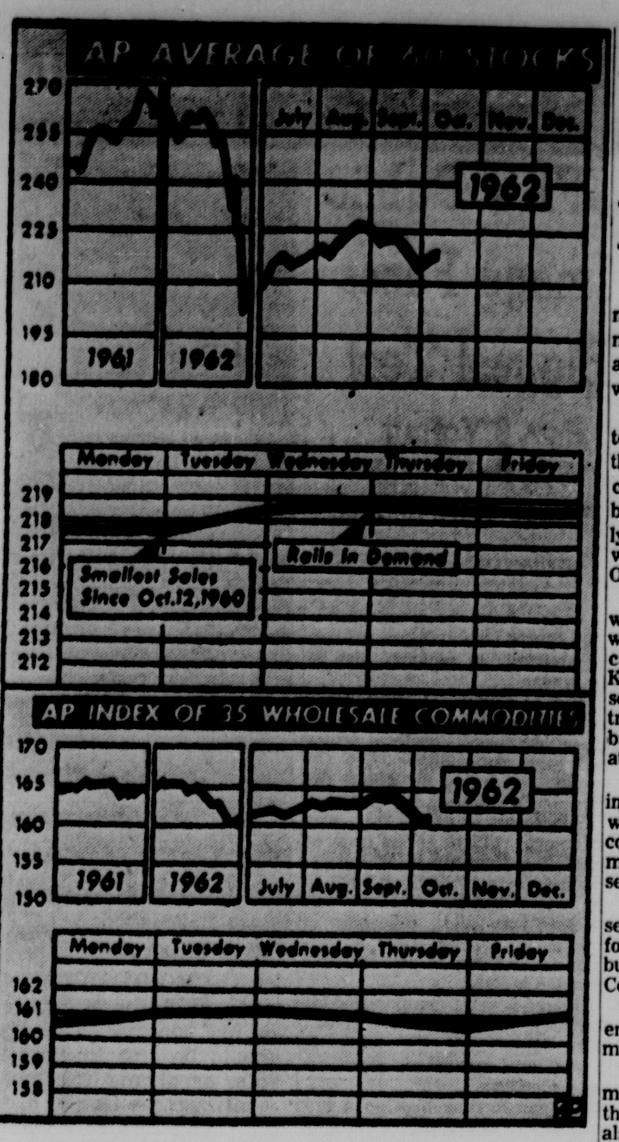
Add to this a rather ironic situation for both goal and gas.

West Virginia's Consolidation Coal Co., perhaps the nation's biggest, is collaborating with a national gas carrier—Texas, Eastern Transmission Corp., Houston—on a proposal to build a coal slurry pipeline from the West Virginia-Ohio area to the Eastern Seaboard to compete with gas and oil.

At the same time coal interests are opposing before the FPC Texas Eastern's proposed sale of 22,440,000 cubic feet of gas daily to three New York and New Jersey utilities. Coal is charging the gas will fuel boilers in electric generating plants during off-peak periods.

Those are only a few of the problems that have beset coal and invigorated the NCA and the NPC into an all-out fight for coal's survival.

President Kennedy is giving ear to both industries. He recognizes that domestic oil and gas producers have been hurt by foreign oil and is keeping a sharp eye on imports which, however, play a big role in foreign policy.



THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks advanced for the second straight week, closing Friday at 218.5 from 217.7 a week ago. The commodity index registered its first gain in three weeks when it closed today at 161.0 from 160.8 in the preceding period. Livestock showed the largest rise. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

DESPITE SCANDALS

Conservation's Progress Cited

By MAX SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A Texas official says the state's slanted oil well scandal, although appalling, should not be permitted to detract from tremendous progress made in the conservation of oil and gas.

William J. Murray Jr., chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, says the equivalent of 11½ billion barrels of oil has been saved by sound conservation practices in the state since 1942.

This, he says, dwarfs the amount of oil involved in some 165 illegally slanted wells which have been found to be producing oil from adjacent leases.

Murray, as head of the state's oil and gas regulatory agency, does not minimize the seriousness of the slanted holes but says there is danger the scandal can overshadow an impressive record of progress.

Texas has more than 200,000 producing oil wells and, Murray says, less than one-tenth of one per cent are involved in the scandal.

Murray gives this breakdown for the 11½ billion barrels he estimates conservation regulations have saved the past 20 years:

1. Proration regulations which limit the production of each well to its maximum efficiency rate have added some 5 billion barrels to ultimate recovery.

"If, without maximum efficiency rate proration, the fields had been produced as rapidly as during the earlier boom era, then the estimate of 5 billion barrels increased recovery is extremely low," he said.

2. Secondary recovery operations, through which engineers boost the output from sluggish or marginal wells, have boosted ultimate recovery by 4 billion barrels.

"It is forecast that by 1980, and from that date forward, more of our annual oil production will come from secondary recovery operations than from primary production," Murray said.

3. Commission orders prohibiting the flaring of casinghead gas produced incidentally with crude oil have saved 15 trillion cubic feet of gas, the equivalent of 2½ billion barrels of oil.

"Last year, less than 2 per cent of the total gas-well and casinghead gas production was reported flared," he said.

Murray told the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association this week the commission is strengthening its investigative arm to guard against possible cheating.

"But policing must still remain subordinate to conservation," he said.

National security and population growth, he said, make such a long-range objective essential.

"The very survival of civilization will in large measure depend upon the world petroleum industry's ability to supply the energy starved masses of the world," he said.

Murray said it took all of civilization up to 1830 to produce a billion people on the earth.

"It took 100 years for the second billion, 35 years for the third billion, and it will take less than 20 years for the fourth," he said.

"If these trends countinue we will have a world population between 6 and 7 billion by the end of this century."

He said scientists in general say the dominant source of energy, not only for the United States but for the world, must be petroleum for the remainder of this century.

"The security of this nation and its future progress and standard of living depend greatly upon the petroleum industry and how well it is able to increase its exploratory efforts, improve its conservation practices, and avoid physical and economic waste," Murray said.

Cities Service Drilling Activity Is Started Over

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Cities Service Petroleum Co. resumed drilling today in its Greene County wildcat, the Robinson Land Co. No. 1, sec. 15-4n-8w, after recovering 26 gravity oil on drill stem test run in open hole at 7-876-97 feet.

Operators cored from 7,871-7,897 feet, and recovered oil sand in the Tuscaloosa formation. Drill stem test recovery was 705 feet, and bottom hole flowing pressure was 400 pounds.

The potential new field find is located in the sand hill area of Greene County, and is scheduled to be drilled to 13,000 feet.

Triad Oil & Gas Co. is drilling below 4,800 feet in its important Covington County wildcat, the Rawls No. 1, sec. 20-9n-16w, located near Mt. Olive. The venture has contract depth of 13,800 feet.

Larco Drilling Co., Best Oil Co., and E. B. Launius continue production tests at their poetential new pool opener in Amite County. The wildcat is the Whittington No. 1, sec. 4-2n-5e, located approximately two miles southwest of the east fork oil field. Operators had moved portable pumping unit in with the well flowing a small amount of oil by heads at a reported rate of approximately eight barrels of oil per hour. Tests are continuing in an effort to see if the well can be completed as a flowing well.

In the hardrock country of northeast Mississippi, Blanco Oil and Fairchild Oil Co. are below 3,400 feet in their Chickasaw County wildcat, the unit 33-1, sec. 33-13s-4e, with the venture scheduled to be drilled to 3,800 feet.

Bean And Corn Sales Highlight Market Activity

CHICAGO (AP)—Selling waves hit soybeans and corn futures on the Board of Trade last week and soybeans finished near the bottom while corn made only a modest recovery.

The sharp break in beans came Thursday, when the market responded to the Agriculture Department's October crop estimate forecasting production of 672 million bushels, 3 million bushels higher than the September forecast.

The report caught many traders completely by surprise. Reports of frost damage in northern producing areas had been circulating among traders for weeks. Some speculators thought the government estimate might drop as low as 650 million bushels.

Performance Of Mart Is Indifferent

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market last week put on a mixed and indifferent performance, yielding no clues as to where it may be heading.

Volume dropped to the lowest total in two years. Turnover for the week was 11,822,758 shares, compared with 13,956,680 the week before. It was the smallest weekly total since 10852,200 shares were traded in the week ended Oct. 15, 1960.

The reason for the light trading was at least threefold. Trading was cut drastically Monday because of the Jewish holiday Yom Kippur. The Columbus Day observance Friday also dampened trading. In addition, World Series baseball distracted Wall Street's attention.

A further reason for slow dealings was great uncertainty as to where the market is heading and, consequently, a reluctance of many investors to commit themselves.

"The public seems to have deserted the stock market, at least for the time being," said Bradbury K. Thurlow of Winslow, Cohu & Stetson.

The Dow Jones industrial average was off .12 at 586.47, a minor change.

This average, incidentally, was moving close to where it was in the Columbus Day week of 1960, also a period of marked uncertainty. That year the market began to pick up steam before election day, a start of the tremendous market upsurge of 1961. Some stock analysts believe that election results this year, as well, may spur the market, but most of the experts have their fingers crossed.

The Associated Press average last week made a small gain of .8 at 218.5.

Even before the week started, Wall Streeters expected little of it. The holidays and the baseball games were too much to contend with, they knew.

The general market level was drifting along in a limbo between the June lows and the August highs, making no decisive moves.

The usual "mixed bag" of business and economic news backgrounded market action. The week started with a cheerful forecast that building contract awards in 1963 are likely to rise to a record. Steel production showed its first weekly drop since early September and reports were of a slowdown of incoming business.

Some of the corporate news, however, was quite good. Radio Corp. and IBM reported record earnings. General Electric reported a substantial rise in profits as well as record sales.

Bond prices closed mixed with only narrow changes resulting from lazy trading. Corporate trading on the New York Stock Exchange plunged to the lowest level in six years both Monday and Friday.

Corporates maintained a slight plus edge, the eighth gain in nine weeks, but much smaller than the previous two advances. Corporate volume for the week slipped to $16,276,000 par value from $18,796,000 the previous week and was the lowest since the holiday week of Sept. 5-9, 1960, when it was $15,870,000.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Lofts Novel Termed Excellent

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

A new novel by Norah Lofts is always eagerly received by the patrons of the Ouachita Parish Public Library. She has written several exciting books, dealing with the lives of people who have lived in different old homes in England. Her latest one is "The House at Sunset." This is a continuation of "The House at Old Vine" and while we do not meet the same house. It begins in 1739 and goes on to the present day. It is the story of three different women who loved the house and of the price they had to pay for this love. It is beautifully written and is a book which many readers will love and enjoy. Edison Marshall, who has written many historical novels has a new one "The Conqueror; a novel of Alexander the Great." As are all his books, it is carefully researched for authenticity and he has produced a book which makes the period in which Alexander lived come alive. It is told from Alexander's viewpoint and we get a good picture of what drove him to superhuman deeds and what finally destroyed him at the age of 32. His personality was a complex one. His early teacher, Aristotle had a great affect on his thinking, but when the lust for conquest took possession of him, he forgot those wise Maxims. This is a colorful, action packed book and although a long one is certain to be widely read. Two new mystery stories are available for patrons this week. They are "Of Unsound Mind" by Harry Carmichael and "Yet She Must Die" by Hugh McCutcheon. Both of these are crime club selections and are well written and interesting to read.

One of the most beautiful books that has been published in a long time is "The Horizon Book of Lost Worlds" put out by the editors of Horizon Magazine. It is a complete story of lost civilizations and of the wonderful discoveries in the field of Archeology which have taken place during the recent years. It is beautifully illustrated in color and in black and white. It has three chapters on ancient Egypt, three on the region of the Tigris - Euphrates valley, a chapter of Crete, one on Mycenae, Anatolia, the Etruscans and the Maya. This is truly a fine bok and we are very happy to have it in our collection.

A book which sheds much light on conditions in Japan during the years of the allied occupation is "Mother and Son" by Isoko and Ichiro Hatana. It has been compiled from their letters and it is a very fine piece of writing. A book which everyone should read is "A Study of Communism" written by J. Edgar Hoover. In this book, the author gives a history of world communism and also discusses Communism in the United States. Copies of this book are available at each branch of the library, so that everyone who wants it may have a copy to read. It is not a pleasant story, but it is one which will make you thin

"Jade, Stone of Heaven" is another fabulous book in the fine arts field. It was written by Richard Gump, the third of his line to head "Gump's the famed store on Post Street in San Francisco, well known for its Oriental art and its unrivalled jade collection. This book is a remarkable blend of intensely practical information on the handling, carving and buying of Jade along with the most delightful and exotic legends of the precious stone's history. For those who wish to purchase jade and would like to know how much it should cost, how to distinguish the real from the fake and where to look for fine jade, Mr. Gump's work is indispensable. This is an outstanding book and the library is happy to have a copy in its collection.

Many people in this community are interested in painting and will welcome an outstanding book called "The Story Behind the Painting" by Leo Rosten. Some of the painters are old masters, some are modern. There are beautiful illustrations and also much factual information. This is truly a fine book and one that every library should own. "The Three Lives of Helen Keller" by Richard Harrity and Ralph G. Martin is a new biography of a most amazing woman. Those who have seen the play or the movie "The Miracle Worker" will be especially interested in this book. It is well done and makes exciting reading.

Northern Firm Reverses Stand On South Trade

GREENVILLE, Miss. (AP)—A northern firm which refused to fill an order here "until Mississippi settles its difference with the government of the United States" had a changed mind Saturday.

"The South has risen again," said W. Weisbord, president of the Regent Standard Forms Inc.

About two weeks ago the Philadelphia, Pa., firm refused to fill an order for the Koestler Tile Co., of Greenville, and asked "shall we hold your order until such time as Mississippi has re-entered the union?"

Rudolph Koestler answered the question with an order to a Texas firm for the forms.

Saturday: Richard Widmark and Henry Fonda in "Warlock," also Maureen O'Hara and Steve Cochran in "Deadly Companions."

Curtain Call

There is an air of excitement and expectation at Strauss Playhouse these days as we come toward the opening of "The Solid Gold Cadillac." All the separate pieces involved in action, sets, properties, sound, lights and special effects are being dovetailed.

The sets employ a technique now much in vogue on Broadway in shows like "How to Succeed in Business." According to executive director Richard M. Clark, who designed them, their concept is to intensify the farcical atmosphere of the comedy. As our members know, we like to stay in the forefront of new theatrical devices.

Additions to the cast are June Sherman and Judy Cathey. June was last seen in "Anniversary Waltz," while Judy recently won the title of North Louisiana Cotton Queen.

REHEARSALS

Rehearsals of "The Solid Gold Cadillac," are now restricted to cast, crew and board members. Dress rehearsal Tuesday night is for guests of the cast with admission by ticket only. The gala preview for patrons takes place Wednesday, with the official opening Thursday. The play runs each night at 8:15 p.m. through Monday, October 22. The 2:30 p.m. matinee Saturday is limited to guests of the AGC convention.

By now members have received full information about making reservations, but this will serve as a reminder that the Lamy Lane box office will be open from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. daily from Monday through the run of the show, with Miss Jerilyn Gilstrap on duty. Ring FAirfax 3-1235 or call in person for reservations. Memberships can be secured at the same time for those who still lack them.

House and grounds chairman Russ Kettenring gave up vacation time to make sure that our grass plots and flower beds were properly manicured before opening night. Photographers are now welcome.

Thanks to the many people who called about Miss Gladys Diamond Now Mrs. Lamar Lane of Rayville, she has kindly offered us a copy of her thesis on our theatre as soon as she can locate one.

KINSHIP

The Little Theatre naturally feels a kinship to other cultural activities of our area. Today we salute the Caldwell Art Festival which had its 7th annual renewal a week ago Saturday. The many members of Little Theatre and others who went to Columbia were rewarded not only by the largest art exhibit in the history of the festival, but also by many cultural spheres.

A major effort like this must be the work of many, but none will object, we are sure, if we single out Mrs. O. N. Reynolds for the leadership, imagination and energy she has devoted to this cause. An artist herself and member of an artistic family, Mrs. Reynolds has become virtually synonymous with the Caldwell Art Festival. Our area is deeply indebted to her for this distinguished annual event.

Another of our great cultural institutions is Northeast Louisiana State College. Curtain Call recently visited the College Union building which has just been opened on the campus. While the main purpose was to see the 220-seat theatre housed in this handsome edifice, we were equally impressed with the lounge, meeting rooms and recreational facilities. It is said that only Tulane has anything comparable in our state. Particularly significant to taxpayers, its entire cost will be repaid out of income derived from student facilities.

Our search for missing programs is beginning to bear fruit. Miss May Read and Ted Landhy, each with many years of past service on our board, unearthed 21 and 8 respectively. Others who have helped are Yvonne Anderson, Bonnie Bennett, Maud Mayo, Joe Kern, Everett Lawson, and Grandpa Nobes. Won't someone look real hard for "She Stoops To Conquer" (1955), "Blithe Spirit" (1949), and "Dear Ruth" (1948)?

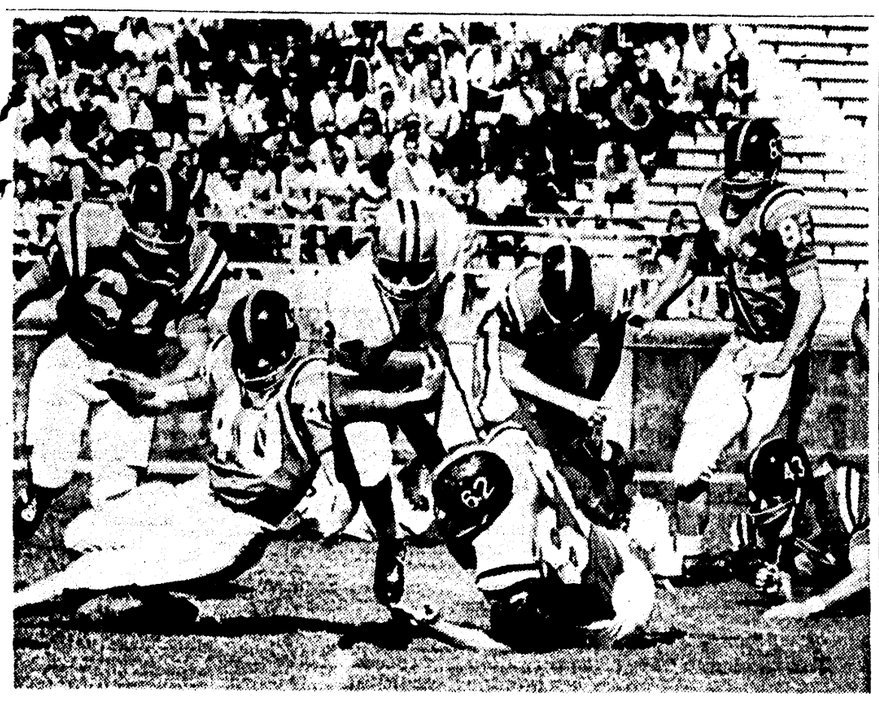
McNeese Comes From Behind To Defeat Northeast State, 13-8



BILL SYMENS (34), Colorado's halfback pours on the steam going through the Oklahoma State line in a Big Eight Conference game at Stillwater, Okla., Saturday. Oklahoma State players are Rex Russell (62) and James Harris (82). Oklahoma State won 36-6. (AP Wirephoto)

Thompson Is Main Cowboy In GSC Tilt

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — Quarterback Tommy Thompson dashed 43-yards to set up the winning touchdown and led McNeese to a 13-8 victory over Northeast in a Gulf States Conference battle Saturday night.

Thompson's dash in the third quarter carried to the Northeast 35 and the Cowboys scored six plays later on Darrell Lester's one yard smash off tackle.

SUMMARY	Northeast	McNeese
First Downs	10	8
Rushing Yardage	106	165
Passing Yardage	49	39
Passes	14-6	5-2
Passes Incl. By	0	1
Punts	8-36.9	9-34.2
Penalties	35	63
Fumbles Lost	1	1

Thompson was the game's leading offensive performer of the night with 94 yards rushing and time and again kept McNeese moving with effective runs on crucial third down plays

McNeese, in running its GSC record to 1-1 for the year, scored early in the first period after recovering a Northeast fumble.

The winning touchdown in the third period came at the end of an 86 yard march. The Cowboys took over on their 14 after John Kelly got off a tremendous 77-yard kick to the two yard line and Lloyd Guillot returned to the 14.

Darrell Lester went for a yard and Dale Barbeau for seven before Thompson, with third and two at the 22 went wide for 43 yards before Salsman finally pulled him down on the Northeast 35.

The Cowboys picked up four yards on two runnings plays before Thompson hit Jay Hebert for 24-yards to the seven. Three plays later Lester banged off tackle for the touchdown.

Thompson was downed when he tried to run the extra points and McNeese had a 13-8 lead with 4:44 left in the period.

Northeast moved to the McNeese 37 later in the third period but never got closer than the Cowpoke 47 in the final stanza.

With 1:54 left in the game, Northeast took over after a Cowboy punt on its 27 and almost pulled the game out of the fire with a long pass. Pete Vincent passed to Ronnie Myrick, the fastest man on the team who was switched to halfback on the play. Myrick had a step on the defender at the 20 but the pass was a foot short and Mike Regan intercepted. Time ran out three plays later.

Northeast lost the ball on a fumble on the second scrimmage play of the game when Ken Newton bobbled the ball and Gerald Conner recovered on the Northeast 35.

Helped by two officials offsides penalties against Northeast and a 15 yard pass from Dick Gillory to Hebert, the Cowboys moved to the nine from where Gillott ran up the middle for the touchdown.

Billy Dore's kick was good and McNeese led 7-0 with 11:34 left in the first quarter.

With Mike Cooper running the Maroon team at quarterback, Northeast moved from its 32 to the McNeese 14 late in the initial period but the drive fell short when Pete Vincent's field goal try was wide to the left.

McNeese took over on its 20 but on the first play Thompson, hit hard by Billy Foster, fumbled and Joe Alewine pounced on the ball on the 11.

Devonne Payne went wide for five yards and the Indians got three yards on an offsides penalty against McNeese. Ken Newton ran to the two as the quarter ended.

Payne smashed up the middle on the first play of the second quarter and then Myrick dashed around left end for one yard and the touchdown with 14:32 left.

On a fake kick, Myrick tossed to Salsman for two points and an 8-7 lead on the PAT try.

Northeast had one big chance to win the game late in the half when the Indians marched from the 50 to the Cowboy seven. Ken Newton's 14 yard run and Myrick's passes to Wendel Drost for six yards and to Tommy Latham for 15 sparked the drive.

With first and goal on the seven, three passes were incomplete, the last one bounding off Drost's fingertips in the end zone.

With 20 seconds left another field goal try by Vincent was wide.

Then came the third quarter and the winning McNeese touchdown.

Newton was Northeast's leading rusher with 42 yards in 11 trips while Willie Ragan got 22 yards on seven carries.

Myrick passed eight times for three completions and 42 yards while Cooper hit on three of five for 27 yards.

For the season Northeast is 1-3 while McNeese is 2-1-1.

Jerry Stovall Scores First Bengal Mark

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana State University's hard-tackling Tigers calmed down Miami's Golden Hurricane quarterback George Mira to a soft breeze when it counted most Saturday night for a thrilling 17 to 3 victory before 67,600.

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Statistics of the Miami-Louisiana State game:

	Miami	LSU
First downs	18	15
Rushing yardage	96	231
Passing yardage	168	35
Passes	14-33	2-6
Passes intercepted	0	0
Punts	5-30.2	7-40.9
Fumbles lost	1	0
Yards penalized	50	61

Time and time again the dazzling junior sent Miami roaring down the field on brilliant drives, but when their goal was threatened, the Tigers charged in and the best the Miamians could do was a field goal late in the first period from 20 yards out by Bobby Wilson.

Although the Hurricane, suffering its first defeat this season, moved to within scoring range three other times, it could not get the ball across.

But Mira, who was as good as his press clippings and who connected on 14 of 33 passes for 168 yards, was a constant threat throughout the game until the Tigers went ahead 17 to 3 with 11 minutes left in the fourth period. Halfback Danny LeBlanc rambled from 10 yards out to score, carrying two Miami defenders into the end zone with him.

West Monroe's Jerry Stovall scored the first Tiger touchdown shortly before the half on a 26-yard jaunt, while quarterback Lynn Amedee, who had kicked a 30-yard field goal earlier in the period to tie the score, booted both extra points.

But besides Amedee, Stovall and LeBlanc there were numerous other heroes such as tackle Fred Miller and center Dennis Gaubatz who slammed through to throw Mira for losses at vital points in the game.

Others were halfback Bo Campbell, Charles Cranford, end Danny Neumann of Tallulah, end Bob Flurry of Homer, halfback Johnny Mercer and end Gene Sykes.

Neumann, who got his chance to show what he could do with the punting chores, played it perfectly. The big junior moved in when Stovall suffered a leg injury early in the game, and punted five times for 209 yards and a 41.8 average. Even more important, however, were the ones he kept Miami off balance with. In the third period, he booted one out of bounds on the Miami two and then a short time later, he lofted one toward the moon, allowing LSU's charging linemen to down it on the two.

Miami never seemed to recover from this unexpected onslaught.

Then it was Miller and end Jack Gates who stopped the last great Miami drive late in the game.

On the tremendous passing of Mira, the Hurricane had moved to the LSU seven. The Tigers held and on the fourth play, Gates and Miller swept through the defenders to nail Mira back on the 17 and end the threat.

Although the Tigers were supposed to win by 14 points — the number they did — they should receive higher ranking this week because of the impressive manner in which they contained the Miamians. This was the first time this season they had failed to score a touchdown. Almost from the start, although Mira was a constant and dangerous threat, it appeared the Tigers had command of the game. On the initial kickoff, Stovall took the ball on his five and when to the 34. At one point, it seemed he might go all the way — just as he did against Georgia Tech the previous Saturday. Then LeBlanc went for 16. But the Miami defense stiffened and the Tigers had to give up the ball. On their initial attack, the Miamians drove to the Tiger 47, high lighted by a Mira-to-Bill Sparks pass. After an exchange of punts, Miami got the ball on its 12-yard line and roared down the field. First Mira hit end Bob Werl with 14-yarder, then Ben Rizzo with a 20-yard pass, then fullback Nich Ryder with a 13-yarder. With a first down on the Tiger four, it appeared Miami would score. But the Bengals held, forcing Wilson to kick the field goal for the only score.

The Tigers made their bid early in the second period. Taking the ball on their own 10, fullback Steve Ward went for 13, then LeBlanc for 20. But the drive was halted at the Miami 40. But a few minutes later, Ryder fumbled on his 20 — and Ward pounced on it for LSU. Three plays later, Amedee, who played offensive quarterback for both the White and Go teams because of an injury to Jimmy Field, booted his

Tech Rally Defeats Arlington's Rebels

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

RUSTON — Louisiana Tech exploded for three touchdowns in the third quarter to take a 19-9 revenge win over Arlington State before some 7,000 fans in the Canines' second home game of the season here Saturday night.

Down 3-0 at the half, the Bulldogs utilized three breaks occurring deep in Arlington territory to put the game out of reach.

SUMMARY	Arlington	Tech

Yards Rushing	148	168
Passes (A. & C.)	15-4	28-15
Passes Interc. By	0	5
Yards Passing	81	153

Senior quarterback Mickey Slaughter got the first score on a three yards sneak that capped a 27 yard march early in the period.

Tallulah freshman Wayne Noland got the second on a one yard plunge after the Bulldogs had driven 35 yards.

Another freshman, Gerald McDowell, got the final tally from two yards away, ending a two play 27 yard march.

Arlington went in front 3-0 in the opening quarter on quarterback Charlie Key's 42 yard fieldgoal and the Rebels stopped a number of Tech drives to hold the lead until the third period Tech scoring spree.

Arlington's only other score came on halfback Jimmy Campbell's beautiful 98 yard punt return in the final period.

The win upped the Bulldogs' record to 2-1 for the season and was ample revenge for a last minute 8-7 reversal at the hands of the Rebels in Arlington last year.

Tech had a number of standouts. McDowell and Noland paced Tech rushing, McDowell with 58 yards on nine carries and Noland with 50 on 18 carries.

Slaughter completed nine of eighteen passes for 87 yards while freshman quarterback Billy Laird hit six of 10 for 66 yards. End Jerry Griffin caught five aerials for 48 yards and halfback Jack Odom latched four for 31.

Quarterback Doug Wilson, a fleet-footed option runner, paced Arlington with 59 yards on 11 runs. He completed two of eight passes for 44 yards. End Neal Estes caught two passes for 37 yards.

Arlington State took a 3-0 lead in the first quarter on quarterback Charlie Key's 42-yard field goal with 1:22 remaining in the opening stanza.

The Rebels drove from the Tech 42 to the 25 in eight plays after recovering a Laird fumble and stopped four deep Bulldog drives to hold the Techsters scoreless until intermission.

The Bulldogs took the opening kickoff and drove from their own 42 to the Arlington 17, but three incomplete passes killed the march.

In the second quarter, Tech went from Arlington's 49 to the Rebels' two yard line, mainly on a fine 49-yard run by freshman fullback Gerald McDowell, but Arlington held again.

Later in the period the Canines marched from their 47 to the Rebel 22, behind Laird's quarterbacking. Laird hit freshman halfback Tommy Robertson in the end zone on a 22-yarder, but the North Caddo High product couldn't hold onto the ball. A 15-yard penalty helped halt the march.

Then with 28 seconds to go in the half, Slaughter came in to move the ball from the Tech 43 to the Arlington 20 on three complete passes, but Slaughter's pass into the Arlington end zone was broken up as the horn sounded.

Tech erupted in the third period to score all three of its touchdowns.

The first one came with 13:20 still remaining in the third period. Tech guard Jack Collins recovered Doug Hart's fumble on the second half kick-off at the Arlington 27.

It took the Canines just four plays to get the touchdown, with Slaughter going over from the three on a sneak. Jack Hopkins kicked the only one of his extra point attempts to put Tech in front 7-3.

Slaughter sparked the drive, passing to Griffin on an 11-yarder at the Arlington 16. He then kept for 13 yards to the three after an incomplete pass, and went over on the next play.

Arlington couldn't move after the following kickoff and tackle Red Malone pounced on a loose ball at the Rebel's 35 when Key had trouble getting off his fourth down punt.

This time Tech scored in 10 plays, with most of them coming on the ground. Noland, who had a fine night rushing, went over from the one with 7:02 still to play in the third period. Hopkins' kick was off to the right.

Following the kickoff the Rebels marched to their own 46 where freshman Dwain Nettles made the first of two key interceptions at the Bulldog 30. He returned the ball behind good blocking to the Arlington 27.

Laird hit freshman end David Lee at the two on the next play. A penalty moved the ball to the one and McDowell punched over on the next play. Hopkins' kick with 2:08 remaining in the quarter was no good and Tech led 19-3.

The only other scoring came in the fourth quarter when Arlington halfback Jimmy Campbell took a punt on his own two and speed 98 yards down the left sideline behind tremendous blocking for the score.

An Arlington mixup on the PAT attempt killed this effort with 13:40 still to play.

Arlington did drive from its own 34 to the Tech seven, with most of the yardage on a 40 yard pass from quarterback Wilson to fullback Alford Smith. And the Rebels seemed headed for paydirt before Nettles' snared another pass in the end zone and romped out to the Bulldog 25.

Missouri Whips Kansas State To Stay Undefeated

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Unbeaten Missouri overpowered Kansas State 32-0 in its Big Eight Conference football opener Saturday, with halfback Bill Tobin and Roland, a fleet and clever 191-pound sophomore, scored twice besides his 9-yard touchdown flick to Tobin.

Johnny Roland operating smoothly behind a big, tough line.

Tobin, a 193-pound senior, caught two touchdown passes, one from Roland and set up another touchdown with a 21-yard burst.

Oklahoma State In Big Eight Victory

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Slow-starting Oklahoma State came alive in the second quarter Saturday and raced past game but outmanned Colorado 36-16 in a Big Eight Conference football game.

Duke Downs California In Homecoming

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI)—Duke's power-laden Blue Devils plowed through California with the greatest of ease Saturday and then bottled up a Golden Bear passing attack to take a 21 to 7 decision in an intersectional match before 31,000 sweating homecoming fans.

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Statistics of the California-Duke football game:

	CALIF.	DUKE.
First downs	15	18
Rushing yardage	12	225
Passing yardage	203	58
Passes	15-26	7-17
Passes intercepted by	2	2
Punts	5-34.0	3-33.0
Fumbles lost	0	3
Yards penalized	8	40

The powerful Duke land attack, led by halfbacks Billy Futrell and Mark Leggett and fullback Mike Curtis, ground out yardage in short chunks to score one touchdown each in the first, second and third periods. All the while, the Duke defended was demolishing the California rushing game and bottling up its passing attack with key interceptions.

Demons Led Past Tarleton With Horton

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Sophomore Ed Horton caught two touchdown passes, kicked a 25-yard field goal and kicked four extra points to spark Northwestern's 31-6 victory over Tarleton State of Texas Saturday night.

NSC got its first 24 points in the second period. Halfback Glenn Talbert ran 16 points for one touchdown, halfback Jerry Burton scored again from 8 yards out, and Donnie Carroll passed 18 yards to Horton to the final marker in the quarter with 5 seconds left.

Kansas Remains Unbeaten, 29-8

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Kansas, undefeated in the Big Eight, overpowered Iowa State 29-8 Saturday for the Jayhawks' second conference victory.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Jayhawks scored on drives of 40, 56, 70 and 49 yards with halfback Tony Leiker scoring twice on runs of 7 and 15 yards. Ken Coleman scored on a 1-yard plunge and Gale Sayers ran 8 yards for the final Kansas touchdown.

Mahle Carries Syracuse, 12-0

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — Quarterback Wally Mahle, playing his first varsity game, scored Syracuse's only two touchdowns of the season Saturday to help defeat previously unbeaten Boston College, 12-0.

The six foot three, 180-pound sophomore from Erie, Pa., engineered a 74-yard drive in 16 plays in the opening series of the game and then drove over from the 10-yard line for the first score.

Purdue Is Upset

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Miami of Ohio caught Purdue with the letdown jitters and stunned the Boilermakers 10-7 Saturday.

A rugged line, an alert pass defense and the aerial lightning of sophomore southpaw Ernie Kellerman got the job done for the Redskins.

Florida Rolls By Aggie 11 In 42-6 Win

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The Florida Gators cut loose with their vaunted running power after two weeks of frustration and swept to a 42-6 victory over outclassed, fumbling Texas A & M Saturday.

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Statistics of the Texas A&M-Florida football game:

	A&M	FLORIDA
First downs	11	14
Rushing yardage	72	206
Passing yardage	71	90
Passes	11-23	10-20
Passes intercepted by	2	3
Punts	6-32.0	4-35.0
Fumbles lost	3	3
Yard penalized	37	25

Scoring bursts of 15 yards by Sam Mack, 75 yards by Bob Hoover and 10 yards by Larry Dupree gave the Gators their first three touchdowns. Tom Shannaon put some frosting on the cake when he passed 13 yards to Russ Brown for a fourth touchdown and 27-0 halftime lead.

Aggie fumbles led to three touchdowns and spoiled the homecoming for Hank Foldberg, rookie Texas A & M coach who formerly was an assistant at Florida.

Florida built its lead to 34-0 before the Texans took advantage of a Gator mistake, a pass interception, and put their six points on the scoreboard with a 26-yard drive.

A blocked punt in the last seconds gave Florida its final touchdown and the Gators went for two extra points to run up their largest score since 1959.

Indians Win Cross Country Meet At USL

LAFAYETTE (Special) — Northeast State's defending Gulf State Conference cross country champions regained their winning form Saturday with a 27-28 victory over Southwestern.

The Indians were defeated in their first outing of the year by Northwestern last week.

Southwestern won the first two spots but it was all Northeast from there on as the Indians took third, fourth, fifth, sixth, and ninth place to capture the meet victory.

Malcolm Robinson, USL's outstanding distance man, scored an easy first with 12:26 more than a minute ahead of the second place man. Dan Fuselier captured second with 13:29.

David Hankins captured the third spot with a time of 13:39. Senior letterman George Abbot came in fourth with 13:57 followed closely by Gaylon LeBlanc who was only a tenth of a second behind at 13:58.

Drew Butler got the sixth place points for NLSC and Charles Golightly came in ninth.

Citadel In Upset Over Vanderbilt

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Underdog Citadel stunned Vanderbilt in a 21-6 football upset Saturday night, mainly on the running of halfback Eddie Taylor, the generalship of quarterback Sid Mitchell and a stubborn defense.

The Cadets actually won the intersectional game in the first period on Nich Dilorento's one-yard plunge and Mitchell's kick for the extra point.

Vanderbilt scored midway in the fourth period on a 32-yard scamper by Art Guepe Jr., son of the Commodore coach. But Grady Wade's try for the extra

Ford Frick Again Postpones Series

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick Saturday again postponed the sixth game of the World Series at rain-flooded Candlestick Park with the philosophic observation that "God put it there and we'll have to wait until he takes it away."

Five and one-half inches of rain had fallen in the San Francisco area since Thursday in an unceasing storm and, after Saturday's second straight postponement, Frick hinted broadly that the flooded-out New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants might not even be able to go to bat Sunday.

The weather forecast was for scattered rain through Sunday and, with water ankle deep in an outfield which resembled a swimming pool, the commissioner explained that an adobe sub-surface made swift drainage a problem.

"The outfield problem is drainage," he said, although pointing out that he would inspect the field again Sunday before ordering a third postponement. "It has reached a saturation point and there simply is no where for the water to go. We need sun and wind to evaporate the water."

Washington Ekes Victory

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The seventh-ranked Washington Huskies, frustrated for three quarters, got a break in the final quarter and eked out a 14-13 football victory over Oregon State's surprising Beavers Saturday.

An Oregon State fumble gave the Huskies their chance in midfield. With time ticking out they drove 60 yards with halfback Charley Metchell plunging over for a touchdown. Place kicker Jim Martin added the winning point with less than three minutes remaining.

Nebraska Uses Rally In 19-14 Win Over NCS

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Nebraska's Cornhuskers, seemingly doomed to an embarrassing upset before a sellout home crowd of 38,000, marched 63 yards late in the game Saturday for a 19-14 triumph over North Carolina State.

Nebraska's Dennis Stuewe slammed through the Wolfpack line with 1:08 left to turn defeat into victory for the unbeaten Cornhuskers. Stuewe's dazzling run started from the 13 on a third down play.

Maryland Wins

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Undefeated Maryland rode the crisp passing of quarterback Dick Shiner in a couple of second half breaks to a 31-13 Atlantic Coast Conference football triumph over winless North Carolina Saturday.

The Terps zoomed off to their fourth straight victory by scoring two touchdowns and a field goal the first three times they had the ball.

Thompson Is Main Cowboy In GSC Tilt

LAKE CHARLES (Special) — Quarterback Tommy Thompson dashed 43-yards to set up the winning touchdown and led McNeese to a 13-8 victory over Northeast in a Gulf States Conference battle Saturday night.

Thompson's dash in the third quarter carried to the Northeast 35 and the Cowboys scored six plays later on Darrell Lester's one yard smash off tackle.

SUMMARY	Northeast	McNeese

Passes Inct. By	0	1
Punts	8-36.9	9-34.2
Penalties	35	65
Fumbles Lost	1	1

Thompson was the game's leading offensive performer of the night with 94 yards rushing and time and again kept McNeese moving with effective runs on crucial third down plays

McNeese, in running its GSC record to 1-1 for the year, scored early in the first period after recovering a Northeast fumble.

The winning touchdown in the third period came at the end of an 86 yard march. The Cowboys took over on their 14 after John Kelly got off a tremendous 77-yard kick to the two yard line and Lloyd Guillot returned to the 14.

Darrell Lester went for a yard and Dale Barbeau for seven before Thompson, with third and two at the 22 went wide for 43 yards before Salsman finally pulled him down on the Northeast 35.

The Cowboys picked up four yards on two runnings plays before Thompson hit Jay Hebert for 24-yards to the seven. Three plays later Lester banged off tackle for the touchdown.

Thompson was downed when he tried to run the extra points and McNeese had a 13-8 lead with 4:44 left in the period.

Northeast moved to the McNeese 37 later in the third period but never got closer than the Cowpoke 47 in the final stanza.

With 1:54 left in the game, Northeast took over after a Cowboy punt on its 27 and almost pulled the game out of the fire with a long pass. Pete Vincent passed to Ronnie Myrick, the fastest man on the team who was switched to halfback on the play. Myrick had a step on the defender at the 20 but the pass was a foot short and Mike Regan intercepted. Time ran out three plays later.

Northeast lost the ball on a fumble on the second scrimmage play of the game when Ken Newton bobbled the ball and Gerald Conner recovered on the Northeast 35.

Helped by two officials offsides penalties against Northeast and a 15 yard pass from Dick Gillory to Hebert, the Cowboys moved to the nine from where Gillott ran up the middle for the touchdown.

Billy Dore's kick was good and McNeese led 7-0 with 11:34 left in the first quarter.

With Mike Cooper running the Maroon team at quarterback, Northeast moved from its 32 to the McNeese 14 late in the initial period but the drive fell short when Pete Vincent's field goal try was wide to the left.

McNeese took over on its 20 but on the first play Thompson, hit hard by Billy Foster, fumbled and Joe Alewine pounced on the ball on the 11.

Devonne Payne went wide for five yards and the Indians got three yards on an offsides penalty against McNeese. Ken Newton ran to the two as the quarter ended.

Payne smashed up the middle on the first play of the second quarter and then Myrick dashed around left end for one yard and the touchdown with 14:32 left.

On a fake kick, Myrick tossed to Salsman for two points and an 8-7 lead on the PAT try.

Northeast had one big chance to win the game late in the half when the Indians marched from the 50 to the Cowboy seven. Ken Newton's 14 yard run and Myrick's passes to Wendel Drost for six yards and to Tommy Latham for 15 sparked the drive.

With first and goal on the seven, three passes were incomplete, the last one bounding off Drost's fingertips in the end zone.

With 20 seconds left another field goal try by Vincent was wide.

Then came the third quarter and the winning McNeese touchdown.

Newton was Northeast's leading rusher with 42 yards in 11 trips while Willie Ragan got 22 yards on seven carries.

Myrick passed eight times for three completions and 42 yards while Cooper hit on three of five for 27 yards.

For the season Northeast is 1-3 while McNeese is 2-1-1.

BATON ROUGE — Louisiana State University's hard-tackling Tigers calmed down Miami's Golden Hurricane quarterback George Mira to a soft breeze when it counted most Saturday night for a thrilling 17 to 3 victory before 67,600.

BATON ROUGE (AP)—Statistics of the Miami-Louisiana State game:

	Miami	LSU
First downs	18	15
Rushing yardage	96	231
Passing yardage	168	85
Passes	14-33	2-6
Passes intercepted	0	0
Punts	5-30.2	7-40.9
Fumbles lost	1	0
Yards penalized	50	61

Time and time again the dazzling junior sent Miami roaring down the field on brilliant drives, but when their goal was threatened, the Tigers charged in and the best the Miamians could do was a field goal late in the first period from 20 yards out by Bobby Wilson.

Although the Hurricane, suffering its first defeat this season, moved to within scoring range three other times, it could not get the ball across.

But Mira, who was as good as his press clippings and who connected on 14 of 33 passes for 168 yards, was a constant threat throughout the game until the Tigers went ahead 17 to 3 with 11 minutes left in the fourth period. Halfback Danny LeBlanc rambled from 10 yards out to score, carrying two Miami defenders into the end zone with him.

West Monroe's Jerry Stovall scored the first Tiger touchdown shortly before the half on a 26-yard jaunt, while quarterback Lynn Amedee, who had kicked a 30-yard field goal earlier in the period to tie the score, booted both extra points.

But besides Amedee, Stovall and LeBlanc there were numerous other heroes such as tackle Fred Miller and center Dennis Gaubatz who slammed through to throw Mira for losses at vital points in the game.

Others were halfback Bo Campbell, Charles Cranford, end Danny Neumann of Tallulah, end Bob Flurry of Homer, halfback Johnny Mercer and end Gene Sykes.

Neumann, who got his chance to show what he could do with the punting chores, played it perfectly. The big junior moved in when Stovall suffered a leg injury early in the game, and punted five times for 209 yards and a 41.8 average. Even more important, however, were the ones he kept Miami off balance with. In the third period, he booted one out of bounds on the Miami two and then a short time later, he lofted one toward the moon, allowing LSU's charging linemen to down it on the two.

Miami never seemed to recover from this unexpected onslaught.

Then it was Miller and end Jack Gates who stopped the last great Miami drive late in the game.

On the tremendous passing of Mira, the Hurricane had moved to the LSU seven. The Tigers held and on the fourth play, Gates and Miller swept through the defenders to nail Mira back on the 17 and end the threat.

Although the Tigers were supposed to win by 14 points — the number they did — they should receive higher ranking this week because of the impressive manner in which they contained the Miamians. This was the first time this season they had failed to score a touchdown. Almost from the start, although Mira was a constant and dangerous threat, it appeared the Tigers had command of the game. On the initial kickoff, Stovall took the ball on his five and when to the 34. At one point, it seemed he might go all the way — just as he did against Georgia Tech the previous Saturday. Then LeBlanc went for 16. But the Miami defense stiffened and the Tigers had to give up the ball. On their initial attack, the Miamians drove to the Tiger 47, high lighted by a Mira-to-Bill Sparks pass. After an exchange of punts, Miami got the ball on its 12-yard line and roared down the field. First Mira hit end Bob Werl with 14-yarder, then Ben Rizzo with a 20-yard pass, then fullback Nich Ryder with a 13-yarder. With a first down on the Tiger four, it appeared Miami would score. But the Bengals held, forcing Wilson to kick the field goal for the only score.

The Tigers made their bid early in the second period. Taking the ball on their own 10, fullback Steve Ward went for 13, then LeBlanc for 20. But the drive was halted at the Miami 40. But a few minutes later, Ryder fumbled on his 20 — and Ward pounced on it for LSU. Three plays later, Amedee, who played offensive quarterback for both the White and Go teams because of an injury to Jimmy Field, booted his

By RICK BRYAN
World Sports Editor

RUSTON — Louisiana Tech exploded for three touchdowns in the third quarter to take a 19-9 revenge win over Arlington State before some 7,000 fans in the Canines' second home game of the season here Saturday night.

Down 3-0 at the half, the Bulldogs utilized three breaks occurring deep in Arlington territory to put the game out of reach.

SUMMARY	Arlington	Tech
FD	10	21
Yards Rushing	148	168
Passes (A. & C.)	15-4	28-15
Passes Interc. By	0	5
Yards Passing	81	153
Total Offense	229	358
Fumbles	3	5
Fmbles Lost	3	3
Punts	3-46.3	2-38
Penalties	6-66	5-65

Senior quarterback Mickey Slaughter got the first score on a three yards sneak that capped a 27 yard march early in the period.

Tallulah freshman Wayne Noland got the second on a one yard plunge after the Bulldogs had driven 35 yards.

Another freshman, Gerald McDowell, got the final tally from two yards away, ending a two play 27 yard march.

Arlington went in front 3-0 in the opening quarter on quarterback Charlie Key's 42 yard field-goal and the Rebels stopped a number of Tech drives to hold the lead until the third period Tech scoring spree.

Arlington's only other score came on halfback Jimmy Campbell's beautiful 98 yard punt return in the final period.

The win upped the Bulldogs' record to 2-1 for the season and was ample revenge for a last minute 8-7 reversal at the hands of the Rebels in Arlington last year.

Tech had a number of standouts. McDowell and Noland paced Tech rushing, McDowell with 58 yards on nine carries and Noland with 50 on 18 carries.

Slaughter completed nine of eighteen passes for 87 yards while freshman quarterback Billy Laird hit six of 10 for 66 yards. End Jerry Griffin caught five aerials for 48 yards and halfback Jack Odom latched four for 31.

Quarterback Doug Wilson, a fleet-footed option runner, paced Arlington with 59 yards on 11 runs. He completed two of eight passes for 44 yards. End Neal Estes caught two passes for 37 yards.

Arlington State took a 3-0 lead in the first quarter on quarterback Charlie Key's 42-yard field goal with 1:22 remaining in the opening stanza.

The Rebels drove from the Tech 42 to the 25 in eight plays after recovering a Laird fumble and stopped four deep Bulldog drives to hold the Techsters scoreless until intermission.

The Bulldogs took the opening kickoff and drove from their own 42 to the Arlington 17, but three incomplete passes killed the march.

In the second quarter, Tech went from Arlington's 49 to the Rebels' two yard line, mainly on a fine 49-yard run by freshman fullback Gerald McDowell, but Arlington held again.

Later in the period the Canines marched from their 47 to the Rebel 22, behind Laird's quarterbacking. Laird hit freshman halfback Tommy Robertson in the end zone on a 22-yarder, but the North Caddo High product couldn't hold onto the ball. A 15-yard penalty helped halt the march.

Then with 28 seconds to go in the half, Slaughter came in to move the ball from the Tech 43 to the Arlington 20 on three complete passes, but Slaughter's pass into the Arlington end zone was broken up as the horn sounded.

Tech erupted in the third period to score all three of its touchdowns.

The first one came with 13:20 still remaining in the third period. Tech guard Jack Collins recovered Doug Hart's fumble on the second half kick-off at the Arlington 27.

It took the Canines just four plays to get the touchdown, with Slaughter going over from the three on a sneak. Jack Hopkins kicked the only one of his extra point attempts to put Tech in front 7-3.

Slaughter sparked the drive, passing to Griffin on an 11-yarder at the Arlington 16. He then kept for 13 yards to the three after an incomplete pass, and went over on the next play.

Arlington couldn't move after the following kickoff and tackle Red Malone pounced on a loose ball at the Rebel's 35 when Key had trouble getting off his fourth down punt.

This time Tech scored in 10 plays, with most of them coming on the ground. Noland, who had a fine night rushing, went over from the one with 7:02 still to play in the third period. Hopkins' kick was off to the right.

Following the kickoff the Rebels marched to their own 46 where freshman Dwain Nettles made the first of two key interceptions at the Bulldog 30. He returned the ball behind good blocking to the Arlington 27.

Laird hit freshman end David Lee at the two on the next play. A penalty moved the ball to the one and McDowell punched over on the next play. Hopkins' kick with 2:08 remaining in the quarter was no good and Tech led 19-3.

The only other scoring came in the fourth quarter when Arlington halfback Jimmy Campbell took a punt on his own two and speed 98 yards down the left sideline behind tremendous blocking for the score.

An Arlington mixup on the PAT attempt killed this effort with 13:40 still to play.

Arlington did drive from its own 34 to the Tech seven, with most of the yardage on a 40 yard pass from quarterback Wilson to fullback Alford Smith. And the Rebels seemed headed for paydirt before Nettles' snared another pass in the end zone and romped out to the Bulldog 25.

Duke Downs California In Homecoming

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI)—Duke's power-laden Blue Devils plowed through California with the greatest of ease Saturday and then bottled up a Golden Bear passing attack to take a 21 to 7 decision in an intersectional match before 31,000 sweating homecoming fans.

Fumbles lost	0	3
Yards penalized	8	40

The powerful Duke land attack, led by halfbacks Billy Futrell and Mark Leggett and fullback Mike Curtis, ground out yardage in short chunks to score one touchdown each in the first, second and third periods. All the while, the Duke defended was demolishing the California rushing game and bottling up its passing attack with key interceptions.

Demons Led Past Tarleton With Horton

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Sophomore Ed Horton caught two touchdown passes, kicked a 25-yard field goal and kicked four extra points to spark Northwestern's 31-6 victory over Tarleton State of Texas Saturday night.

NSC got its first 24 points in the second period. Halfback Glenn Talbert ran 16 points for one touchdown, halfback Jerry Burton scored again from 8 yards out, and Donnie Carroll passed 18 yards to Horton to the final marker in the quarter with 5 seconds left.

Kansas Remains Unbeaten, 29-8

AMES, Iowa (AP) — Kansas, undefeated in the Big Eight, overpowered Iowa State 29-8 Saturday for the Jayhawks' second conference victory.

After a scoreless first quarter, the Jayhawks scored on drives of 40, 56, 70 and 49 yards with halfback Tony Leiker scoring twice on runs of 7 and 15 yards. Ken Coleman scored on a 1-yard plunge and Gale Sayers ran 8 yards for the final Kansas touchdown.

Missouri Whips Kansas State To Stay Undefeated

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Unbeaten Missouri overpowered Kansas State 32-0 in its Big Eight Conference football opener Saturday, with halfback Bill Tobin and Roland, a fleet and clever 191-pound sophomore, scored twice besides his 9-yard touchdown flick to Tobin.

Oklahoma State In Big Eight Victory

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Slow-starting Oklahoma State came alive in the second quarter Saturday and raced past game but outmanned Colorado 36-16 in a Big Eight Conference football game.

Mahle Carries Syracuse, 12-0

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (UPI) — Quarterback Wally Mahle, playing his first varsity game, scored Syracuse's only two touchdowns of the season Saturday to help defeat previously unbeaten Boston College, 12-0.

The six foot three, 180-pound sophomore from Erie, Pa., engineered a 74-yard drive in 16 plays in the opening series of the game and then drove over from the 10-yard line for the first score.

Purdue Is Upset

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP) — Miami of Ohio caught Purdue with the letdown jitters and stunned the Boilermakers 10-7 Saturday.

A rugged line, an alert pass defense and the aerial lightning of sophomore southpaw Ernie Kellerman got the job done for the Redskins.

Florida Rolls By Aggie 11 In 42-6 Win

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—The Florida Gators cut loose with their vaunted running power after two weeks of frustration and swept to a 42-6 victory over outclassed, fumbling Texas A & M Saturday.

Scoring bursts of 15 yards by Sam Mack, 75 yards by Bob Hoover and 10 yards by Larry Dupree gave the Gators their first three touchdowns. Tom Shannaon put some frosting on the cake when he passed 13 yards to Russ Brown for a fourth touchdown and 27-0 halftime lead.

Aggie fumbles led to three touchdowns and spoiled the homecoming for Hank Foldberg, rookie Texas A & M coach who formerly was an assistant at Florida.

Florida built its lead to 34-0 before the Texans took advantage of a Gator mistake, a pass interception, and put their six points on the scoreboard with a 26-yard drive.

A blocked punt in the last seconds gave Florida its final touchdown and the Gators went for two extra points to run up their largest score since 1959.

Indians Win Cross Country Meet At USL

LAFAYETTE (Special) — Northeast State's defending Gulf State Conference cross country champions regained their winning form Saturday with a 27-28 victory over Southwestern.

The Indians were defeated in their first outing of the year by Northwestern last week.

Southwestern won the first two spots but it was all Northeast from there on as the Indians took third, fourth, fifth, sixth, and ninth place to capture the meet victory.

Malcolm Robinson, USL's outstanding distance man, scored an easy first with 12:26 more than a minute ahead of the second place man. Dan Fuselier captured second with 13:29.

David Hankins captured the third spot with a time of 13:39. Senior letterman George Abbot came in fourth with 13:57 followed closely by Gaylon LeBlanc who was only a tenth of a second behind at 13:58.

Drew Butler got the sixth place points for NLSC and Charles Golightly came in ninth.

Citadel In Upset Over Vanderbilt

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Underdog Citadel stunned Vanderbilt in a 21-6 football upset Saturday night, mainly on the running of halfback Eddie Taylor, the generalship of quarterback Sid Mitchell and a stubborn defense.

The Cadets actually won the intersectional game in the first period on Nich Dilorento's one-yard plunge and Mitchell's kick for the extra point.

Vanderbilt scored midway in the fourth period on a 32-yard scamper by Art Guepe Jr., son of the Commodore coach. But Grady Wade's try for the extra

TOO MUCH WATER

Ford Frick Again Postpones Series

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Baseball Commissioner Ford Frick Saturday again postponed the sixth game of the World Series at rain-flooded Candlestick Park with the philosophic observation that "God put it there and we'll have to wait until he takes it away."

Five and one-half inches of rain had fallen in the San Francisco area since Thursday in an unceasing storm and, after Saturday's second straight postponement, Frick hinted broadly that the flooded-out New York Yankees and San Francisco Giants might not even be able to go to bat Sunday.

The weather forecast was for scattered rain through Sunday and, with water ankle deep in an outfield which resembled a swimming pool, the commissioner explained that an adobe sub-surface made swift drainage a problem.

"The outfield problem is drainage," he said, although pointing out that he would inspect the field again Sunday before ordering a third postponement. "It has reached a saturation point and there simply is no where for the water to go. We need sun and wind to evaporate the water."

Washington Ekes Victory

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — The seventh-ranked Washington Huskies, frustrated for three quarters, got a break in the final quarter and eked out a 14-13 football victory over Oregon State's surprising Beavers Saturday.

An Oregon State fumble gave the Huskies their chance in midfield. With time ticking out they drove 60 yards with halfback Charley Metchell plunging over for a touchdown. Place kicker Jim Martin added the winning point with less than three minutes remaining.

Nebraska Uses Rally In 19-14 Win Over NCS

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Nebraska's Cornhuskers, seemingly doomed to an embarrassing upset before a sellout home crowd of 38,000, marched 68 yards late in the game Saturday for a 19-14 triumph over North Carolina State.

Nebraska's Dennis Stuewe slammed through the Wolfpack line with 1:08 left to turn defeat into victory for the unbeaten Cornhuskers. Stuewe's dazzling run started from the 13 on a third down play.

Maryland Wins

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Undefeated Maryland rode the crisp passing of quarterback Dick Shiner in a couple of second half breaks to a 31-13 Atlantic Coast Conference football triumph over winless North Carolina Saturday.

The Terps zoomed off to their fourth straight victory by scoring two touchdowns and a field goal the first three times they had the ball.

Graham Sparks

SPOKANE, Wash. (AP)—Ken Graham ran the second half kickoff back 93 yards to break open a tight defensive football game and carry Washington State toward a 21-6 victory over Stanford Saturday.

2ND HALF FRIGHTENING

Arkansas Turns Back Baylor Attack To Win

By AL DOPKING

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The undefeated Arkansas Razorbacks, with quarterback Billy Moore the key both in the air and on the ground, turned back Baylor 28-21 Saturday but only after experiencing a frightening second half.

The Razorbacks piled up a 28-7 lead in the first half only to have Baylor come back after intermission with its own passing attack behind quarterback Don Trull and terrorize them with a 29 - yard touchdown aerial followed quickly by another score on the ground.

The victory was Arkansas' fourth and its second in Southwest Conference play where it is shooting for its fourth straight year as champion or co-champion.

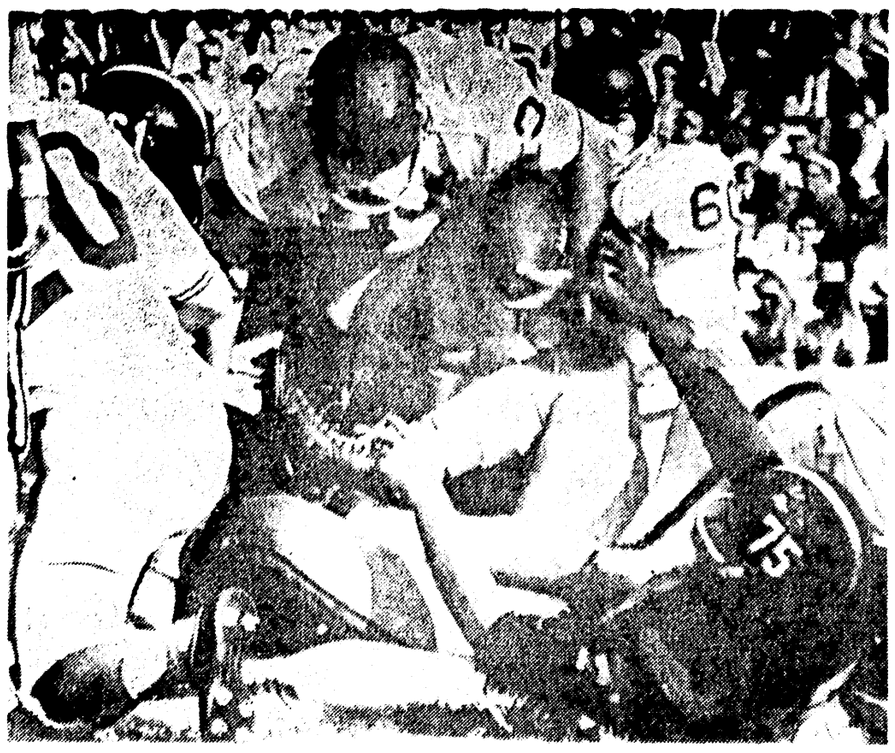
Trull rocked the Razorbacks with the help of great receiving by Claude Pearson, James Ingram and Ronnie Goodwin. Goodwin speared the 29-yard touchdown toss in the third period. He also scored soon afterwards on a 4-yard run.

But Arkansas' defense, with Dave Walston, Wesley Bryant and Jim Grizzle the stalwarts, finally dammed the Baylor offensive wave in the closing quarter.

The first half was all Arkansas. Moore, fullback Danny Brabham and Moore's understudy, Bill Gray, scored the touchdown carries as Arkansas took a 28-0 lead. All the scores came on short lunges but Moore's passing figured strongly in the first two and Gray's in another.

Moore scored twice—the second and third touchdowns.

Trull passed 10 yards in the second quarter to Pearson for Baylor's first touchdown.



HOUSTON FULLBACK Bobby Brenzina waded through this pile-up for only one yard against Alabama in Tucaloosa, Ala., Saturday afternoon. On the ground is Bama tackle Steve Wright (75). Alabama won the intersectional game, 14-3. (AP Wirephoto)

GETS FIRST TOUCHDOWN

Lee Roy Jordan Leads Tide By Houston, 14-3

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Lee Roy Jordan, who backs up the Alabama line with the abandon of a wild bull, scored the first touchdown of his career Saturday to launch the undefeated Crimson Tide to a 14-3 victory over stubborn Houston.

The 207-pound Jordan, a senior and leading candidate for All-America honors at center, recovered a loose ball in the Cougars' end zone after a bad pass from center to overcome a three-point Houston lead.

Until that moment in the second period, the Cougars, a three-touchdown underdog, had fought the Crimson Tide to a standstill although unable to move the ball on their own against the tight defense of No. 2 ranked Alabama.

Cotton Clark tallied a touchdown on a four-yard dive at the end of a 65-yard march and Tim Davis added both extra points. Houston's Bill McMillan kicked a 30-yard field goal for the Cougars' only points.

For the second week in a row, Alabama found itself hard put to generate offensive punch against a team rated well below the Crimson Tide.

In the first period, Alabama lost the ball on its own 18 through a fumble, recovered to drive 71 yards to the Houston one only to lose the ball again—this time on downs.

Casper, Lema In Tie After Three

By BOB MYERS

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Billy Casper Jr. shot a 7-under-par 65 and lanky Tony Lema hold a 15-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole as the two went into a tie at 205 in the third round of the $40,000 Bakersfield Open Golf Tournament Saturday.

Casper toured the 6,624-yard, par 36-36—72 course in 31-34.

Lema who won the Sahara Invitational at Las Vegas two weeks ago, did it in 34-34—68.

Lema finished after Casper and needed the long putt on the final green to tie.

"No, I didn't know what Casper's score was," Lema said, "but I had heard he was having a hot round."

The day's hottest round was a 64 by George Bayer (31-33). He equalled the course record and wound up with a 54-hole score of 210.

Two strokes back of the co-leaders were Dave Hill and Jacky Cupit with 71 and Mason Rudolph with a 70.

Gene Littler, with a 69, and Al Geiberger, with a 67, were tied at 208, and Pete Brown with a 71, was alone at 209.

Bayer was tied with Dave Marr, who shot his third straight 70, and Jimmy Powell, who had a 73.

Ohio's Ground Attack Downs Illinois, 51-15

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Ohio State's Buckeyes, sticking mainly to their fearsome ground attack, opened defense of their Big Ten football championship Saturday by battering Illinois 51-15.

Still smarting from a 9-7 loss last week which cost them their No. 1 national ranking, the Buckeyes turned on the steam after a mediocre Illinois team scored a touchdown in the early seconds of the second quarter to pull in to a 7-7 tie.

From then on Ohio State showed no mercy and kept hammering away to a one-sided triumph. The loss was the 13th straight for Illinois.

Quarterback John Mummey, directing the Buckeyes most of the way, went for two touchdowns himself on keeper plays and kept alive several buckeye drives with hugh gains.

Spartans Hit Fast To Down Michigan

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State turned two early fumble recoveries into touchdowns and displayed a seldom-used passing arm in overpowering arch-rival Michigan 28-0 Saturday.

Sherman Lewis, a 154-pound halfback, paced the Spartans' versatile ground-air attack by scoring three touchdowns. He scored twice on runs and once on a pass.

The quick-striking Spartans hit for two fast touchdowns and seized command by midway in the first quarter of this 55th meeting between the Big Ten rivals.

The Spartans, who had passed sparingly in their first two games, surprised the Wolverines with the deadliness of their overhead attack which brought both early scores.

30-yard field goal to tie the score at 3-3.

Miami took the kickoff and drove to the LSU 14, principally on a brilliant 45-yard punt return by fullback Ken Hunt, but couldn't score as Wilson missed a field goal attempt.

Then on the initial play from the 20, Tiger halfback Ray Wilkins rambled for 45 yards to the Miami 28, but a clipping penalty nullified the beautiful dash.

But the Tigers were not to be denied a touchdown. Two plays later Amedee hit fullback Charles Cranford with a 19-yard pass, then a 14-yarder, moving the ball to the Miami 26. On the next play, Stovall, who was used only in spots after being injured, went in and scored, first moving to his right, then cutting back down the center and outrunning Miami defenders.

The Tigers final score came in a drive that started in the fading seconds of the third quarter on the Miami 47. First Stovall, then Ward, LeBlanc and Campbell carried the ball, moving to the Hurricane 10 from where LeBlanc carried it over with defenders riding his back into the end zone.

That score iced the game for the Tigers as it broke the backs of the Miamians, although they did drive to the LSU seven where Miller and Gates ground their names in the dirt of Tiger Stadium by smothering Mira on the fourth down play.

LeBlanc, the Lake Charles sophomore, was the game's leading rusher, moving for 66 yards in 12 attempts, followed by Ward and Stovall with 38 each, Amedee 31, and Cranford with 20. Ryder picked up 46 for Miami in 13 attempts and Hunt 36 in 10 carries.

Miami picked up 18 first downs to 15 for LSU, but eight were on passing. LSU picked up 231 yards rushing to 96 for Miami, but gained only 35 yards passing to 168 for Miami.

YMCA Football Begins Action With Six Games

Two YMCA football leagues began their season Saturday with a total of six games being unreeled.

In the Flag League, Georgia Tucker's third and fourth grade defeated Lexington's third grade, 37-0. Roy Kelly provided most of the offensive punch for the winners with three touchdowns. Robbie Marx was the outstanding performer for Lexington.

In the other Flag League contest, Sally Humble's third and fourth grade topped Lexington's fourth, 13-6. Doug Brown and Jimmy Stone scored for the winners.

Four games were played in the Tackle League, two in the Red League and two in the Blue League.

In RL action, the Panthers shutout the Packers, 32-0, behind Johnny Jones and Kip Sudduth who each scored two tallies. Tod Cagle and Mike Kelly stoodout for the Packers.

The other game in this league saw the Tigers topple the Colts, 28-20, as Ewing Brown scored all 28 of the Tiger's points. Rob Carter scored twice for the losers.

The Indians stopped the Bears, 27-7, and the Rams and Cowboys played to a scoreless tie in Blue League activity.

For the Indians, Rusty Brown scored three times and John Cale got the Bears only score on a 60 yard run.

Allen Taylor of the Cowboys and Harmon Rosenberg of the Rams were top players in the tie game.

Wildcats' Passing Defeats Minnesota

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Northwestern's explosive passing attack, with Tom Myers coming up with the big play, broke a 22-22 tie with a 65-yard aerial to halfback Willie Stinsom with 3:56 left and went on to upend Minnesota 34-22 in a Big Ten football battle Saturday.

The Gophers had just scored on a 52-yard burst up the middle by fullback Jay Sharp and reserve quarterback Bob Sadek passed to end Ray Zitzloff for the conversion to knot it 22-22.

On the first play after the ensuing kickoff, Myers passed to Stinson in the right flat and the elusive 170-pound speedster shook off a tackle at midfield and outsprinted the Gopher defenders to score standing up.

Minnesota gambled on fourth down in its home territory after that and the Wildcats got the ball on downs at the Minnesota 25. Northwestern drove in from there for the clincher two minutes from the end with Myers passing 3 yards to Paul Flatley for the score.

Myers fired four touchdown passes to obliterate Minnesota's record of not having yielded a point in two previous games. The sophomore quarterback tossed a 10-yard scoring aerial to Gary Crum to cap an 80-yard Wildcat drive in the first quarter. He later threw 9 yards to fullback Steve Murphy for another score before the final two strikes that broke it up.

Auburn In Easy Win As Defense Sparks Victory

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Two dazzling Auburn quarterbacks, a steady senior and a sensational sophomore, shattered Chattanooga's porous defense Saturday to give the 20th-ranked Tigers an easy 54-6 triumph.

Marvelous Mailon Kent and jumping Jimmy Sidle could do no wrong while the doughty Tiger defense—second in the nation and first in the Southeastern Conference—set up most of the touchdowns. It was the worst beating handed Chattanooga in the nine-game series starting in 1926.

South Carolina Grinds Out Win

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The University of South Carolina mounted a powerful ground game and took advantage of five Wake Forest fumbles Saturday night to grind out a 27-6 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory.

South Carolina scored a touchdown in each quarter and remained firmly in charge throughout the game. Two of the Wake Forest fumbles led to Gamecock touchdowns.

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Brilliant Billy King and Dartmouth's best-in-the-nation defense brought the unbeaten Indians a crisp 41-0 Ivy League victory over Brown Saturday as the winners kept their goalline uncrossed in three games.

Texas Tech Falls To TCU's Power

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Giant quarter-back Sonny Gibbs passed for two touchdowns and scored twice on short plunges Saturday night as Texas Christian crushed winless Texas Tech 15-13.

The powerful All-America candidate was in top form in leading the Horned Frogs to their first Southwest Conference victory.

New Mexico Wins

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—New Mexico combined a stout goal line defense and a lightning-quick fourth quarter offense for a 14-13 homecoming victory over previously unbeaten Utah State.

Arkansas Turns Back Baylor Attack To Win

By AL DOPKING

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—The undefeated Arkansas Razorbacks, with quarterback Billy Moore the key both in the air and on the ground, turned back Baylor 28-21 Saturday but only after experiencing a frightening second half.

The Razorbacks piled up a 28-7 lead in the first half only to have Baylor come back after intermission with its own passing attack behind quarterback Don Trull and terrorize them with a 29 - yard touchdown aeriel followed quickly by another score on the ground.

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—Statistics of the Baylor-Arkansas football game:

	BAYLOR	ARKANSAS

Rushing yardage	46	188
Passing yardage	225	145
Passes	14-27	11-16
Passes intercepted by	1	1
Punts	1-46	3-21.7
Fumbles lost	3	2

The victory was Arkansas' fourth and its second in Southwest Conference play where it is shooting for its fourth straight year as champion or co-champion.

Trull rocked the Razorbacks with the help of great receiving by Claude Pearson, James Ingram and Ronnie Goodwin. Goodwin speared the 29-yard touchdown toss in the third period. He also scored soon afterwards on a 4-yard run.

But Arkansas' defense, with Dave Walston, Wesley Bryant and Jim Grizzle the stalwarts, finally dammed the Baylor offensive wave in the closing quarter.

The first half was all Arkansas. Moore, fullback Danny Brabham and Moore's understudy, Bill Gray, scored the touchdown carries as Arkansas took a 28-0 lead. All the scores came on short lunges but Moore's passing figured strongly in the first two and Gray's in another.

Moore scored twice—the second and third touchdowns.

Trull passed 10 yards in the second quarter to Pearson for Baylor's first touchdown.

HOUSTON FULLBACK Bobby Brenzina waded through this pile-up for only one yard against Alabama in Tucaloosa, Ala., Saturday afternoon. On the ground is Bama tackle Steve Wright (75). Alabama won the intersectional game, 14-3. (AP Wirephoto)

GETS FIRST TOUCHDOWN

Lee Roy Jordan Leads Tide By Houston, 14-3

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (UPI) — Lee Roy Jordan, who backs up the Alabama line with the abandon of a wild bull, scored the first touchdown of his career Saturday to launch the undefeated Crimson Tide to a 14-3 victory over stubborn Houston.

The 207-pound Jordan, a senior and leading candidate for All-America honors at center, recovered a loose ball in the Cougars' end zone after a bad pass from center to overcome a three-point Houston lead.

Until that moment in the second period, the Cougars, a three-touchdown underdog, had fought the Crimson Tide to a standstill although unable to move the ball on their own against the tight defense of No. 2 ranked Alabama.

Cotton Clark tallied a touchdown on a four-yard dive at the end of a 65-yard march and Tim Davis added both extra points. Houston's Bill McMillan kicked a 30-yard field goal for the Cougars' only points.

For the second week in a row, Alabama found itself hard put to generate offensive punch against a team rated well below the Crimson Tide.

In the first period, Alabama lost the ball on its own 18 through a fumble, recovered to drive 71 yards to the Houston one only to lose the ball again—this time on downs.

Casper, Lema In Tie After Three

By BOB MYERS

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)—Billy Caspter Jr. shot a 7-under-par 65 and lanky Tony Lema hold a 15-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole as the two went into a tie at 205 in the third round of the $40,000 Bakersfield Open Golf Tournament Saturday.

Casper toured the 6,624-yard, par 36-36—72 course in 31-34.

Lema who won the Sahara Invitational at Las Vegas two weeks ago, did it in 34-34—68.

Lema finished after Casper and needed the long putt on the final green to tie.

"No, I didn't know what Casper's score was," Lema said. "but I had heard he was having a hot round."

The day's hottest round was a 64 by George Bayer (31-33). He equalled the course record and wound up with a 54-hole score of 210.

Two strokes back of the co-leaders were Dave Hill and Jacky Cupit with 71 and Mason Rudolph with a 70.

Gene Littler, with a 69, and Al Geiberger, with a 67, were tied at 208, and Pete Brown with a 71, was alone at 209.

Bayer was tied with Dave Marr, who shot his third straight 70, and Jimmy Powell, who had a 73.

Auburn In Easy Win As Defense Sparks Victory

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI) — Two dazzling Auburn quarterbacks, a steady senior and a sensational sophomore, shattered Chattanooga's porous defense Saturday to give the 20th-ranked Tigers an easy 54-6 triumph.

Marvelous Mailon Kent and jumping Jimmy Sidle could do no wrong while the doughty Tiger defense—second in the nation and first in the Southeastern Conference—set up most of the touchdowns. It was the worst beating handed Chattanooga in the nine-game series starting in 1926.

South Carolina Grinds Out Win

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — The University of South Carolina mounted a powerful ground game and took advantage of five Wake Forest fumbles Saturday night to grind out a 27-6 Atlantic Coast Conference football victory.

South Carolina scored a touchdown in each quarter and remained firmly in charge throughout the game. Two of the Wake Forest fumbles led to Gamecock touchdowns.

Iowa Use Rally

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Iowa's Hawkeyes came from behind twice and won their Big Ten football opener 14 - 10 Saturday from a stubborn Indiana team.

Dartmouth Win

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Brilliant Billy King and Dartmouth's best-in-the-nation defense brought the unbeaten Indians a crisp 41-0 Ivy League victory over Brown Saturday as the winners kept their goalline uncrossed in three games.

Texas Tech Falls To TCU's Power

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Giant quarter-back Sonny Gibbs passed for two touchdowns and scored twice on short plunges Saturday night as Texas Christian crushed winless Texas Tech 15-13.

The powerful All-America candidate was in top form in leading the Horned Frogs to their first Southwest Conference victory.

New Mexico Wins

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—New Mexico combined a stout goal line defense and a lightning-quick fourth quarter offense for a 14-13 homecoming victory over previously unbeaten Utah State.

Squirrel Season Good

If you are inclined to be a squirrel hunter but haven't been yet, then don't wait too late because this is a good season and chances are next year's season won't be nearly so good.

From all reports, most hunters are killing squirrels. And a lot of hunters are getting the limit.

Camp after camp has reported big kills all over Northeast Louisiana. Joe Herring, the new chief of the fish and game division, says the same condition prevails all over the state.

Reason for the good hunting is a big crop of young squirrels—not only in Northeast Louisiana but throughout the state. Every so many years an exceptional production of bushytails comes along and this happens to be one of those years.

It runs in cycles.

The re - production squirrels runs with the mast crop. If you will recall, last year was a big year for mast. There was plenty for squirrels to eat and because of this the squirrels were in good condition for breeding.

That's why we have a big crop of young squirrels this year.

But this year is a poor year for mast. There aren't many acorns and if you'll notice the squirrels are still cutting buds.

Which means that the squirrels will not be in the best of shape for re - production when they start breeding in December. The spring crop of young squirrels will not be so good.

So enjoy this year's havest, because it won't be as good next year.

And when this happens, you'll hear howls from various circles to start restocking the woods with squirrels. But this is folly.

Squirrels, like all small game, are able to re - build their own populations without a lot of help from man. It depends on the mast.

Dove Season Re-Opens

Dove hunters re - opened the season yesterday for the second leg of this year's hunting. This season will continue through October 28th.

South Louisiana, however, is the big area for this leg of the dove season, since doves concentrate in the coastal area at this year of the year.

This does not mean that North Louisiana does not have doves.

In fact, reports indicate that the doves are flocking in Northeast Louisiana. It's just a case of locating them.

Chances are the hunting will be better now that it was when it opened the first time in September.

The last dove season will be December 7 through January 13.

Comments On Ducks

Louisiana duck hunters, who will open the season November 24th through Decmeber 24th, can shoot FOUR SCAUP. But if you shoot four ducks, at least two of them must be scaup. Only one can be a mallard.

Here is how Dick Yancey, the assistant wildlife director, explains it in a letter:

"A total of four scaup can be taken daily. The first two ducks that you shoot in the morning can be scaup and after these have been taken you will have filled your general daily bag.

"Then an additional two scaup can be taken as a bonus. In other words, four ducks can be taken daily, however, at least two have to be scaup."

Through a mis - understanding on our part, we said previously that hunters could not kill four scaup daily. But this was wrong.

The Louisiana Wild Life & Fisheries Commission already has conducted a waterfowl inventory in the state, although only in South Lousiana. The inventoy showed 323,500 ducks, but no geese.

And in case you're interested, the Pass - a - Loutre hunting area at the mouth of the Mississippi River will be open for public hunting this year.

As in the past, it will be operated on a reservation basis by the commission.

Camp hunts will be held on Tuesday - Wednesday and Saturday - Sunday to give the ducks a rest in - between. If you want to go, you must first submit an application to the commission, 400 Royal Street, New Orleans.

Seventy - two hunters are allowed on each two - day hunt.

The schedule for the drawings for each hunt during the season is as follows:

Application dates, Nov. 12-16; drawing November 20th; hunting dates December 1-2, 4-5.

Application dates November 19-26; drawing November 29; hunting dates December 8-9, 11-12.

Application dates November 26-December 3; drawing date December 6; hunting dates 15-16, 18-19.

Application dates December 3-10; drawing date December 13; hunting dates December 22-23.

Letters must be postmarked during the appropriate dates and a fee of $5 per person must accompany each application. Reimbursement of the full fee will be made if the hunter is not selected.

Little Man's Corner

The squirrels were plenty, the fishing were biting and the little men made news afield.

Lake St. John paid off for two Monroe sports, David Johnson and Wendell States. Using worms, they caught 28 bass in the south end of St. John. Five of the bass weighted six pounds each. The string went 62 pounds.

Ransom Lenard of Monroe got the limit of squirrels in the St. John area. Mrs. Liz Bamburg, our St. John correspondent, got the limit of squirrels also.

Two pro hunters from Winnsboro, James McGraw and Steve Thompson, got the limit of squirrels in the Chicago Mills area on the Tensas River. McGraw says he saw a big rattler crawling through the swamp with his head lifted two feet off the ground. Thompson said he said it.

Ed Robinson of Winnsboro also bagged the limit.

Down around the Woolen Lake area in Caldwell, a new wildlife club is meeting October 23 at 8 p.m. at the Woolen Lake Community Center to select a name for the club. All members are urged to attend.

In Tensas, hunters have really been killing the squirrels. George Greer killed the limit and his partners say if Greer can do it everybody can do it.

Milton Cloy of Waterproof killed a deer with a bow and arrow. There haven't been too many deer killed by archers, although the turnout of hunters has been large.

Archers cannot in any way hurt the hunting for the man with the gun.

From Ferriday, Bill Strickland says he caught a 9 - pound bass in Lake Concordia. But that's not official. William Hinson of Vidalia got the limit of bass in Old River.

Lane Jordan in the Crossett area says the carpie are biting minnows about six feet deep in the Ouachita River. Bass are hitting deep - running lures.

Other squirrel hunters having luck included A. K. Ford and J. W. Tarver, 12 the first day, D. W. Chapman 12 the first two days, and E. E. Howard, 12 the first two days.

Austin Johnson, hunting in Vernon Parish, bagged 17 in three days. Hunting in Tensas, Red Henry, Sonny Randall, Donnie Henry, Billy Henry and Pierce Henry got 64.

Lake Providence hunters getting the limit of squirrels included Bobby Joe Morgan, Jimmy McIntrye, Gen Grisby and Gene Clements.

C. T. Allen says he killed more snakes than squirrels around Oak Grove. Four squirrels, three rattlers and a moccasin.

Other squirrel hunters doing all right were Dan Hammack, T. T. Smith, Richard Hires, Lloyd Clement, Maxie Brown. Killing 35 to 40 in Winn Parish were Dick Madden, Bill Cronckvic, J. R. Madden, Henry Winters, Kiley Thames, Ed Newell, Ivan Hass.

Buron Bayles and Jim Herrington have had good luck with the bass in Gaasoway.

Otis Hassell from Winnsboro sends in this squirrel hunting report:

Earl Albritton, Clifton Lord, Mike Lord and Turner Neal of Winnsboro got the limit in Madison parish on the first day.

Chester Coker, James Carsen and Ralph King, Jr., of Winnsboro; K. E. Jones of Baton Rouge; and Jack Owen and Jack Owen, Jr., of Harrisonburg got 62 on a one and one - half day hunt on the Catahoula side of Tensas River.

J. D. Brown of Winnsboro got 10 the first two days on Blackriver.

Jimmy Guice of Winnsboro got nine the first day and four since then.

Norman Elrod of Winnsboro got 7 the first day across Bayou Macon from Crowville.

Also from Winnsboro, Gayle Sisk got five, Jack Miller, four, and Bill Miller, three, and Harold Gentry got six the first day.

Rutgers, 27-15

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—Rutgers got its double-wing T offense rolling for the first time this season and took advantage of numerous Colgate mistakes for a 27-15 football victory Saturday.

It was the first win for Rutgers after two defeats. Colgate is 1-3.

FUMBLES PAVE WAY

Texas Takes 4th Win; Top Fired-Up Sooners

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Texas, the nation's second-ranked team, used two Oklahoma fumbles for a 9-6 victory Saturday, remaining unbeaten and untied through four games.

It marked the fifth straight time Texas whipped Oklahoma.

Te game almost erupted into a free-for-all fight just four seconds before the close when Rick McCurdy, Oklahoma end, and Tommy Lucas, Texas end, exchanged blows. Both benches rushed onto the field and some occasional blows were struck but order was soon restored.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Statistics of the Texas-Oklahoma football game:

	OKLAHOMA	TEXAS
First downs	6	12
Rushing yardage	71	198
Passing yardage	99	21
Passes	4-12	3-11
Passes intercepted by	0	0
Punts	11-39.9	18-44.0
Fumbles lost	2	2
Yards penalized	50	70

One Oklahoma fumble set up a 26-yard field goal by Tony Crosby and the other led to a Texas touchdown when the ball rolled into the end zone and Perry McWilliams recovered it.

Oklahoma got its touchdown on the passing of Ronald Fletcher, who threw twice to Lanze Rentzel for 63 yards. The payoff was a 34-yard pitch into the end zone.

All the scoring came in the second period and Texas spent the last half bottling the Sooners up in their own territory with a gritty defense and the great kicking of young Ernie Koy.

A crowd of 75,504 — the 17th straight sellout — watched the game played under lowering skies in the Cotton Bowl.

Oklahoma had the better offense and appeared to have the better all-around team but could not overcome its errors in the clutch.

It was a hard - hitting battle as all the other 56 games before it with two personal fouls called on each side.

Joe Don Looney, the Texan who plays for Oklahoma, was the toughest Sooner for the Longhorns to handle with his bone-crushing blasts through the line. But Ray Poage led a rugged Texas ground attack that was driving the Sooners into the turf at the finish.

Koy, whose father helped Texas beat Oklahoma 30 years ago, had two great kicks. On one he had to pick up a ball that was rolling on the ground and kick it on the run. He booted it 42 yards to the Oklahoma 11 to set the Sooners in deep trouble.

Next he kicked dead on the Oklahoma 2 and the Sooners never could get out of that predicament.

Holy Cross Wins

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Pat McCarthy and Tom Hennessey awakened the slumbering Holy Cross giant Saturday directing the unbeaten Crusaders to a 34-20 football victory over Harvard.

Quarterback McCarthy gave his answer to early season critics by running across two touchdowns and passing for two more.

OVER NOTRE DAME

Unheralded Vander Leads Badger Win

By DAVE O'HARA

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Undefeated Wisconsin continued a drive for national football recognition by defeating Notre Dame 17-8 Saturday as unheralded quarterback Ron Vander Kelen engineered the Badgers to their third straight victory.

Vander Kelen, a senior who had seen only 90 seconds of action until this season, passed 25 yards to All-America candidate Pat Richter for a touchdown in the first period and then scored on a 1-yard sneak in the third quarter.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Statistics of the Notre Dame-Wisconsin football game.

	ND	WISCONSIN
First downs	14	15
Rushing yardage	91	170
Passing yardage	106	122
Passes	7-19	9-15
Passes intercepted by	4	4
Punts	5-35.6	1-22
Fumbles lost	1	4
Yards penalized	40	52

The Badgers overpowered the outclassed Irish all the way, but were stymied by four interceptions and four lost fumbles. Two of the Notre Dame thefts were in the end zone.

Notre Dame managed to avert a shutout by marching 68 yards in the closing minutes. Denis Szot moved the Irish downfield with pinpoint passing and then handed off to Don Hogan, who skirted end for the final 3 yards. Szot then passed to Jack Snow for a two-point conversion.

A stout Wisconsin defense offset the sputtering offense, which took the field as the nation's No. 2 team in total yardage. The Badgers picked off four Notre Dame passes and recovered a fumble, all in the second half.

Davidson In Tie

DAVIDSON, N. C. (AP)—William and Mary and Davidson battled to a 7-7 Southern Conference football tie Saturday after W&M fullback Stan Penkunas leaped high to intercept a pass in the last 20 seconds in the end zone.

Recreation Grid Quiz In 5th Week

The Monroe Recreation Department's grid quiz is still going full force and entering its fifth week with weekly winners being announced sometime during each week.

SEC TRIUMPH

Lothridge Leads Tech Over Rival Tennessee

By VERNON BUTLER

ATLANTA (AP)—Brilliant Billy Lothridge, Georgia Tech's triple-threat quarterback, ran, passed and kicked the powerful Yellow Jackets to a 17-0 triumph Saturday over Southeastern Conference football rival Tennessee.

A record Grant Field crowd of 52,223 shirtsleeved fans saw the 184-pound junior run for Tech's first touchdown, pass to his high school buddy, Billy Martin, for the second and kick a 26-yard field goal to cap another scoring drive.

ATLANTA (AP)—Statistics of the Tennessee-Georgia Tech football game:

	GA. TECH
First downs	14	16
Rushing yardage	85	234
Passing yardage	198	55
Passes	11-22	6-14
Passes intercepted by	0	1
Punts	4-44.5	6-35.2
Fumbles lost	2	1
Yards penalized	30	41

Tech, bidding for a return to the national rankings, has scored 67 points while posting a 3-1 season record, and Lothridge has had a hand or a foot in every point. Tennessee is 0-3 for the year.

A sparkling 41-yard run by the multi-talented Lothridge put the ball at the Tennessee 9 and set up the first Tech touchdown—a 3-yard run by Lothridge. The junior quarterback guided the Yellow Jackets 74 yards to their next touchdown, a 9-yard pass he lobbed to the 6-foot-4 Martin in the rear of the end zone. Lothridge completed five consecutive passes for 47 yards at the end for the long drive late in the second quarter. His field goal climaxed a 76-yard push after intermission.

Tennessee, led by sophomore tailback Wayne Bush, drove to the Tech 2 late in the third quarter, but on fourth down end Buddy Fisher caught Bush's pass out of the end zone.

Tech's tenacious defense yielded some running room to Tennessee, and the Vols completed several passes. But in the scoring zone, the Yellow Jackets yielded nothing. Guards Dave Watson and Rufus Guthrie, tackle Larry Stallings and fullback Mike McNames were especially forceful as defenders.

Tech charged for a touchdown in six plays the first time it got the ball, and the pattern of Tech's dominance was clearly established. Inexperience at fullback and wingback put too heavy a burden on the Tennessee tailbacks, and Tech's massive first line, averaging 222 pounds a man, whipped the Vol forewall soundly.

Mallon Faircloth, No. 1 Tennessee tailback, led the Vols on a drive to Tech's 20 in the second quarter, but McNames spilled Faircloth for a six-yard loss on fourth down.

A 37-yard pass from Bush to sophomore wingback Wayne Waff was the big play of Tennessee's drive to the Tech 2. It came after a bad pass from center resulted in a 21-yard loss.

The Vols almost scored in the final minute when tailback Bobby Morton connected with wingback Gene Tedford on a 50-yard pass play, but Tech halfback Tommy Jackson caught the speeding Tedford at the Tech 25. Tennessee gave up the ball on a fumble on the next play.

Georgia Tech	7	7	3	0—17

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—Rutgers got its double-wing T offense rolling for the first time this season and took advantage of numerous Colgate mistakes for a 27-15 football victory Saturday.

It was the first win for Rutgers after two defeats. Colgate is 1-3.

Texas Takes 4th Win; Top Fired-Up Sooners

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Texas, the nation's second-ranked team, used two Oklahoma fumbles for a 9-6 victory Saturday, remaining unbeaten and untied through four games.

It marked the fifth straight time Texas whipped Oklahoma.

Te game almost erupted into a free-for-all fight just four seconds before the close when Rick McCurdy, Oklahoma end, and Tommy Lucas, Texas end, exchanged blows. Both benches rushed onto the field and some occasional blows were struck but order was soon restored.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Statistics of the Texas-Oklahoma football game:

	OKLAHOMA	TEXAS
First downs	6	12
Rushing yardage	71	198
Passing yardage	99	21
Passes	4-12	3-11
Passes intercepted by	0	0
Punts	11-39.9	18-44.0
Fumbles lost	2	2
Yards penalized	50	70

One Oklahoma fumble set up a 26-yard field goal by Tony Crosby and the other led to a Texas touchdown when the ball rolled into the end zone and Perry McWilliams recovered it.

Oklahoma got its touchdown on the passing of Ronald Fletcher, who threw twice to Lanze Rentzel for 63 yards. The payoff was a 34-yard pitch into the end zone.

All the scoring came in the second period and Texas spent the last half bottling the Sooners up in their own territory with a gritty defense and the great kicking of young Ernie Koy.

A crowd of 75,504 — the 17th straight sellout — watched the game played under lowering skies in the Cotton Bowl.

Oklahoma had the better offense and appeared to have the better all-around team but could not overcome its errors in the clutch.

It was a hard - hitting battle as all the other 56 games before it with two personal fouls called on each side.

Joe Don Looney, the Texan who plays for Oklahoma, was the toughest Sooner for the Longhorns to handle with his bone-crushing blasts through the line. But Ray Poage led a rugged Texas ground attack that was driving the Sooners into the turf at the finish.

Koy, whose father helped Texas beat Oklahoma 30 years ago, had two great kicks. On one he had to pick up a ball that was rolling on the ground and kick it on the run. He booted it 42 yards to the Oklahoma 11 to set the Sooners in deep trouble.

Next he kicked dead on the Oklahoma 2 and the Sooners never could get out of that predicament.

Holy Cross Wins

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Pat McCarthy and Tom Hennessey awakened the slumbering Holy Cross giant Saturday directing the unbeaten Crusaders to a 34-20 football victory over Harvard.

Quarterback McCarthy gave his answer to early season critics by running across two touchdowns and passing for two more.

Unheraled Vander Leads Badger Win

By DAVE O'HARA

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Undefeated Wisconsin continued a drive for national football recognition by defeating Notre Dame 17-8 Saturday as unheralded quarterback Ron Vander Kelen engineered the Badgers to their third straight victory.

Vander Kelen, a senior who had seen only 90 seconds of action until this season, passed 25 yards to All-America candidate Pat Richter for a touchdown in the first period and then scored on a 1-yard sneak in the third quarter.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—Statistics of the Notre Dame-Wisconsin football game.

Punts	5-35.6	1-22
Fumbles lost	1	4
Yards penalized	40	52

The Badgers overpowered the outclassed Irish all the way, but were stymied by four interceptions and four lost fumbles. Two of the Notre Dame thefts were in the end zone.

Notre Dame managed to avert a shutout by marching 68 yards in the closing minutes. Denis Szot moved the Irish downfield with pinpoint passing and then handed off to Don Hogan, who skirted end for the final 3 yards. Szot then passed to Jack Snow for a two-point conversion.

A stout Wisconsin defense offset the sputtering offense, which took the field as the nation's No. 2 team in total yardage. The Badgers picked off four Notre Dame passes and recovered a fumble, all in the second half.

Lothridge Leads Tech Over Rival Tennessee

By VERNON BUTLER

ATLANTA (AP)—Brilliant Billy Lothridge, Georgia Tech's triple-threat quarterback, ran, passed and kicked the powerful Yellow Jackets to a 17-0 triumph Saturday over Southeastern Conference football rival Tennessee.

A record Grant Field crowd of 52,223 shirtsleeved fans saw the 184-pound junior run for Tech's first touchdown, pass to his high school buddy, Billy Martin, for the second and kick a 26-yard field goal to cap another scoring drive.

ATLANTA (AP)—Statistics of the Tennessee-Georgia Tech football game:

	GA. TECH
First downs	16 16
Rushing yardage	85 234
Passing yardage	188 56
Passes	11-22 6-14
Passes intercepted by	0 1
Punts	4-44.5 6-35.2
Fumbles lost	2 1
Yards penalized	30 41

Tech, bidding for a return to the national rankings, has scored 67 points while posting a 3-1 season record, and Lothridge has had a hand or a foot in every point. Tennessee is 0-3 for the year.

A sparkling 41-yard run by the multi-talented Lothridge put the ball at the Tennessee 9 and set up the first Tech touchdown—a 3-yard run by Lothridge. The junior quarterback guided the Yellow Jackets 74 yards to their next touchdown, a 9-yard pass he lobbed to the 6-foot-4 Martin in the rear of the end zone. Lothridge completed five consecutive passes for 47 yards at the end for the long drive late in the second quarter. His field goal climaxed a 76-yard push after intermission.

Tennessee, led by sophomore tailback Wayne Bush, drove to the Tech 2 late in the third quarter, but on fourth down end Buddy Fisher caught Bush's pass out of the end zone.

Tech's tenacious defense yielded some running room to Tennessee, and the Vols completed several passes. But in the scoring zone, the Yellow Jackets yielded nothing. Guards Dave Watson and Rufus Guthrie, tackle Larry Stallings and fullback Mike McNames were especially forceful as defenders.

Tech charged for a touchdown in six plays the first time it got the ball, and the pattern of Tech's dominance was clearly established. Inexperience at fullback and wingback put too heavy a burden on the Tennessee tailbacks, and Tech's massive first line, averaging 222 pounds a man, whipped the Vol forewall soundly.

Mallon Faircloth, No. 1 Tennessee tailback, led the Vols on a drive to Tech's 20 in the second quarter, but McNames spilled Faircloth for a six-yard loss on fourth down.

A 37-yard pass from Bush to sophomore wingback Wayne Waff was the big play of Tennessee's drive to the Tech 2. It came after a bad pass from center resulted in a 21-yard loss.

The Vols almost scored in the final minute when tailback Bobby Morton connected with wingback Gene Tedford on a 50-yard pass play, but Tech halfback Tommy Jackson caught the speeding Tedford at the Tech 25. Tennessee gave up the ball on a fumble on the next play.

POUNCED ON FUMBLE

3rd Rated Penn State Beaten By Army, 9-6

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — Opportunist Army pounced on a fourth period fumble and scored on a 15-yard pass from quarterback Cammy Lewis to Dick Peterson Saturday for a 9-6 upset victory over Penn State, ranked third nationally.

The fiercely played game ended in utter confusion. Twice the excited gray-uniformed Cadet corps rushed out on the field prematurely and had to be removed before the last play could be run off. Army and Penn State players exchanged blows in a wild melee that brought both coaches off the bench just before the final gun.

The previously unbeaten Nittany Lions were leading 6-3 on field goals of 32 and 24 by Ron Coates when Tom Kerns, center on Army's brazen Chinese Bandits, grabbed a ball on the Penn State 18 which had slipped from the hands of Junior Powell.

After two running plays had picked up only 3 yards and a pass had gone incomplete, Lewis, son of the late West Virginia football coach, hit Peterson with a scoring pass in the end zone. A pass attempt for the extra points failed.

Army's other score in the bitterly waged battle before a record homecoming crowd of 31,000 at Michie Stadium came on a 35-yard field goal in the fading seconds of the opening period by Dick Heydt.

Army's surprise victory, almost duplicating last year's 10-6 triumph over the favored Nittany Lions after a previous loss to Michigan, thwarted Penn State's bid for a "grand slam sweep" of the service academies. The powerful Penn Staters previously had beaten both Navy and Air Force, and last week had won over Rice in Houston.

This was the third victory for Paul Dietzel's new-look three-platooned Black Knights, who previously had defeated Wake Forest and Syracuse but bowed last week to Michigan.

It was primarily a victory for the Chinese Bandits, a hard-fighting defensive unit spurred on by the Cadet corps, wearing red coolie hats and chanting Oriental tunes.

These brash operators stymied a powerful Penn State team that previously had rolled up more than a thousand yards and 53 first downs on three opponents. They held the Nittany Lions to four first downs and a total of 38 yards rushing and 13 passing. It was the first time Penn State had failed to score a touchdown since Army shut them out 26-0 in 1958.

Penn State missed scoring opportunities in the third period when they took the kickoff and drove to the Army 8-yard line, only to have Dick Anderson drop a pass in the end zone.

Shortly afterwards, another apparent touchdown, on a 12-yard pass from Coates to Bill Bowes, was nullified by a penalty.

Besides Lewis, a poised marksman who completed four of his nine passes, and Joe Blackgrove, who hit three for three, Army's biggest offensive weapon was sophomore halfback John Seymour, who ripped off 69 yards in six attempts. He had one run of 42 yards in the opening period which set up Heydt's field goal.

Navy Routs Cornell With 41-0 Victory

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Sophomore Roger Staubach came off the bench Saturday to direct Navy on six touchdown drives and a 41-0 football victory over Cornell.

The substitute quarterback from Cincinnati was firmly at the helm for every Navy score. He raced 68 yards after it appeared he was trapped in his own backfield to set up one touchdown, plunged over twice from the 1-yard line for scores and passed 10 yards to Ed Merion for another.

He completed nine of 11 pass attempts for 99 yards, and gained 89 yards rushing.

It was a spectacular performance by the 6-foot-2, 192-pound sophomore who spent the first three games playing behind senior Ron Klemick.

Staubach also started the day running Navy's No. 2 team, its offensive unit but he wound up in command of the starting two-way team. When Klemick and the starting unit were unable to move through Ithacans, Staubach took the offensive team on two touchdown drives of 40 and 80 yards for a 14-0 halftime lead.

On the last play of the third period, he broke away from a host of Cornell tacklers, streaked down the sidelines picking up blocking and was finally hauled down by Cornell's Dick Clark on the Cornell 1.

He carried it over on a quarterback sneak on the first play of the fourth quarter.

This set off a four-touchdown explosion by the Middies in the last quarter as they rebounded strongly from a poor early season in which they were crushed by Penn State and Minnesota and squeaked past William and Mary 20-16 for their only previous victory.

Cornell had lost to Colgate 23-12 and upset Harvard 14-12. The Big Red was able to penetrate Navy territory only three times and got no farther than the Navy 34. Two attempted field goals by Cornell's soccer player, Pete Gogolak, fell short.

WEST VIRGINIA

Panthers Upset In Last Quarter

By MURRAY CHASS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tom Woodeshick's 49-yard romp took West Virginia out of a hole in the fourth quarter Saturday and the Mountaineers — engineered by quarterback Jerry Yost — proceeded to score a 15-8 upset football victory over Pittsburgh.

Woodeshick's run up the left sideline from his own 9 to Pitt's 42 gave Yost a chance to direct the Mountaineers to their fourth consecutive victory, three of them shutouts. Left halfback Tom Yeater scored the winning touchdown on a 4-yard dash with 5:34 left in the game.

The Panthers, now 2-2, had spoiled West Virginia's unscored-on streak 10 minutes before on Paul Martha's dazzling 34-yard run and Jim Traficant's two-point conversion pass to Gene Sobolewski. That came with 34 seconds left in the third quarter.

Until then, West Virginia's stubborn defense frustrated the Panthers' attempts at avenging last year's 20-6 upset loss to their neighborhood rivals.

Right half Woodeshick ignited the Mountaineers' winning 91-yard drive after Traficant punted to the visitors' 9. Yost fired two key short passes to end Gene Heeter on the same pattern to the right sideline. The first pass went for 7 yards and the second for 6 on a crucial third down play.

Woodeshick then broke through the Panther line for 7 yards to the Pitt 19, and fullback Glen Holten carried for 9 yards in two successive plays. Heeter's scoring jaunt followed. Yost and Heeter again teamped up, this time for a two-point conversion on a pass into the right corner of the end zone.

Pitt took advantage of Bieter Garrett's 29-yard punt in the third quarter to start its scoring drive from the West Virginia 38. Martha carried for 4 yards. Then, on second down, he started around left end, got a block from fullback Rick Leeson, darted through two converging West Virginians and raced the rest of the way untouched.

West Virginia held a 7-0 lead until then on Steve Berzansky's 29-yard romp through right guard with 42 seconds gone in the second quarter. Glen Bennett booted the extra point.

Panthers Upset In Last Quarter

By MURRAY CHASS

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Tom Woodeshick's 49-yard romp took West Virginia out of a hole in the fourth quarter Saturday and the Mountaineers — engineered by quarterback Jerry Yost — proceeded to score a 15-8 upset football victory over Pittsburgh.

Woodeshick's run up the left sideline from his own 9 to Pitt's 42 gave Yost a chance to direct the Mountaineers to their fourth consecutive victory, three of them shutouts. Left halfback Tom Yeater scored the winning touchdown on a 4-yard dash with 5:34 left in the game.

The Panthers, now 2-2, had spoiled West Virginia's unscored-on streak 10 minutes before on Paul Martha's dazzling 34-yard run and Jim Traficant's two-point conversion pass to Gene Sobolewski. That came with 34 seconds left in the third quarter.

Until then, West Virginia's stubborn defense frustrated the Panthers' attempts at avenging last year's 20-6 upset loss to their neighborhood rivals.

Right half Woodeshick ignited the Mountaineers' winning 91-yard drive after Traficant punted to the visitors' 9. Yost fired two key short passes to end Gene Heeter on the same pattern to the right sideline. The first pass went for 7 yards and the second for 6 on a crucial third down play.

Pitt took advantage of Bieter Garrett's 29-yard punt in the third quarter to start its scoring drive from the West Virginia 38. Martha carried for 4 yards. Then, on second down, he started around left end, got a block from fullback Rick Leeson, darted through two converging West Virginians and raced the rest of the way untouched.

West Virginia held a 7-0 lead until then on Steve Berzansky's 29-yard romp through right guard with 42 seconds gone in the second quarter. Glen Bennett booted the extra point.

In a candlelight ceremony at Parkview Baptist Church, Friday, October 12 at 7 p.m., Miss Patricia Ann Stone became the bride of Larry Warren McNeely. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Edward Stone, 1741 Spencer Avenue and parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Robert McNeely of Bastrop.

Solemnized Saturday, October 13 at 9 a.m. Nuptial Mass in St. Joseph's Catholic Church at Marksville, was the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Judy Landry and Patrick James Riley. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Landry of Marksville and Mr. Riley is the son of Mrs. W. J. Riley Sr., 1301 Forsythe Avenue, and the late Mr. Riley.

At right: Engagement of Miss Patsy Carole Pippen to Jerry Hollis Edmondson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edmondson of Lake Providence is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Valrie Pippen of Waterproof. The wedding is planned for December 16 at 3:30 p.m. in the First Baptist Church of Waterproof. The couple plans to establish a home in New Orleans where Mr. Edmondson is attending Baptist Theological Seminary.

Below: October 27 is the date chosen by Miss Iris Joy Smith and Hughes Schneidau Jr., for their wedding which will be solemnized in the First Baptist Church of New Orleans at 6 p.m. The bride-elect is the daughter of Mrs. Arthur Quay Smith and the late Mr. Smith, New Orleans, and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. McKay of Monroe. The future bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Schneidau of New Orleans.

Rehearsing a scene for the Monroe Little Theatre's first production of the year, "The Solid Gold Cadillac," are from left to right, Mike Parkerson, Jo Brian and Gail Sawyer. The production is scheduled to open October 18 for a five night run, following a patron preview the night of Wednesday, October 17. Curtain time is 8:15 p.m.

Social affairs hereabouts are beginning to register the change of seasons, after months of hot weather type activity. An Autumn feeling is found in parties for grownups, as well as children's skating parties and Hallowe'en frolics which begin about this time.

Game - watching parties are favorites with football fans. Georgia Tech yearbooks as well as old Gumbos were on display at the DICK TOUCHSTONES last Saturday afternoon when nine couples gathered to watch the Tech-LSU game. Georgie set out platters of ham and other snacks for nibbling . . . An arrangement incorporating fall foliage with chrysanthemums decorated the dining room table, where buffet supper was served after the game. The menu included lasagna, green salad, and hot French bread.

On Tuesday afternoon, ELLEN YANCEY and ELAINE MILLSAPS entertained with a bridge party at the Yancey home. Lemon icebox dessert topped with toasted cocoanut was served. There were six tables of bridge players taking part in the game, with VIRGINIA WARNER winning high; LAVERNE BODRON, second; and HELEN ROBERTS, slam prize.

Speaking of Helen, she and husband LARRY ROBERTS invited friends from their old neighborhood for supper at their new home on Country Club drive last Sunday. 'Twas a beautiful day for enjoying the late afternoon Fall sunshine on the patio overlooking the bayou. Fresh fruit and pyracantha berries were used with greenery in an oval white container to center the buffet. Helen's menu for sixteen guests included barbecued chicken, rice casserole, and tossed salad, with a lemon icebox dessert.

A visitor here last week from New Orleans was MRS. K. FRED NUNGESSER, who was the guest of her daughter and son-in-law, LORRAINE and JACK WICKS. Lorraine's sister and her husband, the ROBERT LAMMONDS of New Orleans, joined the group over the weekend and took the guest home.

Honoring Mrs. Nungesser, VIRGINIA HIGH and MAXINE PLUMMER were hostesses at a sherry party last Wednesday afternoon between the hours of four and six. The party was held at the High home, which was decorated with Fall flowers and foliage. On the patio, persimmons, pyracantha berries, and greenery were used with candles on the refreshment table there. The centerpiece on the dining room table suggested Hallowe'en, in an arrangement of chrysanthemums and Scotch broom. Some twenty guests enjoyed the opportunity for a visit with the honor guest.

Popular newcomer JEANNETTE AYCOCK was entertained at a bridge - luncheon given by CLAIRE BROWN AND JANE SARTOR in the Brown home last Friday. Sixteen guests were invited for luncheon, with twelve taking part in bridge games. The hostesses served a crabmeat and artichoke casserole with spicy broiled string beans, gingered peaches, and hot rolls. Dessert was an orange - filled angel food cake. MARY ALICE LOFLIN won high at bridge, with MARTHA HEUER, second.

Jeannette was also named honor guest at a dessert party given Thursday by MARGE MULLENS, PAT MADDEN, and Martha Heuer at the Mullens home. Twenty guests were invited to serve themselves, settle down for conversation, and come back for seconds and thirds. The dining table in the den was centered with red roses and ivy in a footed silver container. A choice of coffee and tea was served from the silver service at one end of the table.

The choice of desserts was such that most guests were reduced to taking a piece of each: butterscotch tarts with peanut brittle; icebox dessert of apricots and lady fingers; cheesecake topped with cherries; and double fudge cake with chocolate-nut icing.

First play of the new season at Strauss Playhouse will be "Little Theatre's production of "The Solid Gold Cadillac," opening this week. A gala patron's preview is planned for Wednesday night, with the regular five-night run beginning Thursday. Curtain time is 8:15 each evening.

Another first of the season will be the party scheduled Friday night by BIG TIMERS' DANCE CLUB. This group, which schedules two formal dances annually, opens their club year with Friday's affair at Bayou DeSiard country club. Music will be provided by Ted Weems and his orchestra, beginning at nine. Before the dance, there will be a social hour at eight p.m. for dance club members. Breakfast will be available after midnight.

Hallowe'en is a favorite season and motif for children's parties, as witness RITA TUCKER'S sixth birthday party last Saturday afternoon. The picnic table, set up in the backyard of the Tucker home on Stuart, was covered with a Hallowe'en cloth and centered with a pumpkin filled with bags of candy for the guests. Paper plates, cups, and napkins further carried out the theme. Ice cream was served with birthday cake decorated in Hallowe'en colors. As favors, twenty-seven little girls received Trick or Treat bags containing masks, blowers, and wax cats filled with candy.

Also six years old, CAROLYN MINTZ celebrated with a skating party. Some thirty-five children attended, with ADELE DIXON, GREG TIDWELL, and DENISE DOWNING winning prizes. Doughnuts were served, and Hallowe'en masks given as favors.

PAUL HUDGENS entertained nine little boys at a Hallowe'en party on his seventh birthday last Sunday afternoon. The children played traditional games: hot potato, ducking for apples, Bingo. Birthday cake and ice cream were served at a table decorated for the holiday. Trick or treat bags containing masks and horns were used as place cards at each plate.

A skating party honored SHARON ALLEN on her seventh birthday Wednesday. Prizewinners in the games were CHARLES M'KENZIE, MARK DENT, and MARTY MULLENS. Doughnuts were served to twenty-seven children who attended.

Hallowe'en decorations were used in the young people's lounge at Bayou DeSiard country club for DEBORAH ANGELINI's sixth birthday party last Friday afternoon. Twenty - five little girls practiced the Twist and played party games. SHARON ANDREWS was winner at musical chairs; and SHERRY HARPER, pin-the-tail-on-the-donkey. The refreshment table, which carried out a seasonal theme, was centered with a lighted jack-o-lantern.

Saturday was BOB SPATAFORA's tenth birthday and he celebrated with a skating party. Some forty children attended, with MIKE BREARD, MICHELE VARINO, TERRY SPATAFORA and TOMMY COOPER winning prizes. Doughnuts and soft drinks were served as refreshments.

Thirty - five little girls were invited for a back - yard picnic when MANDY GIFFEN celebrated her ninth birthday Saturday. The guests arrived in play clothes and took part in badminton, kickball, and croquet games. Prizes were awarded to BETH CARTER, winner in the target game; MARY VAUGHN INABNET, relay; and LOUISE TERZIA, guessing game. Supper included assorted sandwiches with potato chips and cupcakes. Jacks were given as favors.

A picture show party honored CHARLES WESTROM on his ninth birthday Saturday. Sixteen boys and girls gathered at the Westrom home for refreshments and play in the yard. Cowboys and Indians on the birthday cake set the theme for the movie which the group attended together after eating.

Parties for the Eighth Grade Fun Club get underway with a hayride scheduled for this coming Friday. Members will gather at Lee Junior High at 4:30 Friday afternoon, and be transported by hay-filled trucks to Camp KiRoLi. Games are planned and box suppers will be served. The group will select its new name at this time. Plans call for the young people to return by nine p.m.

Here's a delightful poem, old but ever new, by Gertrude Jipson:

'TAINT NO USE

'Taint no use to worry,
'Taint no use to fret.
Why not pucker up and smile,
Put up with what you get?
'Cause our lives are all so short,
Our years they are so fleet;
We may get a thorn with every rose,
But ain't those roses sweet?

MRS. DALE CECIL SPENCE, prior to her marriage October 1 in Monroe, was Miss Sandra Carolyn Holloway. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Holloway of Salmiya, Kuwait, formerly of Monroe. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Spence of Fairbanks. The couple has established their home here.

Patricia Stone Becomes Bride Of Larry McNeely

White gladioli, palms and white tapers in branched candelabra formed a background in Parkview Baptist Church for the wedding of Miss Patricia Ann Stone and Larry Warren McNeely, which was solemnized Friday, October 12 at 7 p.m. Rev. A. L. New officiated at the double ring vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Edward Stone, 1741 Spencer Avenue, Monroe, and Mr. McNeely is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Robert McNeely, 814 North Pruitt in Bastrop.

A program of traditional wedding music was presented by the organist, Mrs. William Wilkerson.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a short length gown of white peau de soie with bodice of re-embroidered lace. The scalloped neckline was etched with lace and her shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of crystal and drop pearls. Her only jewelry was a drop pearl necklace. She carried a white lace covered bible, surmounted with a bouquet of stephanotis and Japhet orchids.

Miss Sandra McEachern served as maid of honor and only attendant for the bride. She wore a dress of deep rose velveteen and matching slippers and headdress and carried a nosegay of pale pink carnations.

David Stone, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social hall. For a short wedding trip to Arkansas the bride changed into a beige and brown Italian knit suit with matching accessories and a Japhet orchid corsage.

Upon their return the couple will be at home at 1704 East Madison in Bastrop, where the bridegroom is employed.

Charcoal Grill Is Handy Item In Any Season

A small charcoal grill is a handy companion in summer or winter. It provides snacks as welcome at the skating pond as at the beach party.

A number of frozen foods can be heated on the grill. These include peat pies which can be topped by "tents" of aluminum foil to heat faster. Also good are frozen fish sticks, scallops, and breaded shrimp.

Hamburger and hot dogs can be cooked to order at the sports center. Minute steaks grilled over wood charcoal briquets make deliciously hearty outdoor sandwiches. Pots of beans can heat on the charcoal grill while the crowd skis or surfcasts.

Hard rolls hollowed out and filled with minced clams, deviled ham or cheese sauce can be heated and eaten with gusto by hungry hikers. A hero sandwich stuffed with cold cuts can be heated on the grill for a satisfying lunch. Even though far from restaurants and towns, the charcoal fan never need go without a hot meal.

When traveling light, wood charcoal briquets can be carried in heavy duty foil. In a pinch, you need take along only the top of your grill and prop it atop some bricks or stones. Even a piece of rigid steel wire mesh will do, or food can simply be skewered on sticks for cooking. Briquets can later be extinguished with snow or water depending on site and season.

Vows Unite Judy Landry, Patrick James Riley

Nuptial Mass solemnized at 9 a. m. Saturday October 13 in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Marksville, united in marriage Miss Judy Marie Landry of Marksville and Patrick James Riley of Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Landry, Marksville and Mr. Riley is the son of Mrs. W. J. Riley Sr., of Monroe and the late Mr. Riley.

Arrangements of white gladioli and green ferns decorated the altar for the double ring ceremony. Appropriate nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Lewis Roy, organist and Miss Julia Decuir, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a Grecian style gown of white pure silk, with flowing train accenting the straight sheath. Designed with high neckline and three quarter length sleeves, the gown was further enhanced with beads. Her flower shaped headpiece of matching silk was encrusted with pearls and beads and held her bouffant veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis

Miss Nancy Cram served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Lyndia Douville and Miss Ruth Ann Cheek. They wore identical gowns of cerise, styled with scoop neck, cap sleeves and short full skirts caught in back with self - fabric roses. Their headdresses were small veiled cerise pillboxes, accented with white pearls and they carried crescent bouquets of tiny white chrysanthemums.

Miss Patty Riley, flower girl, wore a short dress, styled similar to the bridesmaids, in the same cerise shade with matching headdress. She carried a white wicker basket filled with white chrysanthemums.

W. J. Riley Jr. served as best man and groomsmen were Prent Seymour and John Jordan. Ushers were Ron Meier, Bobby Gill and Jack Selthorst. Kevin Guidry acted as ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Landry wore a costume suit of Imperial blue and black wool, with Imperial blue hat, black silk and suede shoes and bag and a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Riley, mother of the bridegroom, wore a mint green taffeta dress with jacket, brown kid shoes and bag and brown velvet hat. Her corsage was also a white orchid.

A reception was held at 10 a.m. at Dominique's where the bride's table was covered with white net over white satin. Pale yellow chrysanthemums and ferns encircled the cake and silver candelabra. Side tables which held the punch bowls were centered with mass arrangements of yellow chrysanthemums.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans the bride was wearing a red wool knit suit with white blouse embroidered in red. Her accessories were of black patent.

The couple will reside in Mobile, Alabama, where Mr. Riley will graduate in June 1963 from Spring Hill College. He is a graduate of St. Matthew's high school in Monroe and is a member of Phi Kappa Theta at Spring Hill. The bride graduated from Sacred Heart Parochial school, Grand Coteau, attended Presentation Convent, Marksville and graduated from Academy of the Sacred Heart, Grand Coteau. She also attended Pring Hill College in Mobile for two years.

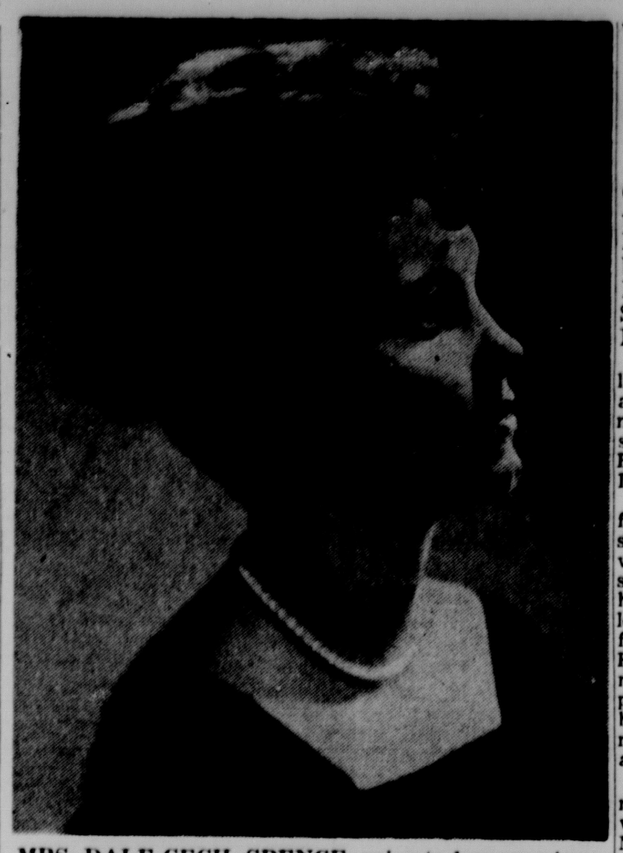
A picture show party honored CHARLES WESTROM on his ninth birthday Saturday. Sixteen boys and girls gathered at the Westrom home for refreshments and play in the yard. Cowboys and Indians on the birthfdau cake set the theme for the movie which the group attended together after eating.

Parties for the Eighth Grade Fun Club get underway with a hayride scheduled for this coming Friday. Members will gather at Lee Junior High at 4:30 Friday afternoon, and be transported by hay-filled trucks to Camp KiRoLi. Games are planned and box suppers will be served. The group will select its new name at this time. Plans call for the young people to return by nine p.m.

Here's a delightful poem, old but ever new, by Gertrude Jipson:

'TAINT NO USE

'Taint no use to worry,
'Taint no use to fret.
Why not pucker up and smile,
Put up with what you get?
'Cause our lives are all so short,
Our years they are so fleet;
We may get a thorn with every rose,
But ain't those roses sweet?



MRS. DALE CECIL SPENCE, prior to her marriage October 1 in Monroe, was Miss Sandra Carolyn Holloway. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Holloway of Salmiya, Kuwait, formerly of Monroe. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Spence of Fairbanks. The couple has established their home here.

Patricia Stone Becomes Bride Of Larry McNeely

White gladioli, palms and white tapers in branched candelabra formed a background in Parkview Baptist Church for the wedding of Miss Patricia Ann Stone and Larry Warren McNeely, which was solemnized Friday, October 12 at 7 p.m. Rev. A. L. New officiated at the double ring vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Edward Stone, 1741 Spencer Avenue, Monroe, and Mr. McNeely is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Robert McNeely, 814 North Pruitt in Bastrop.

A program of traditional wedding music was presented by the organist, Mrs. William Wilkerson.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a short length gown of white peau de soie with bodice of re-embroidered lace. The scalloped neckline was etched with lace and her shoulder length veil of illusion was attached to a tiara of crystal and drop pearls. Her only jewelry was a drop pearl necklace. She carried a white lace covered bible, surmounted with a bouquet of stephanotis and Japhet orchids.

Miss Sandra McEachern served as maid of honor and only attendant for the bride. She wore a dress of deep rose velveteen and matching slippers and headdress and carried a nosegay of pale pink carnations.

David Stone, brother of the bride, served as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social hall. For a short wedding trip to Arkansas the bride changed into a beige and brown Italian knit suit with matching accessories and a Japhet orchid corsage.

Upon their return the couple will be at home at 1704 East Madison in Bastrop, where the bridegroom is employed.

Charcoal Grill Is Handy Item In Any Season

A small charcoal grill is a handy companion in summer or winter. It provides snacks as welcome at the skating pond as at the beach party.

A number of frozen foods can be heated on the grill. These include peat pies which can be topped by "tents" of aluminum foil to heat faster. Also good are frozen fish sticks, scallops, and breaded shrimp.

Hamburger and hot dogs can be cooked to order at the sports center. Minute steaks grilled over wood charcoal briquets make deliciously hearty outdoor sandwiches. Pots of beans can heat on the charcoal grill while the crowd skis or surfcasts.

Hard rolls hollowed out and filled with minced clams, deviled ham or cheese sauce can be heated and eaten with gusto by hungry hikers. A hero sandwich stuffed with cold cuts can be heated on the grill for a satisfying lunch. Even though far from restaurants and towns, the charcoal fan never need go without a hot meal.

When traveling light, wood charcoal briquets can be carried in heavy duty foil. In a pinch, you need take along only the top of your grill and prop it atop some bricks or stones. Even a piece of rigid steel wire mesh will do, or food can simply be skewered on sticks for cooking. Briquets can later be extinguished with snow or water depending on site and season.

Vows Unite Judy Landry, Patrick James Riley

Nuptial Mass solemnized at 9 a. m. Saturday October 13 in St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Marksville, united in marriage Miss Judy Marie Landry of Marksville and Patrick James Riley of Monroe. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Landry, Marksville and Mr. Riley is the son of Mrs. W. J. Riley Sr., of Monroe and the late Mr. Riley.

Arrangements of white gladioli and green ferns decorated the altar for the double ring ceremony. Appropriate nuptial music was provided by Mrs. Lewis Roy, organist and Miss Julia Decuir, soloist.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a Grecian style gown of white pure silk, with flowing train accenting the straight sheath. Designed with high neckline and three quarter length sleeves, the gown was further enhanced with beads. Her flower shaped headpiece of matching silk was encrusted with pearls and beads and held her bouffant veil of illusion. She carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis.

Miss Nancy Cram served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Lyndia Douville and Miss Ruth Ann Cheek. They wore identical gowns of cerise, styled with scoop neck, cap sleeves and short full skirts caught in back with self - fabric roses. Their headdresses were small veiled cerise pillboxes, accented with white pearls and they carried crescent bouquets of tiny white chrysanthemums.

Miss Patty Riley, flower girl, wore a short dress, styled similar to the bridesmaids, in the same cerise shade with matching headdress. She carried a white wicker basket filled with white chrysanthemums.

W. J. Riley Jr. served as best man and groomsmen were Prent Seymour and John Jordan. Ushers were Ron Meier, Bobby Gill and Jack Selthorst. Kevin Guidry acted as ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Landry wore a costume suit of Imperial blue and black wool, with Imperial blue hat, black silk and suede shoes and bag and a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Riley, mother of the bridegroom, wore a mint green taffeta dress with jacket, brown kid shoes and bag and brown velvet hat. Her corsage was also a white orchid.

A reception was held at 10 a.m. at Dominique's where the bride's table was covered with white net over white satin. Pale yellow chrysanthemums and ferns encircled the cake and silver candelabra. Side tables which held the punch bowls were centered with mass arrangements of yellow chrysanthemums.

When the couple left for a wedding trip to New Orleans the bride was wearing a red wool knit suit with white blouse embroidered in red. Her accessories were of black patent.

The couple will reside in Mobile, Alabama, where Mr. Riley will graduate in June 1963 from Spring Hill College. He is a graduate of St. Matthew's high school in Monroe and is a member of Phi Kappa Theta at Spring Hill. The bride graduated from Sacred Heart Parochial school, Grand Coteau, attended Presentation Convent, Marksville and graduated from Academy of the Sacred Heart, Grand Coteau. She also attended Pring Hill College in Mobile for two years.

Planned for November 21 the wedding will take place at College Drive Baptist Church in Pineville at 6:30 p.m. with a reception to follow in the social hall of the church.

Miss Harper is a graduate of Pineville high school.

A graduate of West Monroe high school, Mr. Wimberley is presently a senior at Louisiana College in Pineville.

Musical Coterie Stresses Ways To Elevate Music

The Musical Coterie met Friday, October 5 in the home of Mrs. B. D. Allbritton, at which time the study of the day, "Music as the Center of the Arts; the Supremacy of Instrumental Music," was given by Miss Jonnie Bankhead.

During the business meeting conducted by the president, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, means of elevating cultural undertakings were discussed. Music appreciation was stressed in which attendance at the Northeast State Concert Series, the Louisiana Tech concert series, the Monroe Little Theatre, Northeast College plays, art exhibits and festivals as well as private music recitals and concerts by school organizations insures continuation of raising the level of music appreciation.

The program of romantic composers' compositions which illustrated points of the text by Miss Bankhead included "The Favorite Spot," by Mendelssohn sung by Mrs. Estelle Sanders; "Romanze," by Schumann, played by Mrs. Phanor Perot, pianist; "Sonate in G Minor," first movement by Schumann, played by Mrs. Eloise Stanhope, pianist; "Liebestraume in A flat," by Lizst, played by Mrs. Grayson Guthrie Jr., "Nocturne Op. 72 No. 1," Chopin, played by Mrs. Allbritton.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Allbritton to Mrs. F. V. Allison, Miss Bankhead, Miss Emy-Lou Biedenharn, Mrs. James G. Caldwell, Mrs. Joe Caskey, Mrs. Grayson Guthrie Jr., Mrs. W. M. Harper, Mrs. Tex Kilpatrick, Mrs. H. H. Land, Mrs. Elmer Marshall, Mrs. Kedwick Martin, Mrs. Hugh Gibson, McDonald, Mrs. James Murphy, Mrs. Phanor Perot, Mrs. Estelle Sanders, Miss Gertrude Sandrock, Mrs. Eloise Stanhope, Mrs. Henry Whitfield, Mrs. Felix Willey and Mrs. Everett Zeagler.

Dress-Up Mood Revived On Fashion Scene

Fashion forecasts a decided revival of the lost art of dressing up! Yes, really dressing up in full regalia for evening occasions.

There are important entires for late day allure and festive occasions —in frocks that sparkle in sumptuous silks and satins, brocades, matelasses and metallics. The shimmer and dazzle of beading, with emphasis on jet, flashes opulence this season.

Silhouette and fabric are important in the high-rise necklines and long sleeved styles that add up to a more covered-up look for the late hours.

Shorter evening dresses are slim shaped, eased with gores, panels, pleats, or softly wrapped to the side to gracefully accent the well-defined waistline.

Long dresses are generally slender-looking with modified A-line skirt handling.

Sheer flowing fabrics such as laces and chiffons give billowy, flating-on-acloud fullness, while brocades, metallics and satins bell out in modified dome shapes.

DRESS DETAIL

Lightweight fabrics with textured interest give shape to the wonderful tailoring details of the season. High, untrimmed necklines, V's, easy - scoops, bateau and cowls are all necklines that extend an invitation for jewelry and neckwear accessories.

Neutral colors such as beige, camel, vicuna and grey lead for daytime hours along with assorted reds, greens, black and white combinations, royal and navy.

Jewel colors and off - whites shine brightly for late day.

For before or after sundown, for casual moods or most elegant ones, fall-into-winter dresses take a soft, skimming approach to femininity.

Shorter Gloves Team With New Longer Sleeves

On the fashion agenda for fall, shorter gloves team up with the new longer, leaner sleeves.

Though they're short, they're long on drama. Flaring shapes and sleek gauntlets come into the spotlight. Pleats, tiny buttons, appliques, ribbing and other details add a pretty look.

Wrists can delight in the smooth swirl of fur, real or fake. One of the favorite ways of dramatizing a short glove is through the addition of a handsome furry cuff. Touches of reptile take a hand, too.

Suede appears importantly, and for the longer gloves that go out in the evening, satin stretch fabrics are elegant.

CUTTING KITCHEN PROBLEMS

Frozen foods and pre - mixed and pre - cooked preparations have greatly simplified cooking today. However, post - cooking clean - up still creates problems for many housewives. These problems can be substantially reduced if kitchen countertops and floors are surfaced with an easy - to - clean material such as ceramic tile. Tile can't be stained by foods, grease or acids, and resists even the sharpest of knives.

TOTAL COLOR

A new fall trend is "total" color in coat fabrics, fur trims and hat. An example is Einiger's luxurious textured-woolen color-mated with a Canadian beaver collar and flattering hat, all in the same paled tone.

MISS MARY ANN NAQUIN

Miss Naquin, Fiance Plan November Vows

Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Naquin, West Monroe, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Ann Naquin to George Lemuel Forcht. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Forcht of Bearden, Arkansas.

November 30 is the date chosen for the wedding which will be solemnized at 7 p.m. at Bethel Baptist Church in West Monroe. Rev. Lionel Crowell will officiate.

The bride-elect is a graduate of West Monroe high school and her finance is an honor graduate of Sparkman high school and attended Southern State College.

Boots March Smartly In Any Kind Of Weather

The craze for boots has sneaked up on lots of women and caught them still wearing galoshes. But this fall with boots or "pull-over" shoes sweeping the country — from ankle skimmers and mid-calf styles to keep-deep models — galoshes may leave the closet.

The boot fashion started "simmering" five years ago, and is coming to a boil this fall when boots will be the top footwear fashion.

The new boots come in kid, calf and patent leathers as well as suedes and pigskin. Dressier versions will appear in fake fur, velvet and paisleys and even fake alligator.

Toes, too, are new and different. They'll curl up, or be squared off or be gently rounded. Heels go from flat to spike or stacked.

The most popular and wearable styles are slim, flat-heeled boots in suedes and pigskin that just graze the ankle. Aside from their slim good looks, there's another reason why these brushed leather boots are skyrocketing in popularity. They are treated with "Scotchgard" leather protector which repels rain, water-based stains and dry soil. This means no more worries when you're caught in a rain storm, or when liquids are spilled on the boots or even when dirt is rubbed into the leather. Liquids roll off without staining.

Belts Enter Fall Picture

Into the shapely picture of fall, belts enter attractively. They adapt to the mood of the silhouette, marking natural waistlines in soft, crushed leather or tying easily on relaxed skimmer styles.

For the "muffled up," or Mata Hari, look, they're wide and contoured, accenting rounded and domed skirts.

An especially ornamental look is achieved with the addition of jewel trims. And there's still more luxury, in the form of belts made from real - looking fake leopard.

Monroe Pilot Club Plans Observance Of Founding

Founder's Day will be celebrated by the Pilot Club of Monroe on Tuesday, October 16, the 41st anniversary of the founding of Pilot International. Pilot International is one of five international classified civic and service organizations for executive business and professional women.

The first Pilot club was organized in Macon, Georgia in 1921 with a charter membership of 40. The name "Pilot" was chosen for its meaning leader and guide and the word international was added because the farsighted founders visualized an organization which would become international in scope. Today there are 448 clubs with more than 13,000 members in Bermuda, Canada, England, France, Japan and the United States. Headquarters are located at Macon, Ga.

The Pilot Club of Monroe was chartered June 13, 1941 and Mrs. Jewel McQuiller was the first president. Today's club has 32 active members and two honorary members. Three of the charter members, Mrs. Mary M. Harker, Mrs. Zola Smith and Mrs. Ellen Thompson are still active in the club. Mrs. Cecile Parker is president for the current year.

Pilot clubs are organized for the purpose of promoting active participation in any movements which tend to improve the civic, social, industrial and commercial welfare of the community. The community's need is the Pilot club's opportunity for service. Each club selects and directs its own civic and service projects. The clubs cooperate with existing community agencies and national and international drives that will benefit humanity

Community service projects sponsored by the Monroe club include dental care for underprivileged children, care for the aged, Salvation Army camp, Pelican Girls State, Northeast Louisiana State College stringed instrument scholarship, NLSC School of Nursing scholarship and donations to Ouachita Parish Public Library. As a special project this year the Monroe club plans to present a portable organ to Louisiana Training Institute.

The Monroe Pilot club participated in the cancer drive, the Salvation Army drive for used clothing and according to Mrs. Parker, the club is at present engaged in preparing for mailing Christmas seals in cooperation with the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health association.

Necks Make News In Fall Jewelry Lineup

Elegance wins by a neck in the fall jewelry sweepstakes.

Dramatic new jeweled collars turn the fashion focus on necklines, adding the necessary accent to the "little nothing" dresses still favored by a majority of fashion-wise women. Untrimmed, understated dressed with collarless necklines demand the punctation of the beautiful jewelry, introduced this week in all price ranges, in the fall fashion panorama.

While jeweled pins, bracelets and earrings all have their place in the fall fashion wardrobe, the importance of the close - fitting collar necklace is paramount. The new necklaces carry out the precious look so important for several seasons, but with bolder use of color and combinations of stones.

The collar necklace is a far cry from the jumbled bead "bibs" of a few years ago, and ranges from combinations of real or simulated stones, elegantly designed gold chains and pearls, to classic flat nests of delicate chains. It may lie flat at the base of the throat or be worn high and wide, in the flattering dog collar fashion.

Bracelets, too, are wider and bolder in design than in recent seasons, and earrings usually dangle, to be visible with the popular bouffant hairdos.

Color is important in the fall jewelry line-up with much attention to all tones of brown, from sunny topaz to deep, rich brown accented with gold or black. Real jewel colors are present in full array, to be used as color accents coordinated with the costume. Deep ruby red is a headliner, but also present and accounted for are emerald, sapphire, turquoise, jade, lapis, garnet, jet and gold.

Gold jewelry is everywhere, bold or discreet, tailored or delicately filigreed, always effective and always in good taste. Multiple gold chains make some of the most popular collar necklaces.

Gold chains come in all sizes and all prices, in karat, gold filled or gold finish, bright and shiny or with smooth satin sheen, in necklaces and bracelets. The range of textures, designs and effects is almost limitless in the gold jewelry category, ranging from necklaces of tiny gold beads to wide, flat collars of nested gold chains, bold or delicate. Gold accents also add richness to jeweled necklaces, pins and bracelets, and gold filigree work lends an oriental touch to many of the new designs.

Pearls, beloved and basic of jewels, are always with us, but with new variety and imagination. The look of cultured pearls, real or simulated, is the favorite look of the moment, most popular in multiple strand collars and drop earrings.

For evening wear the sky's the limit in jewelry elegance this fall, with a dazzling array of brilliant and elaborate formal jewelry such as has not been seen for many years. White House reinstatement of full formality has brought back full-length evening gowns and with them jeweled hair ornaments, fabulous necklaces and bracelets, important earrings and pendants.

Day or night, town or country, jewelry is a must this season to spice and personalize simple, understated dress styles and to keep the fun in fashion.

Highland PTA Has Open House At Dad's Night

Open House was held at Highland school October 9 from 7 until 7:45 p.m. at which time all parents were invited to visit with their child's teacher and become familiar with the work the students are doing. Attending the visitation period were 296 parents.

Following open house Highland P-TA held its only Dad's night for this school session. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. William Kelly, president. Mrs. Jack Dew, chairman of character and spiritual education, gave the devotion, after which various officers made reports.

Dr. Lake Oxford, registrar of Northeast Louisiana State College, was guest speaker for the evening and used as his topic "Father's Role in the Family."

Mrs. Elnora McClendon, principal, announced a study discussion will be held October 23 at 1:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Speaker will be R. C. White Jr., and his topic will be "Pros and Cons on UNICEF." A nursery will be provided for pre - school children and all parents are urged to attend the discussion session. Mrs. Kelly announced the spring festival being planned by Highland P-TA, date of which will be announced later.

Room count was won by Mrs. Cecil Dopson's second grade. At close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hospitality committee assisted by the sixth grade mothers.

MRS. JUSTIN DAVID BRINSON, before her marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Brinson of Monroe, was Miss Lela Frances Semple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lawrence Semple, of Alexandria. The bride is a senior at Louisiana State University and a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Mr. Brinson, an August graduate of LSU, will enter the United States Naval Officers Candidate school, Newport, Rhode Island, October 29. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Off-Beat Jeweler Finds Traditional Dull, Boring

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The standard, and safe, jewel accessory or two or three-strand pearls throws Arthur King into a tizzy.

King, beaded specialist in off-beat jewelry designs, finds the traditional in jewelry "dull, most boring. If you're going to wear jewelry, wear jewelry.

"Gold, for instance. I think of gold as a rough, nuggety, heavy metal . . . I resent gold made thin. Why rob it of its richness?

"Jewelry is savage, pagan. Man wore jewelry before he wore clothes. "We've thought too long of jewelry in a velvet-cushioned, gilt-framed setting.

"I love to work with baroque pearls . . . never change their shapes. A diamond has to be cut. I'll do diamonds of course, but I won't put them in those 'claw' settings just so a woman can show how much money instead of taste she has."

King's designs, made by him and 25 other goldsmiths, all are one of a kind. They have a sculptured, rugged look—"they move," said King.

"I won't make sets of things," he said. "I won't even match earrings. We live in a mechanical, regimented age. The part of one toaster fits another. That may be all right for toasters, but nor for jewelry. Each gem calls for its own setting.

"That wedding band you're wearing (plain gold) looks like it was designed by a lathe."

King's theory that jewelry should have "virility" has brought him such somters as Lena Horne ("she has a fabulous collection"), Elizabeth Taylor ("Mike Todd used to buy for her"), Van Johnson (cuff links), Pierre Balmain, the Paris coulturier (cuff links, gifts for customers), and assorted European royalty, he said.

Customers can spend $35 for a wedding band, go on up to the $1,000's for brooches, bracelets and rings. He currently is working on a white and yellow gold chess set with gem-studded chessmen. It will cost about $200,000, he said, and has been commissioned by a donor who plans to give it to a British museum.

Born 41 years ago in Los Angeles, Calif., King did radio and road show acting until World War II when he joined the Merchant Marine.

"I'd always had an interest in metalwork," he said. "I used to haunt museums looking at armor. In the Merchant Marine, there often were long streches of time to kill . . . I began to fool around with metal and stones."

After the war, he opened a small shop in New York, bu eventually closed it to move op erations to Miami and Havana Cuba.

"I grew this long before Cas tro had his," said King, fingering a heavy dark thatch of whiskers

When Castro came to power i Cuba, King's two Havana shop were confiscated, he said. H moved to his Miami adjunct. W and his wife have a home at Co coanut Grove, Fl. King said h was his own architect and his love of the unusual shows in use of old coral, marble and tiles sal vaged from a hotel which in turn had gathered materials from an ancient Spanish monastery.

Now reopening in New York King's shop reflects his rebellion against that velvet - cushioned look. Chairs will be covered in goatskin brought from a Cuban tavern. One wall is paneled in varying lengths of wood cut from railroad ties. Another is cinder block. There's some stained wood paneling.

And the floor is a melange of marble shapes — some circular, some roughcut triangles — set in concrete. Also set into the concrete are semi-precious and precious stones — agate, turquoise, jade, topaz, ruby, sapphire, even some diamond chips.

"That," said King with a smile, "is so if any customer gets uppity about jewelry, I can say 'heck' (hell), I walk on the stuff."

Intriguing 'Mata Hari' Look Scores

Soon (perhaps even tomorrow) you'll pick up a fashion ad and see a headline that says "Here's the Mata Hari Look"!

Shades of foreign intrigue! Drama as exciting as a good spy thriller! Fun with words! Yes — all of this, but what is it?

Take a flatteringly - feminine suit, coat or dress — give it a just high enough to hide the chin — flash your eyes with a "fatal charmer" look — and lo, you too can be a Mata Mari.

This is the truly ultra-high fashion note of the season; as boas, scarves, stoles and halos come out to muffle the chin. Fur, of course, is the most exciting chin cover-up, but equally dramatic effects are achieved with fringed, plain or contrasting fabric "mufflers."

The Mata Hari "top" is usually dramatized with a fuller, almost dirndl-type skirt on dress, suit or coat — rounding out the hips. It may be nipped in tightly at the waist by a wide belt, or top a semi-princess line or grace a smooth-front, rounded back coat or jacket.

This more exotic look extends from daytime fashions far into the fabulous fashions for sirens in the night. Boas, fichus and tippets — in fabric and in fur — rise up to the occasion (and the chin) to dramatize costumes for intriguing females.

MR. MORT utilizes knits in new ways for Fall 1962. A wonderful way to look is in his dress and matching long coat sweater in heavy cable knit as pictured here.

BILLOWY GOWNS

Elegant fashion themes are pointed up for fall in a billowy evening dress of silk Loranza. Fall's favorite flame red is embellished on the bodice with Persian turquoise filigree and the skirt is allover embroidered with gold thread — in the season's opulent mood.

SEASON SKILLET

New skillets and griddles will perform more efficiently if properly seasoned before using. Home economists suggest scouring the pans with soapy steel wool, then washing thoroughly in hot suds, rinsing and drying. Next step is to brush the surface with salad oil and heat slowly over the gas flame. Renew the oil coating after 10 minutes and continue to heat about 10 minutes more. Turn off the flame. Let the pan cool, and wipe with a paper towel.

Hattie Carnegie Look Returns For Autumn

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

NEW YORK—On the last day of the New York Couture Group showings there was only two collections, but each was a gem.

Leading off was Hattie Carnegie, newly returned to the wholesale field and a new member of the Group. Daytime look recaptured the famous Carnegie look of softly feminine gentility. Evening gowns were collector's items in the special Carnegie brand of glamour.

Her fit, as it always was, is easy, with coats smoothed over the bustline. A diagonal brown and grey ribbed wool had box seams to define the top shape then fall loose, while boxed sleeve and important collar finished off the greatcoat look.

A tweed coat with high bustline fit placed its double - breasted buttoning high, stood up its collar to frame the face. Suit skirt had wide panel pleats to make an apron front. Dresses were soft, with waistlines marked by belts, seams or buttoned tabs.

Outstanding among fabrics were the woven and knit ribbed ones, a shrimp color tweed, chiffon satin for a long- sleeved black dinner dress, floral brocades for high fit evening coats.

Jane Derby took the fitted trend and turned it into another uniquely Derby collection. Thus the princess turned into a skimmer dress with the deepest V-middy front effect in town. Her chin - high collars were put on gently gathered coats with leather string sashes.

Suits were softly fitted, often leather sashed, in striking color combinations such as pale blue and dark brown, orange and navy, white and red. Detailing, as always with Miss Derby, was used sparingly but with great effect.

Couple Wed In Home Vows At Crossett

The marriage of Miss Claudette E. Shivers, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jess Easter Shivers of Strong, to Odie F. Blasengame, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Obie C. Blasengame of Pine Bluff, was solemnized Saturday, October 6 at 8:30 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Caprio in Crossett, Ark.

The Rev. Bill Hickem performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of lighted candles and smilax.

The bride wore a beige sheath of raw silk fashioned with scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves. A circlet of brown velvet with beige nose veil formed her headdress. She carried a single bronze orchid atop a white Bible.

Mrs. James R. Ford was her sister's only attendant. Jim Brown attended Mr. Blasengame as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home. The bride's table, covered with an heirloom white lace cloth was centered with an arrangement of white flowers and smilax. Mrs. John Wesson served the cake and Mrs. Curtis Doss poured. Mrs. Thomas Shivers of String, presided at the guest book.

Garden Study Club Analyzes Arrangements

Mrs. G. F. Becker was hostess for the October meeting of the Garden Study Club on Friday at the Holiday Inn. The president, Mrs. John Lewis, conducted the brief business session.

Arrangements brought by the members depicting the lesson for the month were analyzed, each member giving her own interpretation. Mrs. Lewis reviewed the lesson for November and illustrated each step with a colorful arrangement using fresh fruits and vegetables.

During the social hour refreshments were served. Members present in addition to the hostess and Mrs. Lewis were Mrs. C. A. Caldwell, Mrs. Henson Coon, Mrs. A. M. Guerriero, Mrs. Morris Harrison, Mrs. W. G. Haynes Sr., Mrs. C. T. Johnson, Mrs. W. L. Mitchell, Mrs. J. H. Scogin Jr., Mrs. J. F. Stone Sr., and Mrs. C. H. Tait.

Highland PTA Has Open House At Dad's Night

Open House was held at Highland school October 9 from 7 until 7:45 p.m. at which time all parents were invited to visit with their child's teacher and become familiar with the work the students are doing. Attending the visitation period were 296 parents.

Following open house Highland P-TA held its only Dad's night for this school session. The meeting was presided over by Mrs. William Kelly, president. Mrs. Jack Dew, chairman of character and spiritual education, gave the devotion, after which various officers made reports.

Dr. Lake Oxford, registrar of Northeast Louisiana State College, was guest speaker for the evening and used as his topic "Father's Role in the Family."

Mrs. Elnora McClendon, principal, announced a study discussion will be held Octover 23 at 1:30 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Speaker will be R. C. White Jr., and his topic will be "Pros and Cons on UNICEF." A nursery will be provided for pre - school children and all parents are urged to attend the discussion session. Mrs. Kelly announced the spring festival being planned by Highland P-TA, date of which will be announced later.

Room count was won by Mrs. Cecil Dopson's second grade. At close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hospitality committee assisted by the sixth grade mothers.

MRS. JUSTIN DAVID BRINSON, before her marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Brinson of Monroe, was Miss Lela Frances Semple, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lawrence Semple, of Alexandria. The bride is a senior at Louisiana State University and a member of Delta Gamma sorority. Mr. Brinson, an August graduate of LSU, will enter the United States Naval Officers Candidate school, Newport, Rhode Island, October 29. He is a member of Sigma Chi fraternity.

Off-Beat Jeweler Finds Traditional Dull, Boring

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—The standard, and safe, jewel accessory or two or three-strand pearls throws Arthur King into a tizzy.

King, beaded specialist in off-beat jewelry designs, finds the traditional in jewelry "dull, most boring. If you're going to wear jewelry, wear jewelry.

"Gold, for instance. I think of gold as a rough, nuggety, heavy metal . . . I resent gold made thin. Why rob it of its richness?

"Jewelry is savage, pagan. Man wore jewelry before he wore clothes. "We've thought too long of jewelry in a velvet-cushioned, gilt-framed setting.

"I love to work with baroque pearls . . . never change their shapes. A diamond has to be cut. I'll do diamonds of course, but I won't put them in those 'claw' settings just so a woman can show how much money instead of taste she has."

King's designs, made by him and 25 other goldsmiths, all are one of a kind. They have a sculptured, rugged look—"they move," said King.

"I won't make sets of things," he said. "I won't even match earrings. We live in a mechanical, regimented age. The part of one toaster fits another. That may be all right for toasters, but nor for jewelry. Each gem calls for its own setting.

"That wedding band you're wearing (plain gold) looks like it was designed by a lathe."

King's theory that jewelry should have "virility" has brought him such somters as Lena Horne ("she has a fabulous collection"), Elizabeth Taylor ("Mike Todd used to buy for her"). Van Johnson (cuff links), Pierre Balmain, the Paris couturier (cuff links, gifts for customers), and assorted European royalty, he said.

Customers can spend $35 for a wedding band, go on up to the $1,000's for brooches, bracelets and rings. He currently is working on a white and yellow gold chess set with gem-studded chessmen. It will cost about $200,000, he said, and has been commissioned by a donor who plans to give it to a British museum.

Born 41 years ago in Los Angeles, Calif., King did radio and road show acting until World War II when he joined the Merchant Marine.

"I'd always had an interest in metalwork," he said. "I used to haunt museums looking at armor. In the Merchant Marine, there often were long streches of time to kill . . . I began to fool around with metal and stones."

After the war, he opened a small shop in New York, but eventually closed it to move operations to Miami and Havana, Cuba.

"I grew this long before Castro had his," said King, fingering a heavy dark thatch of whiskers.

When Castro came to power in Cuba, King's two Havana shops were confiscated, he said. He moved to his Miami adjunct. He and his wife have a home at Cocoanut Grove, Fl. King said he was his own architect and his love of the unusual shows in use of old coral, marble and tiles salvaged from a hotel which in turn had gathered materials from an ancient Spanish monastery.

Now reopening in New York, King's shop reflects his rebellion against that velvet - cushioned look. Chairs will be covered in goatskin brought from a Cuban tavern. One wall is paneled in varying lengths of wood cut from railroad ties. Another is cinder block. There's some stained wood paneling.

And the floor is a melange of marble shapes — some circular, some roughcut triangles — set in concrete. Also set into the concrete are semi-precious and precious stones — agate, turquoise, jade, topaz, ruby, sapphire, even some diamond chips.

"That," said King with a smile, "is so if any customer gets uppity about jewelry, I can say 'heck' (hell), I walk on the stuff."

State Poetry Society Feted At Luncheon

Members of the Northeast Branch of the State Poetry Society met Saturday for luncheon as guests of Mrs. J. A. Combs, president.

The group presented recently published poems which were read by Mrs. David C. Carter during the program hour following luncheon. The quarterly bulletin which is published at Baton Rouge was also presented at this time.

Members present were Mrs. Lawrence Hunnicut, Mrs. Clifford LaFrance, Mrs. V. S. Garnett, Mrs. Earl J. Phelps, Mrs. W. E. McCoy, Mrs. L. V. Tarver, Mrs. Otto Williams, Mrs. David. C. Carter, Mrs. A. C. Hutts, the hostess, Mrs. Combs and Mrs. James Russell Sr., incoming president.

Intriguing 'Mata Hari' Look Scores

Soon (perhaps even tomorrow) you'll pick up a fashion ad and see a headline that says "Here's the Mata Hari Look"!

Shades of foreign intrigue! Drama as exciting as a good spy thriller! Fun with words! Yes — all of this; but what is it?

Take a flatteringly - feminine suit, coat or dress — give it a just high enough to hide the chin — flash your eyes with a "fatal charmer" look — and lo, you too can be a Mata Mari.

This is the truly ultra-high fashion note of the season; as boas, scarves, stoles and halos come out to muffle the chin. Fur, of course, is the most exciting chin cover-up, but equally dramatic effects are achieved with fringed, plain or contrasting fabric "muffers."

The Mata Hari "top" is usually dramatized with a fuller, almost dirndl-type skirt on dress, suit or coat — rounding out the hips. It may be nipped in tightly at the waist by a wide belt, or top a semi-princess line or grace a smooth-front, rounded back coat or jacket.

This more exotic look extends from daytime fashions far into the fabulous fashions for sirens in the night. Boas, fichus and tippets — in fabric and in fur — rise up to the occasion (and the chin) to dramatize costumes for intriguing females.

BILLOWY GOWNS

Elegant fashion themes are pointed up for fall in a billowy evening dress of silk Loranza. Fall's favorite flame red is embellished on the bodice with Persian turquoise filigree and the skirt is allover embroidered with gold thread — in the season's opulent mood.

SEASON SKILLET

New skillets and griddles will perform more efficiently if properly seasoned before using. Home economists suggest scouring the pans with soapy steel wool, then washing thoroughly in hot suds, rinsing and drying. Next step is to brush the surface with salad oil and heat slowly over the gas flame. Renew the oil coating after 10 minutes and continue to heat about 10 minutes more. Turn off the flame. Let the pan cool, and wipe with a paper towel.

MR. MORT utilizes knits in new ways for Fall 1962. A wonderful way to look is in his dress and matching long coat sweater in heavy cable knit as pictured here.

Hattie Carnegie Look Returns For Autumn

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

NEW YORK—On the last day of the New York Couture Group showings there was only two collections, but each was a gem.

Leading off was Hattie Carnegie, newly returned to the wholesale field and a new member of the Group. Daytime look recaptured the famous Carnegie look of softly feminine gentility. Evening gowns were collector's items in the special Carnegie brand of glamour.

Her fit, as it always was, is easy, with coats smoothed over the bustline. A diagonal brown and grey ribbed wool had box seams to define the top shape then fall loose, while boxed sleeve and important collar finished off the greatcoat look.

A tweed coat with high bustline fit placed its double - breasted buttoning high, stood up its collar to frame the face. Suit skirt had wide panel pleats to make an apron front. Dresses were soft, with waistlines marked by belts, seams or buttoned tabs.

Outstanding among fabrics were the woven and knit ribbed ones, a shrimp color tweed, chiffon satin for a long- sleeved black dinner dress, floral brocades for high fit evening coats.

Jane Derby took the fitted trend and turned it into another uniquely Derby collection. Thus the princess turned into a skimmer dress with the deepest V-middy front effect in town. Her chin - high collars were put on gently gathered coats with leather string sashes.

Suits were softly fitted, often leather sashed, in striking color combinations such as pale blue and dark brown, orange and navy, white and red. Detailing, as always with Miss Derby, was used sparingly but with great effect.

Couple Wed In Home Vows At Crossett

The marriage of Miss Claudette E. Shivers, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jess Easter Shivers of Strong, to Odie F. Blasengame, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Obie C. Blasengame of Pine Bluff, was solemnized Saturday, October 6 at 8:30 p.m. in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Caprio in Crossett, Ark.

The Rev. Bill Hickem performed the double ring ceremony in a setting of lighted candles and smilax.

The bride wore a beige sheath of raw silk fashioned with scoop neckline and elbow length sleeves. A circlet of brown velvet with beige nose veil formed her headdress. She carried a single bronze orchid atop a white Bible.

Mrs. James R. Ford was her sister's only attendant. Jim Brown attended Mr. Blasengame as best man.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home. The bride's table, covered with an heirloom white lace cloth was centered with an arrangement of white flowers and smilax. Mrs. John Wesson served the cake and Mrs. Curtis Doss poured. Mrs. Thomas Shivers of String, presided at the guest book.

COMPLETING PLANS for a silver tea to be held Saturday, October 20, sponsored by the Cultura Book Club as a benefit for the Cerebral Palsy school Christmas party are these committee chairmen. They are from left to right, Mrs. Gene Williams, Mrs. Harry Liner, Mrs. Harold Crew, Mrs. Bill Armstrong and Mrs. Bud Shepard.

'The Bigger, The Better' Is Fall Handbag Trend

"The bigger, the better" is the trend in handbag fashions this fall. With every costume for every occasion, women will be carrying large, spacious bags. Luxurious leather textures, rich autumn hues and smart shapes are notables, reports Leather Industries of America.

From the long, slim envelope to the tall, broad - based tote, handbags are elegant to the eye, light and practical in use, and present in a huge variety of smooth, grained, brushed and suede leathers.

Extra roominess of the new bags won't be exactly unwelcome to women who must carry so much whenever they leave home base.

This season's deep leather colors enhance the oversize bag image. Oblongs and squares, in darkend greens, vintage hues, deep reds make a fashion splash against plaids, woolens and leather coats.

In handbags and other accessories, it is as smart to mix colors as to coordinate.

For dressy daytime costumes, smooth and grain leather bags look deceptively slender and streamlined. Many are trimmed with suede or, occasionally, reptile, providing an extra fashion dimension.

Envelopes, barrel-shaped bags and box shapes show up well in the big, broad lines. Casual costumes call for totes, satchels and pouches again in large but not bulky proportions. Grained, brushed and smooth leathers add a simple but smart note to suits and separates.

Cultura Club Plans Benefit Silver Tea

A silver tea will be given by the Cultura Book Club Saturday, October 20 at the home of Mrs. W. T. Silmon, 411 Audubon in West Monroe. Hours for the event will be from 3 until 5 p.m.

Mrs. Bill Armstrong is general chairman for the tea, plonned as a benefit for the Cerebral Palsy school annual Christmas party.

Other committee chairmen include Mrs. Gene Williams, publicity; Mrs. Harold Crew, courtesy; Mrs. Harry Liner, decorations; Mrs. Bud Shepard, and Mrs. Dale Hendricks, refreshments.

Clear Yellow Can Brighten Cheerless Room

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: I plan to redecorate my living room, which faces north and gets no sun. I have a green sofa and a beige chair. What color would you suggest for walls, rug and accessories? Also, what color for a new chair?

A: If room is really cheerless, the best remedy is walls, woodwork and draperies in a clear pale yellow. Have a carpet in a muted shade of gold. Green sofa and beige chair might be all right; but, to maintain the cheerful aspect, I think a slip cover for sofa in a print with yellow ground, and tomato red, white and some green. You could slip cover the beige chair in the print and have the third chair in red. Choose white accessories.

Q: Walls in living room are pink, sofa is beige - pink and there is one green chair. What color for rug, draperies and extra chair?

A: I'd have a beige - pink rug. Draperies could either be beige-pink or be in a print of pink, beige and green. The extra chair could be covered in this, too. If you have plain beige - pink draperies then the extra chair could

Q: One wall of my young son's room is papered in a neutral ground with pirates, Indians and clipper ships in red, blue and green. Floor is green and gray tile in a checked pattern. What color for cafe cutains, spreads and throw rugs?

A: I suggest the background color of paper for three walls, woodwork, cafe' curtains, rugs and bedspread. If you have pattern on walls and floor, it is best to have rest plain. Paint chest and foot locker in same color as walls, the latter could have stencils carrying out motif and colors of paper. On one plain wall, theme could be repeated: a small shelf with a model clipper ship or two.

Separates Are Top Attraction For Autumn '62

This is the year of the blouse with the individuality and chic that make your newest suits and separates so very special. For smart young fashionables who need fast changes to keep pace with the demands of their busy autumn plans . . . there is a diversified collection of inviting new top attractions woven with Celanese contemporary fibers and designed for minimum care and instant good - grooming.

Styled by the favored names of the avant - garde, these tastemakers have a magnum of daring ideas and more dash than the four minute mile. Start with one wonderful, whirling skirt, skinny slacks or crisp new fall suit . . . add a duet of creamy smooth and wondrously crisp shirts, sparked with intricate contrast embroidery or a frivolous bow blouse boldly striped; a beautifully detailed sissy overblouse has all the feminine wiles . . . the looks are limitless. For sportswear partners don't neglect the impact of the leopard look, complete with its nile-beguiling zippered hood or the brilliant paisley bordered, V-necked jersey aglow with autumn leaf colors. The newest way to soften a suit is via Mode de Paris' flattering and feminine textured crepe overblouses whose fluid, subtle lines are the perfect addition to your most sophisticated or casual styles.

Holiday Work Shop Planned By Garden Club

Members of La Petite Maison Garden Club held their October meeting Friday morning in the home of Mrs. Ben F. Johnston Jr., on Marie Place, with Mrs. Hilary Sanders and Mrs. Sylvester Breard as hostesses.

Plans for the Christmas Work Shop and the annual Christmas party were completed. The club president, Mrs. Carey Thompson Jr., after hearing reports from committee chairman, turned the program over to Mrs. Malcolm Smith, who introduced the guest speaker, John Birdsong Jr.

"Fertilization of the Lawn," was the subject of an informative talk by Mr. Birdsong, which was concluded with a question and answer period.

Refreshments were served at close of the meeting. Members present were Mrs. Louis Breard Jr., Mrs. Reneau Breard, Mrs. Sylvester Breard, Mrs. Curtis Cook, Mrs. Beatle Eason, Mrs. Walter Ernst, Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mrs. Lester High, Mrs. Ed Heard, Mrs. A. H. Jelks, Mrs. Ben Johnston Jr., Mrs. O. C. Jones, Mrs. W. H. McKelvey, Mrs. Jack Murphy, Mrs. Hilary Sanders, Mrs. Amos Smelser, Mrs. Malcolm Smith, Mrs. Carey Thompson Jr. and Mrs. Frank Wells.

Garden Clubs Plan Flower Show Thursday

"Beyond the New Horizons" is theme chosen for a flower show, sponsored by College Heights Garden Club, to be held Thursday, October 18 at the Recreation Center on Westminster Avenue.

Participating clubs invited to enter the show are Bayou DeSiard Garden club; Evergreen Garden club, Monroe Garden club, Welcome Garden club; West Oaks Garden Club, Charmingdale Garden Club and Terra Firma Garden club.

Theme of this year's show is placing emphasis on space and planets to be interpreted through artistic flower arrangements. There will be entries in Artistic Divisions, Horticulture, Educational, Junior Division and corsages.

Mrs. M. L. Johnson is general chairman of the show, which will be open to the public at the Recreation Center from 2 until 7 p.m.

SHOP TALK CLASS

NASHVILLE (AP)—A course in denistry appreciation was organized at the University of Tennessee recently on an experimental basis.

It is attended by wives and wives-to-be of dental students to enable them to talk shop together, says Dean of denistry Shailer A. Peterson. The course is also designed to equip wives to pitch in and help their husbands at the office, he says.

MISS BEVERLY JEAN RAMSEY'S engagement to Johnny Ray Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Smith, 5600 DeSiard Street, Monroe, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Ramsey of Swartz. The wedding will take place November 9 at 7 p.m. in Swartz Baptist Church, with Rev. H. M. Roach officiating.

Signs Of Yule Season Moving In On Landscape

By PATRICK McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Females accustomed to planning ahead better get crackin' on the Christmas chores.

Sure. We Know. The frost's not all over the pumpkins. Halloween's flightly witches have yet to take off on their annual star dusting tour. And the Thanksgiving horn of plenty's still more empty than full.

But the signs of Christmas, 1962 won't be delayed. They're moving in on the landscape like crabgrass.

It's enough to make us women who do everything at the last upsetty. In the last several days, we received the following proofs that the yule season's started:

—A reminder that this week's the very last chance to buy Christmas cards at big, money-saving discounts. (Not as large, of course, as the August discounts!).

—A hint that we can get extra dividends from our mistletoe by spraying it with clear plastic or dipping the stem ends in melted wax.

—A dozen new ways to make Christmas leftovers palatable.

—A holiday appeal letter urging contributions to a charity.

But that's not all of the Christmas trimmings to light up this second week of October.

Word of the joys of toys are drifting in from Santa's workshop in the North Pole.

Many of the seemingly premature reminders urge us to get our Christmas orders in now "to insure prompt delivery."

It's enough to make us old-fashioned girls—last-minute types—bite our nails!

The most appropriate Christmas card — among those we're urged to order now to save money—has a picture of an angel on the front.

The message:

"I'd fly right over and wish you a Merry Christmas but I don't have wings . . . like you."

Obviously, that card's perfect for the females who accept all the expert advice about shopping early—say in October.

A woman's got to be slightly angelic to be that far ahead!

Elegance Abounds In Fall '62 Fashion Collections

A fresh-from-Paris look inspires fall's new fashions. The look is slim yet body-skimming — suggesting a soft gentle rectangle.

However the "plane of geometry" of fashion takes on gently-shaping curves in panels, weltings, full length sleeves. Shoulder lines with set-in sleeves and round necklines and collars help soften the "planes."

Ultra-high fashion notes are the ultra-high collars of stovepipe and dressy "turtle" necklines — they often almost cover the chin — giving a most mysterious, foreign-intrigue look to the wearer.

TRANSITIONAL THEMES

This new season indeed heralds fashions that avoid the extremes. Lines in skirts are considerably less sheathed, less restrained. Fashions that were formerly extremely fitted and form revealing, are now softly pared to easy, body-skimming lines.

There's a marked return to the relaxed fullness of dirndl type skirts, to soft A-lines and curved seamings that create simple flowing grace notes to dresses, coats and suits.

The casual shift is now declasse. Simple dresses, reminiscent of the shift style, are now fuller, "where it counts" to give a less constricted look. Fashion names this the "spare" dress—adds distinctive detailing with stitched or welted seams, turtle or cowl collars, or V-cut for dicky fill-ins — and for good measure a belt is added — to be worn or not.

FOR AFTER-FIVE

Even the word glamour fails to aptly describe the lovely dresses for the evening scene.

Skirts are bell-shaped or full domed and they billow out from natural or dropped waistlines. Necklines are lower in front in discreet horseshoe shapes or have deep-in-the-back Watteau styling.

After-five fashions are beautifully splashed with beading and jet embroideries — on the midriffs, all over the bodice while their hemlines are edged with fur, fringe and ball trims.

Attention is often focused on the midriff this fall — with set-in details, midriff belts, or draped effects.

Stoles and fichu scarves help add sophistication to the Fall '62 look.

Q: Walls in living room are pink, sofa is beige - pink and there is one green chair. What color for rug, draperies and extra chair?

A: I'd have a beige - pink rug. Draperies could either be beige-pink or be in a print of pink, beige and green. The extra chair could be covered in this, too. If you have plain beige - pink draperies then the extra chair could

Q: One wall of my young son's room is papered in a neutral ground with pirates, Indians and clipper ships in red, blue and green. Floor is green and gray tile in a checked pattern. What color for cafe cutains, spreads and throw rugs?

A: I suggest the background color of paper for three walls, woodwork, cafe' curtains, rugs and bedspread. If you have pattern on walls and floor, it is best to have rest plain. Paint chest and foot locker in same color as walls, the latter could have stencils carrying out motif and colors of paper. On one plain wall, theme could be repeated: a small shelf with a model clipper ship or two.

Separates Are Top Attraction For Autumn '62

This is the year of the blouse with the individuality and chic that make your newest suits and separates so very special. For smart young fashionables who need fast changes to keep pace with the demands of their busy autumn plans . . . there is a diversified collection of inviting new top attractions woven with Celanese contemporary fibers and designed for minimum care and instant good - grooming.

Styled by the favored names of the avant - garde, these tastemakers have a magnum of daring ideas and more dash than the four minute mile. Start with one wonderful, whirling skirt, skinny slacks or crisp new fall suit . . . add a duet of creamy smooth and wondrously crisp shirts, sparked with intricate contrast embroidery or a frivolous bow blouse boldly striped; a beautifully detailed sissy overblouse has all the feminine wiles . . . the looks are limitless. For sportswear partners don't neglect the impact of the leopard look, complete with its nile-beguiling zippered hood or the brilliant paisley bordered, V-necked jersey aglow with autumn leaf colors. The newest way to soften a suit is via Mode de Paris' flattering and feminine textured crepe overblouses whose fluid, subtle lines are the perfect addition to your most sophisticated or casual styles.

Holiday Work Shop Planned By Garden Club

Members of La Petite Maison Garden Club held their October meeting Friday morning in the home of Mrs. Ben F. Johnston Jr., on Marie Place, with Mrs. Hilary Sanders and Mrs. Sylvester Breard as hostesses.

Plans for the Christmas Work Shop and the annual Christmas party were completed. The club president, Mrs. Carey Thompson Jr., after hearing reports from committee chairman, turned the program over to Mrs. Malcolm Smith, who introduced the guest speaker, John Birdsong Jr.

"Fertilization of the Lawn," was the subject of an informative talk by Mr. Birdsong, which was concluded with a question and answer period.

Refreshments were served at close of the meeting. Members present were Mrs. Louis Breard Jr., Mrs. Reneau Breard, Mrs. Sylvester Breard, Mrs. Curtis Cook, Mrs. Beatle Eason, Mrs. Walter Ernst, Mrs. Doyle Hamilton, Mrs. Lester High, Mrs. Ed Heard, Mrs. A. H. Jelks, Mrs. Ben Johnston Jr., Mrs. O. C. Jones, Mrs. W. H. McKelvey, Mrs. Jack Murphy, Mrs. Hilary Sanders, Mrs. Amos Smelser, Mrs. Malcolm Smith, Mrs. Carey Thompson Jr. and Mrs. Frank Wells.

Garden Clubs Plan Flower Show Thursday

"Beyond the New Horizons" is theme chosen for a flower show, sponsored by College Heights Garden Club, to be held Thursday, October 18 at the Recreation Center on Westminster Avenue.

Participating clubs invited to enter the show are Bayou DeSiard Garden club; Evergreen Garden club, Monroe Garden club, Welcome Garden club; West Oaks Garden Club, Charmingdale Garden Club and Terra Firma Garden club.

Theme of this year's show is placing emphasis on space and planets to be interpreted through artistic flower arrangements. There will be entries in Artistic Divisions, Horticulture, Educational, Junior Division and corsages.

Mrs. M. L. Johnson is general chairman of the show, which will be open to the public at the Recreation Center from 2 until 7 p.m.

SHOP TALK CLASS

NASHVILLE (AP)—A course in denistry appreciation was organized at the University of Tennessee recently on an experimental basis.

It is attended by wives and wives-to-be of dental students to enable them to talk shop together, says Dean of denistry Shailer A. Peterson. The course is also designed to equip wives to pitch in and help their husbands at the office, he says.

MISS BEVERLY JEAN RAMSEY'S engagement to Johnny Ray Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Smith, 5600 DeSiard Street, Monroe, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Ramsey of Swartz. The wedding will take place November 9 at 7 p.m. in Swartz Baptist Church, with Rev. H. M. Roach officiating.

Signs Of Yule Season Moving In On Landscape

By PATRICK McCORMACK
United Press International

NEW YORK (UPI) — Females accustomed to planning ahead better get crackin' on the Christmas chores.

Sure. We Know. The frost's not all over the pumpkins. Halloween's flightly witches have yet to take off on their annual star dusting tour. And the Thanksgiving horn of plenty's still more empty than full.

But the signs of Christmas, 1962 won't be delayed. They're moving in on the landscape like crabgrass.

It's enough to make us women who do everything at the last upsetty. In the last several days, we received the following proofs that the yule season's started:

—A reminder that this week's the very last chance to buy Christmas cards at big, money-saving discounts. (Not as large, of course, as the August discounts!).

—A hint that we can get extra dividends from our mistletoe by spraying it with clear plastic or dipping the stem ends in melted wax.

—A dozen new ways to make Christmas leftovers palatable.

—A holiday appeal letter urging contributions to a charity.

But that's not all of the Christmas trimmings to light up this second week of October.

Word of the joys of toys are drifting in from Santa's workshop in the North Pole.

Many of the seemingly premature reminders urge us to get our Christmas orders in now "to insure prompt delivery."

It's enough to make us old-fashioned girls—last-minute types—bite our nails!

The most appropriate Christmas card — among those we're urged to order now to save money—has a picture of an angel on the front.

The message:

"I'd fly right over and wish you a Merry Christmas but I don't have wings . . . like you."

Obviously, that card's perfect for the females who accept all the expert advice about shopping early—say in October.

A woman's got to be slightly angelic to be that far ahead!

Elegance Abounds In Fall '62 Fashion Collections

A fresh-from-Paris look inspires fall's new fashions. The look is slim yet body-skimming — suggesting a soft gentle rectangle.

However the "plane of geometry" of fashion takes on gently-shaping curves in panels, weltings, full length sleeves. Shoulder lines with set-in sleeves and round necklines and collars help soften the "planes."

Ultra-high fashion notes are the ultra-high collars of stovepipe and dressy "turtle" necklines — they often almost cover the chin — giving a most mysterious, foreign-intrigue look to the wearer.

TRANSITIONAL THEMES

This new season indeed heralds fashions that avoid the extremes. Lines in skirts are considerably less sheathed, less retrained. Fashions that were formerly extremely fitted and form revealing, are now softly pared to easy, body-skimming lines.

There's a marked return to the relaxed fullness of dirndl type skirts, to soft A-lines and curved seamings that create simple flowing grace notes to dresses, coats and suits.

The casual shift is now declasse. Simple dresses, reminiscent of the shift style, are now fuller, "where it counts" to give a less constricted look. Fashion names this the "spare" dress—adds distinctive detailing with stitched or welted seams, turtle or cowl collars, or V-cut for dicky fill-ins — and for good measure a belt is added — to be worn or not.

FOR AFTER-FIVE

Even the word glamour fails to aptly describe the lovely dresses for the evening scene.

Skirts are bell-shaped or full domed and they billow out from natural or dropped waistlines. Necklines are lower in front in discreet horseshoe shapes or have deep-in-the-back Watteau styling.

After-five fashions are beautifully splashed with beading and jet embroideries — on the midriffs, all over the bodice while their hemlines are edged with fur, fringe and ball trims.

Attention is often focused on the midriff this fall — with set-in details, midriff belts, or draped effects.

Stoles and fichu scarves help add sophistication to the Fall '62 look.

ENGAGEMENT of Miss Bobbie Nell Monroe to A 1c David Wayne Kegley of Houma Air Force Station, is announced today by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Monroe of Delhi. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elvert E. Kegley of Wytheville, Va. The wedding will take place November 15 at the First Baptist church in Houma. Miss Monroe is a graduate of Northeast Louisiana State College and is presently teaching in Houma.

THERE'S a feeling for flare this fall as interpreted in this coat dress. Designed with hood to be worn over the shoulder or on the head, it's in lightweight wool.

Mink Still Milady's Favorite

If you were looking for just one word to describe fall fashion, the word would be elegance. Fashions are more elegant than ever, reveling in sumptuous colours, fabrics, and lavish use of fur. Space-age elegance, though, is a far cry from the buttons-and-bows elegance of grandmother's age. Today's fur elegance, especially in mink, is as smooth and streamlined as a space needle!

As for colours, there's a tremendous variety of mink mutations from which to choose. They run the gamut from pale pearl and palomino to dramatic sapphire and gunmetal tones.

Other exciting fur trends for fall include the costume look. There are full-length fur capes, brief fur triangles to curve around shoulders, reversible fur coats and furs combined with fabrics for ball gowns and dinner suits.

Coat Dress Now Hailed As Skimmer

Variations on the coat dress theme are hailed this fall in a group of "skimmers". Here are dresses that wear the easy grace of princess lines yet barely touch the body. They are flattered with flare or A-line skirts.

Muffled necklines, stole, and scarf accents add a new dash to these skimmers.

Most often you'll find them interpreted in discreet men's wear fabrics. . . brightened with brass buttons, pleat backs and welt and flange seaming.

The skimmer often wears a redingote look with high waistline detail.

For day or for date time — for Fall — a lovely lady look prevails everywhere — important in fine fabric, color and silhouette.

Flu Comes Back Like Bad Penny

There will be widespread outbreaks of Asian flu this fall and winter, according to public-health experts at the Communicable Disease Center in Atlanta, Georgia. Here are the CDC's recommendations: get two shots of Asian flu vaccine two months apart if you have never had vaccine; get one shot if you have been inoculated in any previous year.

Asian flu appears to occur every two or three years, says a spokesman for the CDC. The first Asian flu epidemic occurred in 1957-58; the second in 1960-61. In those epidemic years, an estimated 57,000 deaths were caused by the disease and its complications. Pregnant women, children and the aged are especially vulnerable to its serious forms.

FIREPLACE ADDITION

An alcove featuring a prefabricated fireplace can make an interesting divider if you have sufficient space in your home. Surface the alcove and fireplace floor with durable ceramic tile, which won't be burned by flying embers nor scratched by logs and fireplace accessories. Real tile is also one of the easiest-to-clean building materials.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Promise Fulfilled

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

My promise was — another beautiful show — and, I really kept my promise this past week, you'll have to agree. The Ruston Garden Club displayed an unusually lovely selection of flower arrangements and horticulture specimens of chrysanthemums.

Its president, Mrs. John Wright, was our guest commentator. Mrs. Wright exlained about the use of the materials in the arrangements, their types and the lines created by the arrangers. We do want to have Mrs. Wright more often. She did an excellent job.

DIFFERENT

Each of the four arrangements brought contained entirely different materials. It is interesting to see how each arranger used her particular type flowers.

Roses (radiance) in colors of deep rose - red to the tallest bud in a light lucious pink, formed a massed assymetrical triangle design in a tall green compote container. The leaves of the roses with two or three sprigs of Rose - of - Montana formed a complete filler for this design. It was beautiful in every detail.

This design was made by Mrs. R. L. Seegers. Mrs. Seegers made a second arrangement using celosia, two types. She used the large heads of the cock's comb type to form a massed design (vertical) in a round footed ceramic bowl. This bowl was a light rose color. The tallest placement in the design was a stalk of the princess feather type celosia of the same shade of red as the heavy type. To highlight this arrangement she used the light pink princess feather celosias in a grouping to the left side of the design.

Then balancing this she placed several caladium leaves to the right base of the design. The colors of the caladium leaves pink, white and green tones blended perfectly with the celosia and added interest as well as balance.

Mrs. Herbert Neely used two (twin) cherub containers (copies of French originals) in her Hogarth design — the line of beauty. The line was created by privet and boxwood hedge branches. The flower used throughout was the lavender cushion - type mum with it's buds.

For filler she used light purple salvia which followed the graceful flow of the curving line. This type arrangement would be ideal for the bride's table, or in a period - type home. This type design would be called a twin-container design — not a twin arrangement. This might be confusing if we thought of it as twin arrangements. The same containers could be used separately in two identical designs, thus, making twin arrangements suitable for either side of a mantle or mirror creating formal balance. By using the two containers together in one design we have informal balance. This, too, would be lovely for the mantle, but require some form of balance on the opposite side of the mantle, or table. This could be a figurine or a small bowl or bookends, etc.

OVAL DESIGN

The last arrangement was a massed oval design made by Mrs. W. W. Durdin. It was a delight to see how she used the lycoris radiata (spider lilies). The lilies were used to form the massed design in a soft grey - green jardinere container. For a filler she used the grey dusty miller throughout the oval design. At the base of the oval design, tying it into the container, she used parsley foliage which is a light yellow green. It was most attractive use of materials and colors.

Mrs. E. W. Causey furnished five types or specimens of chrysanthemums for horticulture display. They were Jean Ette, a soft yellow quill type; the Dolli Ette, a bronze with yellow center spoon; Minn pink, clusters of small cushion types; Gardenia, white with soft yellow in the center, decorative type, and Minnahaha, large cushion type, color of orange pink with gold center. These are all lovely types that I believe are a trifle late in blooming now due to the dry summer.

Mrs. Wright wants to remind all of us about the Chrysanthemum Show that will be held in Ruston Nov. 6 and 7 at the Student Center at Tech. Plan to come if you possibly can.

Another reminder is the Flower Show that will be staged by College Height's Garden Club, Thursday, at the Westminster Recreation Center. Five other Federated Garden clubs in this section will participate, plus two of our new garden clubs—the Charmingdale and the Terra Firma. The other participating Federated clubs are Monroe Garden Club, Bayou DeSiard Garden Club; Evergreen Garden Club, Welcome Garden Club, and West Oak Garden Club. There will also be a junior division and educational division. The time for the show is 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. Theme: "Beyond the New Horizons." Mrs. M. L. Johnson is the general chairman.

This week we have Dr. John Wright from Tech for his usual flower - arranging program on TV and Garden Center display. So, be watching and don't forget to come by to see these lovely arrangements at the garden center. I'll be looking for you.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Fabulous Tulip Story

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Fields of dazzling wild tulips in the mountain and hill country of the Near East have excited the Greeks, Turks and Persians for centuries.

From old books and manuscrips, we know that the tulip had been immensely popular in the gardens of Persia and Turkey long before Busbequius sent the bulbs back to Europe from the court of the Sultan around the year 1554.

The famous tulip craze in Europe in the 18th Century was only a repetition of what had taken place centuries before in the East. Omar Khay yam, in the 20 Century, had referred to the tulip. The Persian word for tulip is lale, the same word used by the Turks and Greeks, and our word, tulip, was first used by Busbequius because he thought this flower looked like a turban.

There are fabulous books and manuscripts in Turkey, in the British Museum, in Germany and elsewhere describing hundreds of named varieties that existed in the countries of the near East from the 16th Century on.

In a manuscript of 1615, some of the names of tulip varieties go even further than the Dutch names of today. 'Heart Reviver', "Rose Arrow", Lightening Flash", "Lovers Dream", "Soul of Color," reveal the soul of the Turkish breeders and gardeners. "Patience Reward" speaks volumes.

So great was the admiration of the tulip that even as late as the 18th Century, the sheiks used the name of this flower in their complimentary names for each other. Sheik Mohammed Lalezare means Sheik Mohammed, The Tulip Chief.

It is interesting to see that even these fabulously wealthy potentates included single bulbs of the expensive novelties in their orders for thousands.

HIGH PRICE

For such novelties, as much as 1,000 pieces of gold was paid for one bulb. The sheiks and sultans and emirs seem to have been just as impatient to receive their bulbs as we are today. An order from Selim II, in 1574, to the Sheriff of Aziz says that he needs 50,000 bulbs for his royal gardens. He says, also "I command you not in any way to delay. Everything should be so well and quickly done that it should give rise to no dissapointment."

The Persians and Turks held great exhibitions of tulips, some of them even at night — surely because of the terrible heat. The illustrations on some of the Turkish manuscripts and miniatures show that the labels on the tulips in the exhibitions were often made of silver filigree. When a new variety was introduced, the poets of the country were called upon to write verses in praise of the novelty.

Dag Hammarskjold, late secretary - general of the United Nations, receives philatelic tribute from the United States on a new 4 - cent stamp to be issued on Oct. 23. The stamp will go on sale in New York City with first day ceremonies to be conducted by the United Nations, U. S. Department of State and the Post Office Department. Featured is Hammarskjold with the United Nations building in the background. Hammarskjold was secretary - general of the United Nations from March 31, 1953, until his death on Sept. 18, 1961, in an airplane crash in Northern Rhodesia while on a mission to effect a cease fire between U. N. and Katangan forces in the Congo.

Collectors desiring first - day cancellations of the Hammarskjold stamp may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance covering the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, New York, N. Y. The outside envelope to the Postmaster should be clearly marked "First Day Covers Hammarskjold Stamp."

Collectors are reminded that cover requests must be postmarked not later than October 23.

Iran has issued two new stamps honoring its Second Oil Symposium in Teheran. The 6 Rials and 14 Rials stamps, of identical design, show pipe lines and oil derricks in a central circle plus the emblem of the United Nations in a colored border at the left. The 6 Rials is blue and brown. The 14 Rials is grey and brown.

Stamp enthusiasts may obtain nearly 2,000 color stamp slides in 20 major topical showings. These are available to stamp clubs, civic, church, fraternal and smaller organizations through the auspices of the American Topical Association. Those wishing bookings may write to Lester Kufahl, ATA Slide Librarian, 1760 Arrowhead Court, Elm Grove, Wis.

Brazil has announced it will issue two new stamps honoring U. S. President John F. Kennedy. One stamp will show a portrait of President Kennedy, Statue of Liberty and the United States emblem. The other stamp will feature the United States capitol and the Brazilian Congress House in addition to a portrait of President Kennedy.

Attractions Hit Crowded Schedule

By JOHN CALE

There's a measure of unity and variety in the entertainment bill of fare for the coming week.

Choices cover a multitude of tastes. Little Theatre is opening its season with a comedy at Strauss Playhouse, a downtown movie house is featuring another opera on film and the Northeast student council has scheduled a well known guitarist and popular music ensemble.

That's the variety. The unity was somehow worked into the scheduling — all the attractions will be presented Thursday.

NO CLASH

This does not mean that a real follower of music and drama will have to miss any of these programs because of conflicting times, however.

Little Theatre's "Solid Gold Cadillac" opens Thursday. But it will also run through the following Monday.

Paramount Theatre's film version of Verdi's "Rigoletto" will get two showings Thursday — 2 p.m. and 8 p.m. This is the second in this year's filmed opera series and stars Tito Gobbi. While the first opera in the current season was well received, attendance does determine whether or not there will be future presentations. There's no question but what opera on film offers the best solution to the problem of bringing a highly expensive art form to the most people. But public demand is the thermometer watched most closely by the producers.

The Billy Butterfield Sextet, slated to appear at Brown Hall auditorium at 7 p.m. Thursday, features Charlie Byrd, guitarist; Dotty Smith, pop vocalist, and Helen Dunlop, folk singer.

While this group is billed as a "jazz ensemble," the term allows for plenty of flexibility. Byrd is a modern master of melodic guitar playing, equally at home in all idioms from Bach to Brazilian backwoods and city street tunes. The including of pop vocalist Dotty Smith and folk singer Helen Dunlop should also make for an interesting and varied program. The college student council has scheduled the ensemble's appearance here and tickets are available at Dew Music and the College Union. One report says advance sale tickets are cheaper, which might be an angle worth looking into.

IN THE FLAT

Raymond Lucero, who will assist Little Theatre director Richard Clark this season, has fashioned some sets for "Solid Gold Cadillac" which represent the opposite philosophy from theatre in the round.

"These scenes will be made into stylistic cartoonizing," Lucero said. "The non - dimensional effect is rather like theatre in the flat."

The assistant director pointed out that the new scenes are beyond the experimental category. "The Broadway musical comedy 'How to Succeed in Business without Really Trying' used similar sets, and I have seen them used in children's plays as well as classical drama," Lucero said.

One of the scenes in "Solid Gold Cadillac" calls for an office in somewhat run - down condition. "Since there's a sort of unreal atmosphere to the comedy anyhow," Lucero said, "we thought the non - dimensional scenes would fit right in."

So the design for the office was worked out with lines to establish the back wall and windows with numerous pipes from the plumbing and steam radiators worked into the theme. The result is enhanced by the use of brilliant colors and stage lighting.

Maybe that gold automobile will turn out to be real gold!

'Rigoletto' Wednesday At Paramount

The second in the series of Grand Opera Presentations will be held Thursday at the Paramount Theatre withe the presentation of "Rigoletto." The famed Verdi opera stars Tito Gobbi and features outstanding musicians and artists in the 104 - minute complete opera.

The opera series for the fall, includes the showing of "The Royal Ballet," in Technicolor on Thursday, October 25, and "Figaro, The Barber Of Seveille," in Technicolor on Thursday, November 8. The first opera of the series, " Don Giovani," in color, was presented last month.

The fall series was chosen by music lovers throughout the northeast Louisiana area by write - in ballot from entries listed in the Monroe Morning World and over radio and TV stations.

Paramount theatre manager Ted Hatfield said, "The fall opera season has been well received. However, we are nearly 40 per cent below the spring attendance. I sincerely hope the attendance will greatly increase on the final three operas."

Start Now On Compost

By AUDREY H. DAWSON

Now is an excellent time to begin a compost pile. Take advantage of the falling leaves, lawn clippings and other vegetative debris around the yard to form a compost pile. Where leaves and grass clippings are removed year after year and where no fertilizer is added, the soil in the yard around the house becomes extremely compact.

Here is a recipe from Neil Odenwald, our Assistant Specialist in Horticulture, on how to make a compost pile.

Select a well drained site for the pile. It may be a pit in the ground or a pen made of boards, slats or wire. The first layer of material should be four to six inches of grass sod then on this layer add fertilizer. The third layer may be lawn or grass clippings, weeds, or vegetable residue that is not infected with disease. Do not use grass or weeds which have gone to seed. As the pile is built up, pour a few buckets of water over the material to aid decomposition. The fourth layer ought to be leaves. A few shovels of soil can be added also so that the lighter material will not be scattered by the wind.

CONCAVE TOP

As the pile is accumulating the top should be kept concave so as to catch the rainfall rather than shed it.

Turn the pile over every two or three months for uniform decomposition. After six or eight months, this material may be added to, worked into the soil, or can be used as a mulch.

RED SPIDERS

When summer rains begin to subside the mite population begins to increase. Serious defoliation of azaleas may result unless control measures are applied before the spider mites build up. Malathion will control the spider mite and you can purchase it at any feed and seed store.

TIPS ON BULBS

Prepare the soil well in advance of planting to a depth of 12 inches. Select insect and disease free bulbs. Bulbs planted too deep will not flower. Do not over fertilize. In the landscape use bulbs in masses rather than scattering a few bulbs over large areas. Bulbs are quite showy in ground covers of ivy, jasmine and vinca. In wooded areas and where the more common bulbs are available, use bulbs in large natural drifts. Never circle trees in a natural setting with bulbs. If you, Mrs. Gardener, want color in your yard for the 1963 spring season, plant bulbs this fall.

CAKE CONTEST

A great big congratulations to Mrs. Tuck Taylor, of the McClendon Home Demonstration Club, for placing first in the special cake contest at the Ouachita Valley Fair last week. As an award for placing first, Carolyn received an electric range.

Third place winner was Mrs. W. J. Thomas, of the Thrifty Homemaker Club, and she received $10 in cash.

The other blue ribbon winners received $5 each. They were Mrs. Roy Simmons, Mrs. James Fletcher and Mrs. B. H. Moore, of Progressive Home Demonstration Club; Mrs. Monk Salley of Claiborne, Mrs. S. O. Sharp of Sterlington, Mrs. R. A. Rigsby and Mrs. Billie Henry of Drew Club.

There were 106 cakes entered in the contest.

WASH AND WEAR

Mrs. Celia Hissong, our home management specialist, gives us some mighty good tips on a big problem in today's laundering, yellowing. She says you can prevent yellowing most of the time if you follow instructions and if your laundry is properly washed and rinsed. Chlorine bleach causes yellowing of resin treated cottons or cotton blends. Mrs. Hissong says you can remove the yellow with sodium hydrosulfite which is available at drug stores. Dissolve one teaspoonful in a gallon of water and soak the fabric until it becomes white. If your problem is yellowish brown spots do not use chlorine bleach for this as it will cause even more yellowing. It may be from iron rust in your water supply. To treat rust stains, moisten with lemon juice and salt and dry in the sun. You can also buy commercial rust removers at drugstores. If you want to make your own rust remover, ask the druggest for oxalic acid crystals. Dissolve a tablespoonful in a gallon of warm water in glass or plastic container. Soak fabric only until stains disappear. Then rinse thoroughly. Never use oxalic acid in your washer since it may damage tub.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

A total eclipse of the sun, one of nature's most spectacular natural phenomenon, was due to occur over northern Italy on Feb. 15, 1961.

This happening, precisely calculated by scientists and astronomers, was photographed by scientific teams and amateur astronomers for the scientific knowledge it would yield.

It also produced, almost unexpectedly, movie footage of dramatic beauty and historic reality of a reenactment of one of mankind's greatest events since creation — the crucifixion of Christ. For at that moment, in the Gospel according to Luke, 23:44, the Disciple says: "And there came a darkness over the whole land . . . the sun was in eclipse."

IN MOVIE EPIC

The photographic juxtaposition of the crucifixion and the sun's eclipse appears in the movie epic, "Barabbas," based on the novel by Sweden's Nobel Prize winner, Par Lagerkvist.

It was a sudden inspiration of the film's producer, Dino De Laurentiis. Why not use nature's scheduled authentic phenomenon to duplicate the Biblical story of 2,000 years ago?

Veteran Italian cinematographer, Aldo Tonti, was skeptical at first. He knew the effect could be produced artificially by special effects and controlled lighting. But shooting a scene in Technicolor right into the eclipse presented unknown hazards. There could be not test shots for exact color exposure and there was no past experience to go by. There could be no delaying the precise moment of its scheduled appearance or the length of duration. And no retakes!

DECISION

The decision to go ahead came 48 hours before the eclipse. A cast and crew of 80 were rushed to Roccastrada, a medieval village 120 miles north of Rome. There on a hilltop, the crosses were erected and Tonti set up three cameras. One, with a telescopic lens, concentrated on the eclipse itself. The second camera was focused for close-ups of the Christ figure on the center cross. The third, with a wide - angle lens, took over - all shots of the three crosses and the eclipse overhead. Four large are lamps were set up to control the lighting on the figures and crosses from the ground.

On eclipse day, the cameras faced the sun with heavy neutral density filters over their lenses. As zero moment approached, cameraman Tonti made a change based on photographer's instinct.

"I was worried," he recalled later. "The eclipse was just beginning and we had two minutes of changing light to darkness. I was unhappy with the master camera placement. The sun was causing optical refractions which created extensive halos which could fog the entire picture.

"Instincitvely I moved the camera so that the sun shone directly into the center of the lens. This eliminated the reflections. Then I removed the heavy filters and opened the lens to f-4 to get all the color I could . . . and prayed."

The result was a powerfully moving sequence in "Barabbas." The movie, a Columbia release, should prove of particular interest to camera fans from a photographic standpoint.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Promise Fulfilled

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

My promise was — another beautiful show — and, I really kept my promise this past week, you'll have to agree. The Ruston Garden Club displayed an unusually lovely selection of flower arrangements and horticulture specimens of chrysanthemums.

Its president, Mrs. John Wright, was our guest commentator. Mrs. Wright exlained about the use of the materials in the arrangements, their types and the lines created by the arrangers. We do want to have Mrs. Wright more often. She did an excellent job.

DIFFERENT

Each of the four arrangements brought contained entirely different materials. It is interesting to see how each arranger used her particular type flowers

Roses (radiance) in colors of deep rose - red to the tallest bud in a light lucious pink, formed a massed assymetrical triangle design in a tall green compote container. The leaves of the roses with two or three sprigs of Rose - of - Montana formed a complete filler for this design. It was beautiful in every detail.

This design was made by Mrs. R. L. Seegers. Mrs. Seegers made a second arrangement using celosia, two types. She used the large heads of the cock's comb type to form a massed design (vertical) in a round footed ceramic bowl. This bowl was a light rose color. The tallest placement in the design was a stalk of the princess feather type celosia of the same shade of red as the heavy type. To highlight this arrangement she used the light pink princess feather celosias in a grouping to the left side of the design.

Then balancing this she placed several caladium leaves to the right base of the design. The colors of the caladium leaves pink, white and green tones blended perfectly with the celosia and added interest as well as balance.

Mrs. Herbert Neely used two (twin) cherub containers (copies of French originals) in her Hogarth design — the line of beauty. The line was created by privet and boxwood hedge branches. The flower used throughout was the lavender cushion - type mum with it's buds.

For filler she used light purple salvia which followed the graceful flow of the curving line. This type arrangement would be ideal for the bride's table, or in a period - type home. This type design would be called a twin-container design — not a twin arrangement. This might be confusing if we thought of it as twin arrangements. The same containers could be used separately in two identical designs, thus, making twin arrangements suitable for either side of a mantle or mirror creating formal balance. By using the two containers together in one design we have informal balance. This, too, would be lovely for the mantle, but require some form of balance on the opposite side of the mantle, or table. This could be a figurine or a small bowl or book-ends, etc.

OVAL DESIGN

The last arrangement was a massed oval design made by Mrs. W. W. Durdin. It was a delight to see how she used the lycoris radiata (spider lilies). The lilies were used to form the massed design in a soft grey - green jardinere container. For a filler she used the grey dusty miller throughout the oval design. At the base of the oval design, tying it into the container, she used parsley foliage which is a light yellow green. It was most attractive use of materials and colors.

Mrs. E. W. Causey furnished five types or specimens of chrysanthemums for horticulture display. They were Jean Ette, a soft yellow quill type; the Dolli Ette, a bronze with yellow center spoon; Minn pink, clusters of small cushion types; Gardenia, white with soft yellow in the center, decorative type, and Minnahaha, large cushion type, color of orange pink with gold center. These are all lovely types that I believe are a trifle late in blooming now due to the dry summer.

Mrs. Wright wants to remind all of us about the Chrysanthemum Show that will be held in Ruston Nov. 6 and 7 at the Student Center at Tech. Plan to come if you possibly can.

Another reminder is the Flower Show that will be staged by College Height's Garden Club, Thursday, at the Westminster Recreation Center. Five other Federated Garden clubs in this section will participate, plus two of our new garden clubs—the Charmingdale and the Terra Firma. The other participating Federated clubs are Monroe Garden Club, Bayou DeSiard Garden Club; Evergreen Garden Club, Welcome Garden Club, and West Oak Garden Club. There will also be a junior division and educational division. The time for the show is 2 p.m. to 7 p.m. Theme: "Beyond the New Horizons." Mrs. M. L. Johnson is the general chairman.

This week we have Dr. John Wright from Tech for his usual flower - arranging program on TV and Garden Center display. So, be watching and don't forget to come by to see these lovely arrangements at the garden center. I'll be looking for you.

'Rigoletto' Wednesday At Paramount

The second in the series of Grand Opera Presentations will be held Thursday at the Paramount Theatre withe the presentation of "Rigoletto." The famed Verdi opera stars Tito Gobbi and features outstanding musicians and artists in the 104 - minute complete opera.

The opera series for the fall, includes the showing of "The Royal Ballet," in Technicolor on Thursday, October 25, and "Figaro, The Barber Of Seveille," in Technicolor on Thursday, November 8. The first opera of the series, " Don Giovani," in color, was presented last month.

The fall series was chosen by music lovers throughout the northeast Louisiana area by write - in ballot from entries listed in the Monroe Morning World and over radio and TV stations.

Paramount theatre manager Ted Hatfield said, "The fall opera season has been well received. However, we are nearly 40 per cent below the spring attendance. I sincerely hope the attendance will greatly increase on the final three operas."

Fabulous Tulip Story

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Fields of dazzling wild tulips in the mountain and hill country of the Near East have excited the Greeks, Turks and Persians for centuries.

From old books and manuscrips, we know that the tulip had been immensely popular in the gardens of Persia and Turkey long before Busbequius sent the bulbs back to Europe from the court of the Sultan around the year 1554.

The famous tulip craze in Europe in the 18th Century was only a repetition of what had taken place centuries before in the East. Omar Khay yam, in the 20 Century, had referred to the tulip. The Persian word for tulip is lale, the same word used by the Turks and Greeks, and our word, tulip, was first used by Busbequius because he thought this flower looked like a turban.

There are fabulous books and manuscripts in Turkey, in the British Museum, in Germany and elsewhere describing hundreds of named varieties that existed in the countries of the near East from the 16th Century on.

In a manuscript of 1615, some of the names of tulip varieties go even further than the Dutch names of today. 'Heart Reviver', "Rose Arrow", Lightening Flash", "Lovers Dream", "Soul of Color," reveal the soul of the Turkish breeders and gardeners. "Patience Reward" speaks volumes.

So great was the admiration of the tulip that even as late as the 18th Century, the sheiks used the name of this flower in their complimentary names for each other. Sheik Mohammed Lalezare means Sheik Mohammed, The Tulip Chief.

It is interesting to see that even these fabulously wealthy potentates included single bulbs of the expensive novelties in their orders for thousands.

HIGH PRICE

For such novelties, as much as 1,000 pieces of gold was paid for one bulb. The sheiks and sultans and emirs seem to have been just as impatient to receive their bulbs as we are today. An order from Selim II, in 1574, to the Sheriff of Aziz says that he needs 50,000 bulbs for his royal gardens. He says, also "I command you not in any way to delay. Everything should be so well and quickly done that it should give rise to no dissapointment."

The Persians and Turks held great exhibitions of tulips, some of them even at night — surely because of the terrible heat. The illustrations on some of the Turkish manuscripts and miniatures show that the labels on the tulips in the exhibitions were often made of silver filigree. When a new variety was introduced, the poets of the country were called upon to write verses in praise of the novelty.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

A total eclipse of the sun, one of nature's most spectacular natural phenomenon, was due to occur over northern Italy on Feb. 15, 1961.

This happening, precisely calculated by scientists and astronomers, was photographed by scientific teams and amateur astronomers for the scientific knowledge it would yield.

It also produced, almost unexpectedly, movie footage of dramatic beauty and historic reality of a reenactment of one of mankind's greatest events since creation — the crucifixion of Christ. For at that moment, in the Gospel according to Luke, 23:44, the Disciple says: "And there came a darkness over the whole land . . . the sun was in eclipse."

IN MOVIE EPIC

The photographic juxtaposition of the crucifixion and the sun's eclipse appears in the movie epic, "Barabbas," based on the novel by Sweden's Nobel Prize winner, Par Lagerkvist.

It was a sudden inspiration of the film's producer, Dino De Laurentiis. Why not use nature's scheduled authentic phenomenon to duplicate the Biblical story of 2,000 years ago?

Veteran Italian cinematographer, Aldo Tonti, was skeptical at first. He knew the effect could be produced artificially by special effects and controlled lighting. But shooting a scene in Technicolor right into the eclipse presented unknown hazards. There could be not test shots for exact color exposure and there was no past experience to go by. There could be no delaying the precise moment of its scheduled appearance or the length of duration. And no retakes!

DECISION

The decision to go ahead came 48 hours before the eclipse. A cast and crew of 80 were rushed to Roccastrada, a medieval village 120 miles north of Rome. There on a hilltop, the crosses were erected and Tonti set up three cameras. One, with a telescopic lens, concentrated on the eclipse itself. The second camera was focused for close-ups of the Christ figure on the center cross. The third, with a wide - angle lens, took over - all shots of the three crosses and the eclipse overhead. Four large arc lamps were set up to control the lighting on the figures and crosses from the ground.

On eclipse day, the cameras faced the sun with heavy neutral density filters over their lenses. As zero moment approached, cameraman Tonti made a change based on photographer's instinct.

"I was worried," he recalled later. "The eclipse was just beginning and we had two minutes of changing light to darkness. I was unhappy with the master camera placement. The sun was causing optical refractions which created extensive halos which could fog the entire picture.

"Instincitvely I moved the camera so that the sun shone directly into the center of the lens. This eliminated the reflections. Then I removed the heavy filters and opened the lens to f-4 to get all the color I could . . . and prayed."

The result was a powerfully moving sequence in "Barabbas." The movie, a Columbia release, should prove of particular interest to camera fans from a photographic standpoint.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice:

"I always fit my dresses by turning them inside out and haven't had too much trouble. Now my neighbor is learning to sew and she was told to fit the dress right side out. Which of us is right — and how can I mark the side seams if she is right?"

Mrs. C. G.

Dear Mrs. C. G.:

A dress, or any garment for that matter, should be fitted with the RIGHT side out. If there is any variation in one side of your body from the other, you would be fitting the opposite side by trying it on wrong side out.

Place your pins on a vertical position, with the raw edges of both seams extending. This makes it easier to get a smooth fit if you must fit yourself. After you are satisfied with the way it fits, spread the seam and rub a piece of marking chalk against the pin. When you take the garment off, you will notice the marks will show up on the wrong side of your fabric, just right for machine stitching.

Mrs. E. M. says, "Sewing stiff fabrics becomes easier if you stick your needle in a bar of soap occasionally. The soap lubricates the needle and makes the going smoother."

PRE-SHRUNK WOOL

"Dear Eunice:

"I want to make my son some wool shirts this winter and I would like to be able to wash them. If the material is marked pre - shrunk, does this mean washable?"

Mrs. N. R. E.

Dear Mrs. N.R.E.:

Fabric marked pre - shrunk often does not mean that you can safely wash it without shrinkage. I would suggest you wet the wool thoroughly, allow to dry and then cut your shirts.

Special care must be used in washing any wool garment. Use cool water, soak instead of rubbing, and use a good cold - water soap. Squeeze excess water out by wrapping the material in a towel, and dry it at room temperature. Usually, pressing with a steam iron is sufficient.

TAILOR TRIX AWARD WINNER

"A perfect way to use little girls' torn, worn, or too small "leo - tights" (all - in - one panties wih long stockings and feet) is to cut the leo - tights about 3 inches shorter than her skirts. Machine stitch a ½ - inch hem, stretching as you sew to allow extra width for the leg. Add lace edging and a couple of bows and you will have the cutest pair of "petti - pants" you have ever wanted. Your girls will prefer wearing these to slips. The feet can be used, too, with house slippers — or just to lounge around the house."

Aqua Fashions Makers Up To Ears In Ideas

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

Having plunged into high aqua fashions, bathing cap makers are now up to their ears in heady ideas for modern Lorelei's.

They had already discovered that ladies in the social swim spend a lot of money on not one, but a cabana full of water shedding, curve revealing suits. And they also learned that these bathing beauties simply refused to spoil their devastating fashion effect with rubber skull caps. In these the girls looked bald and their expensive hairdos got ruined anyway.

A few resort seasons ago, however, swim suit manufacturers began to get the landlubbers off the beach with hairy, flowery, petally and other dimensional type caps, all with moisture shedding abilities. Now the designers of water millinery are really inspired.

By next resort season you will see an array of hair hiders bobbing in the surf that beats anything on the Easter Walk or a costume party. Guaranteed to puzzle the fish, for example, is one that appears to have been cut out of coral rock. Another is a helmet of glistening cellophane ruffles. And there's a glittering gold lame cap sure to lure yachtsmen to the reefs.

Another appears to be made of straw, but that doesn't make it any cheaper. The price tags on most are as dear as the styling. But, argue the makers, you only need one touch of this water frivolity for a flock of suits.

Ladies who wear these obviously have money, and they need some place to put both. Thus the swim hat manufacturers have gone into the handbag business, creating draw string tote bags to match the caps.

The toters are not only large enough to hold the cap, make-up, money, and tan oil, but swim suits too.

Financial Slide Rule Aims At Balancing Budget

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)— Money management experts, forever preaching that budgeting can be pleasant, suggest us dunces at balancing the books use a financial slide rule.

The gadget, smaller than a business size envelope, quickly tells thick heads how to plug the leaks, trim the fat and, in general, how to make budgeting carefree and profitable.

Breadwinners having troubles budgeting $300 a month at once get heartened when fiddling with the slide rule. At the end of the scale, there's a budget plan for families with an income of $1,400 a month. Budget fumbles, apparently, afflict the rich as well as the almost poor!

The slide rule lists the gross monthly income, withholding tax, Social Security, net monthly income, saving, food, shelter, house operation, clothing, transportation and even—advancement.

In case you didn't know it—and how could you if you don't budget—the above named categories gobble up your money each month.

Advancement, if you're curious, covers—health, education, recreation, vacation expenses, newspapers, magazines, books, hobbies, dues and membership fees, charity, personal allowance for each member of the family and other miscellaneous items not covered by other categories.

So say the money management experts at Savings Specialties Co. who concocted the slide rule.

Here's the sample budget recommended for a family of two with a gross monthly income of $300: Uncle Sam's tax, $34; Social Security, $9.38. This leaves a net monthly income of $256.62 to be spent as follows.

—Savings, $18; food, $68.25; shelter, $55; house operation, $25; clothing, $27; transportation, $23; advancement, $40.37.

Now at the top, gross income of $1,400 a month and with five in the family, the net monthly income figures out to $1,185.50. That's what's left after $203 goes to Uncle Sam for income taxes and $12.50 is drawn off for Social Security payments.

The family with this net of nearly $1,200 a month ought to spend it—pleasantly and profitably—as follows:

—Savings, $195; food, $197.40; shelter, $207.50; house operation, $130.35; clothing, $107.50; transportation, $101; advancement, $246.75.

In between the two extremes are all the other income categories. One that suits the typical family—gross income of $500 and four in family—works out this way:

—Income taxes, $51.80; Social Security, $12.50; savings, $42.25; food, $108.15; shelter, $97; house operation, $45; clothing, $47.75; transportation, $39.75; advancement, $55.80.

Looked at another way, the slide rule shows that if you're paying $132 a month for shelter, your gross monthly income should be $700.

Space Agency Reports On Solid-Fuel Lunar Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP)—A space agency study says a solid-fuel lunar rocket could be developed cheaper and two years sooner than the liquid-propelled rockets now planned to carry America's first astronauts to the moon.

The present target date is sometime in this decade.

The report was prepared by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and was published in the current issue of Astronautics, magazine of the American Rocket Society.

Despite the conclusions, however, there was no indication NASA would change its plans for using liquid-fueled rockets.

The staff study called for a solid-fuel rocket weighing 30 million pounds, standing 220 feet high and measuring 77 feet in diameter.

It should be assembled at a launch site in the ocean 12 miles off Cape Canaveral, Fla., the report said.

The rocket would have four stages. The first three would put the fourth stage and the manned spacecraft into a parking orbit around the earth. After the satellite vehicle had reached the desired point in its orbit, the fourth stage would ignite to boost the space craft toward the moon, or other planet if desired.

This type of vehicle currently is being considered for use in the Nova program as an advancement beyond the all-liquid propellant Saturn vehicle that will be used to send an Apollo spacecraft to the moon.

The report said that solid propellants are desirable for manned space missions because of their unusually high over-all reliability.

"The sheer magnitude of the reliability problem indicates that a basic reevaluation question of the design philosophy and program approach is needed," the report said.

The study also reported that:

1. There are many islands and coastal areas from Texas to South Carolina that are convenient to Cape Canaveral by barge transport, preferably through inland waterways, that can be used for moving the big solid rockets.

2. Two launch pads would be required to allow launchings every two months. They would be 6 to 12 miles apart, in 62,100 feet of water, with breakwaters a mile long and 10 feet higher than high tide to shelter each pad area.

JFK Linked To Italians' Family Tree

ROME (AP)—Counts from Umbria, a viceroy of Naples, a bishop who backed Christopher Columbus—these are on the family tree of which President Kennedy grinningly pronounced himself a shoot Friday.

Antonio Geraldini, a Rome lawyer, says the counts, the viceroy, and the bishop are in his ancestry and that he has suspected for two years that they were also in President Kennedy's lineage.

Saturday, said Geraldini, he was sure.

His reason: President Kennedy said in Newark, N.J., on Friday his maternal grandfather, John F. Fitzgerald, frequently claimed he was descended from the Geraldinis of Venice.

"I have never had the courage to make that claim publicly before," said the President with a grin. "But I guess I can make it here (in Newark) on Columbus Day." He got a big laugh.

Geraldini said he had never had the courage before to claim Kennedy as a relative, either.

"When I first saw the name Fitzgerald linked with President Kennedy, after his election, I told myself: 'No doubt he descends from our family,'" Geraldini said. "But we never publicized this or sought to tell the President. We did not want it to appear that we were trying to get something from such an important personality."

But now that the Italin press has splashed the story across front pages (typical headline: "Kennedy is Italian"), Geraldini has come up with a family tree.

He told reporters the Geraldinis probably did originate in Venice, as Kennedy said. (Newsmen searching Venetian municipal records found the last entry of a Geraldini was in 1815, when a woman of that name died.)

Geraldini said the first historical mention he found of the family was in the annals of Florence of the 14th century. Soon afterward, he added, the family broke into two branches: one moving to Amelia, in the Umbrian region of central Italy, the other going to France, then to England, and finally to Ireland.

Barnett Names Chlorine Barge Claims Group

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett appointed a four-man committee Saturday to review and process claims which might arise during the raising of the chlorine barge near Natchez. "relative to the protection of health and safety of the citizens against potential hazards in the area."

Named to the committee were Robert L. Crook, state Civil Defense director and chairman of the group, Dexter A. Barr, chairman of the Mississippi Tax Commission; Col. Milton R. Vance, staff member of the state adjutant general; and H. A. Boren, counsel to Gov. Barnett.

JFK Blasts Critic Of Policy On Cuba

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — President Kennedy took off the gloves Saturday and delivered a vitriolic barrage at Sen. Homer Capehart, R-Ind., after a half-day of campaigning in Pennsylvania for a Democratic Congress.

The President accused Capehart of one of the most vocal critics of the administration's Cuban policies, of indulging in "rash and irresponsible talk" for suggesting an embargo and a possible invasion of Fidel Castro's Soviet-backed island .

Capehart also has condemned any U.S. government contribution toward any payment that might be made for the exchange of 1,113 captives in the 1961 invasion fiasco.

Without ever mentioning Capehart by name, Kennedy said in a speech prepared for an Indianapolis airport rally:

"This is no time for rash and irresponsible talk which strengthens the claims of our adversaries. This is no time for confused and intemperate remarks on the part of those who have neither the facts nor the responsibility to determine this nation's course. This is the time for men who talk softly and carry a big stick."

This was the closest Kennedy had come in his weekend political forays to answering Republican charges that he is responsible for what the GOP calls the "mess in Cuba." He showed his vehemence on the issue by his harsly worded attack on Capehart.

Earlier in a 102-mile motor excursion through industrialized western Pennsylvania, Kennedy carried his appeals for heavier Democratic majorites to about 130,000 voters.

Space Agency Reports On Solid-Fuel Lunar Rocket

WASHINGTON (AP)—A space agency study says a solid-fuel lunar rocket could be developed cheaper and two years sooner than the liquid-propelled rockets now planned to carry America's first astronauts to the moon.

The present target date is sometime in this decade.

The report was prepared by the Jet Propulsion Laboratory, Pasadena, Calif., of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and was published in the current issue of Astronautics, magazine of the American Rocket Society.

Despite the conclusions, however, there was no indication NASA would change its plans for using liquid-fueled rockets.

The staff study called for a solid-fuel rocket weighing 30 million pounds, standing 220 feet high and measuring 77 feet in diameter.

It should be assembled at a launch site in the ocean 12 miles off Cape Canaveral, Fla., the report said.

The rocket would have four stages. The first three would put the fourth stage and the manned spacecraft into a parking orbit around the earth. After the satellite vehicle had reached the desired point in its orbit, the fourth stage would ignite to boost the space craft toward the moon, or other planet if desired.

This type of vehicle currently is being considered for use in the Nova program as an advancement beyond the all-liquid propellant Saturn vehicle that will be used to send an Apollo spacecraft to the moon.

The report said that solid propellants are desirable for manned space missions because of their unusually high over-all reliability.

"The sheer magnitude of the reliability problem indicates that a basic reevaluation question of the design philosophy and program approach is needed," the report said.

The study also reported that:

1. There are many islands and coastal areas from Texas to South Carolina that are convenient to Cape Canaveral by barge transport, preferably through inland waterways, that can be used for moving the big solid rockets.

2. Two launch pads would be required to allow launchings every two months. They would be 6 to 12 miles apart, in 62,100 feet of water, with breakwaters a mile long and 10 feet higher than high tide to shelter each pad area.

JFK Linked To Italians' Family Tree

ROME (AP)—Counts from Umbria, a viceroy of Naples, a bishop who backed Christopher Columbus—these are on the family tree of which President Kennedy grinningly pronounced himself a shoot Friday.

Antonio Geraldini, a Rome lawyer, says the counts, the viceroy, and the bishop are in his ancestry and that he has suspected for two years that they were also in President Kennedy's lineage.

Saturday, said Geraldini, he was sure.

His reason: President Kennedy said in Newark, N.J., on Friday his maternal grandfather, John F. Fitzgerald, frequently claimed he was descended from the Geraldinis of Venice.

"I have never had the courage to make that claim publicly before," said the President with a grin. "But I guess I can make it here (in Newark) on Columbus Day." He got a big laugh.

Geraldini said he had never had the courage before to claim Kennedy as a relative, either.

"When I first saw the name Fitzgerald linked with President Kennedy, after his election, I told myself: 'No doubt he descends from our family,'" Geraldini said. "But we never publicized this or sought to tell the President. We did not want it to appear that we were trying to get something from such an important personality."

But now that the Italin press has splashed the story across front pages (typical headline: "Kennedy is Italian"), Geraldini has come up with a family tree.

He told reporters the Geraldinis probably did originate in Venice, as Kennedy said. (Newsmen searching Venetian municipal records found the last entry of a Geraldini was in 1815, when a woman of that name died.)

Geraldini said the first historical mention he found of the family was in the annals of Florence of the 14th century. Soon afterward, he added, the family broke into two branches: one moving to Amelia, in the Umbrian region of central Italy, the other going to France, then to England, and finally to Ireland.

Barnett Names Chlorine Barge Claims Group

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Gov. Ross Barnett appointed a four-man committee Saturday to review and process claims which might arise during the raising of the chlorine barge near Natchez. "relative to the protection of health and safety of the citizens against potential hazards in the area."

Named to the committee were Robert L. Crook, state Civil Defense director and chairman of the group, Dexter A. Barr, chairman of the Mississippi Tax Commission; Col. Milton R. Vance, staff member of the state adjutant general; and H. A. Boren, counsel to Gov. Barnett.

RESCUERS WORK to free Mrs. Peter Gordon of Castro Valley, a small community near Oakland, Calif., Saturday. She was pinned against her home by a mud slide and shattered retaining wall. Mrs. Gordon was inspecting her garden when the wall suddenly broke under the strain of a mud slide caused by the worst rain and wind storm to hit the area in October since 1904. She was pulled out with only slight injuries. (AP Wirephoto)

THE CHACAHOULA

Yearbook Arrives On NLSC Campus

Arrival of the Chacahoula, Northeast State's 1962 student yearbook, caused the biggest excitement on the campus Saturday.

The yearbook, along with many others in the nation, has followed the popular trend of fall delivery for the past twelve years.

Distribution of the publication will continue Monday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. in Stubbs 112. Hours scheduled for the rest of the week will be posted in various buildings on campus, according to the Chacahoula adviser, Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl.

The design on the rich black and gold cover of the current edition is developed in flexible form throughout the book in soft gray, black, and shades of blue.

Activities, characteristic of Northeast, are emphasized in four pictures of students in four-color process and sections designated with blue captions. Also in blue is "Miss Louisiana 1962," which features Miss Diana Smith's full page photograph in the opening section.

The administration division opens with a double-page spread of the president, Dr. George T. Walker, and Mrs. George T. Walker, captioned "The First Lady."

Full page pictures are used for division pages, illustrating the variety of work done in various departments.

Special recognition is given to Miss Sarabeth Boughton, "Miss Northeast," with a formal page photograph and several smaller ones taken during the annual pageant shown on the opposite page.

The beauty section gives an equal amount of space devoted to Miss Merilyn Burson, who captured the "Miss Chacahoula" title by vote of five off-campus judges. Following are full-page photographs of other beauties who placed in the upper ranks of the contest, and the runners-up form a double-page montage spread.

Men and women favorites in the four classifications, ranging from freshmen through seniors, are effectively displayed. Also shown prominence are students who were recognized as "Who Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Numerous activities, with emphasis on traditions, occupy several pages. These include social sororities and fraternities. Professional organizations, religious groups, clubs and class sections form a large part of the yearbook. This last section opens with students who were the first to receive the master's degree from Northeast.

Sports and health and physical education come in for a big share of the Chacahoula because of interest in both major and minor sports and the broad program of H and PE.

The 1962 edition was edited by Henry Chriceol of Mangham. Associate editors were Peter Mangham and Dixie Harvey of West Monroe and Tallulah, respectively. Advertising manager was John Leist of Monroe; photographer, Richard Greene of Monroe; class editor, Shirley Allen of West Monroe; organizations editor, Merilyn Burson of Monroe; feature editor, Jane Loker of Monroe; sports editors, Patsy Bearden and Wayne King of Monroe. They were assisted by John Pennel of Miami, Fla., Dave and Don Styron of Overland Park, Kans.

Grevemberg Says Politics Not For Him

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Back at a business desk after a call to the colors during the last Berlin crisis, Francis Grevemberg said Saturday he's out of politics.

"I'm all through being a candidate, period," he said.

And glancing back toward the years when he was a state police superintendent who choked off gambling, Grevemberg said he'd do it the same way again.

"I've no regrets," he said.

Grevemberg built his anti-gambling crusade into a bid for the governors office in 1956. He was one of the Democratic rivals brushed aside in the late Earl K. Long's landslide return to office.

He leaped back into the campaign four years later — this time as the Republican candidate and lost.

Grevemberg, an Army colonel with the Soldier's Medal, Legion of Merit, French Croix de Guerre, and the Italian Military Valor Cross, was picked by former Gov. Robert Kennon in 1952 to be his state police chief.

Using precise military tactics, Grevemberg's state troopers swarmed around the state in gambling raids.

Enjoying himself, Grevemberg adopted such tricks as using a bulldozer to crush confiscated slot machines.

The first two years after he took up the hatchet, he smashed 5,398 slot machines, padlocked more than 100 gambling places, put many bookies out of business, closed honkytonks catering to teen-agers.

Grevemberg was president of the Baton Rouge Board of Realtors before he answered the reservist summons a year ago. He served as commander of the 204th Transport Group of the Louisiana National Guard, a headquarters unit at Fort Eustis, Va.

Back in town, Grevemberg has accepted a position as president of Southern Mortgage Insurance Corp., a new company engaged in insuring lenders from loss on residential first-mortgage loans.

Grevemberg said he hopes to expand into other southern states.

Lawyer Still Awaits Word On Captives

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—International negotiator James B. Donovan flew to New York on Saturday to resume his campaign for the U.S. Senate and await further word from Fidel Castro on freedom for Cuban invasion prisoners.

The New York lawyer rested two days in seclusion in a Miami hotel after a strenuous and often interrupted negotiating session in Havana with the Cuban prime minister over liberation of the Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners.

Donovan said he intended now to pick up his fight against Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., seeking re-election.

He strongly denied a report by CBS radio that he might withdraw from the Senate campaign. "There is absolutely no basis for the story," he said.

Donovan said he received Saturday the first of several communications he expected from Castro. He said he anticipated receiving the remainder in New York early next week.

The communication dealt with Castro's consideration of the offer made by Donovan for drugs, medicine, medical supplies and baby food in exchange from freedom of the 1,113 prisoners.

Castro told students at the University of Havana on Friday night that the Cuban Prisoners Families Committee must come up with not less than $62 million worth of "things like medicine and medical equipment."

Donovan, asked to comment on Castro's statement, said, "As I said at the press conference on my arrival in Miami, let Mr. Castro place his own evaluation on what I have offered him."

"Things still look favorable," Donovan added referring to hopes for release of the prisoners.

The New York lawyer said he expected to return to Miami if the prisoners were released.

Donovan, who negotiated the swap of Soviet spy Rudolf Abel for American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, reportedly has been working without compensation for the families committee.

He stated some time ago he would place negotiations for release of the Cuban prisoners ahead of his campaign for the Senate. In recent weeks he canceled several scheduled campaign appearances when negotiations dragged out in Havana.

Compromise Public Works Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate and House Saturday passed a compromise $5,069,134,000 public works appropriations bill and sent it to the President.

Passage paved the way for adjournment of Congress.

The Senate agreed to seven projects, totaling $1,265,000, added to the bill in the House.

The compromise bill compares with the original House total of $4.6 billion and the Senate bill of $5.2 billion.

The House approved after adding $1,265,000 for seven additional water projects.

Projects added include:

Planning for bascule bridge over Sabine-Neches River, Tex., $50,000.

The bill carries $400 million to start President Kennedy's emergency public works program to aid depressed areas.

The bill also would provide $1.2 billion for the Army Engineers and the reclamation bureau to plan and build various types of water projects; $3.1 billion for the Atomic Energy Commission, and funds for the Tennessee Valley Authority, Panama Canal, Bonneville Power Administration and the Southeast and the Southwest Power Administrations.

Other projects on which there had been disagreement which were approved by the House and Senate included:

Army Engineer construction: Arkansas-Red River salinity control, $300,000; Port Arthur Hurricane protection $115,000.

Army Engineer surveys: Arkansas-Red River pollution studies $227,000; Red River in Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas $300,000.

Construction items on which there was no disagreement included: Sabine-Neches waterway $1,500,000

SPEAKS AT LUNCHEON

Davis Addresses Press Association

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie J. Davis said Saturday the Louisiana Press Association "put its finger on the core of differences between government and the press—lack of communication."

Davis spoke at a luncheon meeting of the LPA, which put on a two-day clinic on government and the press.

"You and I agree on many things," he told the newspaper publishers, editors and teachers and students in journalism. "Our areas of agreement are much greater than those of disagreement."

If the government and the press were to work together, Davis said, "their alliance could prove to be one of the most potent forces for good that our society could ever create."

In Louisiana, he said, 'we could project an image of our state that would attract more industry, sell more goods and services and materially better the standard of living of all our people.

"But instead," he said, "our advertising for state, paid for by the tax dollars of our citizens, stresses our advantages while the front pages of our newspapers may dwell upon our disadvantages.

"If our state ran a deficit last year, the people are entitled to know it, but at the same time equal prominence should be given to the fact that the state government has taken steps to prevent a recurrence of this."

One of the greatest accomplishments of his administration and the legislature, he said, has been cutting back the operating budget of the state.

C. P. Liter, general manager of The Baton Rouge State-Times and Morning Advocate, said covering the state capitol here is very different from 20 years ago when he was a capitol correspondent.

"There is a tendency," he said, "to lose that personal contact we used to have. The newspapers lose by failing to make personal contact" with public officials.

Twenty years ago, Liter said, he and one other reporter covered the capitol regularly and they could freely chat with public officials.

"There is probably no way to cover the capitol without press agents," Liter said.

Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of education, invited the LPA in a speech delivered by his press secretary "to tell your readers the unbiased and truthful story of education in Louisiana."

Joe Smither, the secretary, said Jackson had a previous engagement and couldn't accept an invitation to take part in discussions on government and the press.

The speech said, "our citizens need to know the dire financial crisis existing in education today in Louisiana. . .

"Our citizens need to be informed of a basic economic fact that it takes more money—not less, even in an 'austerity age'—to provide more classrooms," teachers, books, transportation, custodial workers and supplies.

"Are you willing to assume the responsibility and duty of a free press, to inform our citizens of the needs of education? . . .to forego the personal political attacks?"

Jackson offered several guidelines for the editors, publishers and journalists to use "in fulfilling your solemn obligation to inform the people fully and fairly and in an unbiased manner."

State treasurer A. P. Tugwell said he is obligated to pay out about $51 million a month this fiscal year but is able to pay out only about $41 million because many state revenues are collected late in the year.

Tugwell said the state needed a revolving fund or authority for the state treasurer to borrow money to meet big demands.

Ellen Bryan Moore, register of the state land office, explained Act 150 of the 1962 legislature, which authorizes her office to make an inventory of state property and asked the help of the press in explaining the act to the public.

Rufus Hayes, commissioner of insurance, asked newspapers to help explain to the public that "the public makes its own insurance rates, through its own record of accidents and fires."

Wade O. Martin Jr., secretary of state, discussed an instance in which a public official was attending a meeting of private citizens to discuss formation of a new political party.

"Does the fact that a public official is attending a private meeting make it a meeting that is the subject of invasion by newspaper reporters?" he asked.

Alabama Judge To Hear Suits For Integration

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Four separate integration suits—three against Birmingham and another against Gadsden — are scheduled in federal district court beginning Oct. 24.

U. S. Judge Seyborne Lynne will continue on Oct. 24 the hearing of two suits seeking integration of Birmingham schools. Lynne heard two days of testimony in the consolidated cases Oct. 3 and 4, but recessed the hearing until Oct. 24.

U. S. District Judge H. H. Grooms will begin hearing cases on a docket beginning Oct. 25, including pending motions in two integration suits, one against Birmingham and another against Gadsden. Both suits ask similar judgments.

Five Negroes filed the Birmingham suit last July 10 asking integration of all public buildings and public land leased and owned by Birmingham. Specifically named in request for an injunction were the public libraries, city hall facilities and a motel at municipal airport.

U.S. Military Maneuvers To Open In Texas

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — What the military call the largest live fire maneuvers in peacetime U. S. history begin at this sprawling post Monday.

The exercise will involve more than 19,000 men, largely from the two armored divisions here, with support from Air Force strike squadrons in New Mexico, Louisiana, South Carolina and Florida.

Exercise Three Pairs replaces the originally scheduled Core Shield Exercise which was cancelled when the Army failed to obtain about 2 million acres of private land needed for the maneuver.

The Air Force will fly live firing missions and the Army will deliver fire to simulated targets.

One objective will be to test new techniques of giving ground troops close air support.

Directing the exercise will be Gen. Paul D. Adams, commander of the U. S. strike command at MacDill Air Force Base, Ala.

Gromyko Warns Germany Treaty Signing Is Near

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko warned the West Saturday that "the time draws near" for the signing of a German peace treaty that would make West Berlin a "Free, demilitarized city."

Gromyko told a news conference Russia believes the Western side of the wall-lined border dividing the former German capital should be manned with guards to stop "provocative actions" undertaken from West Berlin.

But he made it clear that Russia would not consider a vote in East Berlin, which he repeatedly described as the capital of East Germany, to let its people decide their own future. He said Russia "categorically rejects any discussion of the question concerning East Berlin, which does not exist."

Gromyko was long on doctrine and short on information in a 90-minute conference in which correspondents vied with Soviet delegation members for seats in the crowded room.

A U. S. spokesman said after Gromyko's conference: "There wasn't anything particularly new in it, so we don't have any comment."

Gromyko would not say whether Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev plans to come to the General Assembly later in this session.

Firefighters Kept On Run

The Monroe fire department kept a busy schedule Friday and Saturday when they answered three house fire calls and were too late to a barnfire to be able to save it.

A midnight fire burned a barn down on Ticheli Road and late Saturday, fireman still had not found an owner of the structure. Truck III responded to the fire at 12:32 a.m., but were unable to save the building.

A house fire at 11:36 p.m. Friday left a frame structure at 411 N. 13th Street damaged. Trucks 101 and 103 quickly brought the blaze under control and were through cleaning up and back in their stations at 2 a.m. Saturday.

The building was owned by The Rev. Averette, but was occupied by Negro tenants. No one was injured in the fire.

Another house fire alarm was turned in at 10:32 a.m. at 313½ 9th St. in Monroe. The tenant in the room was Frank Johnson. Trucks 101 and 110 responded to the call, and the blaze was promptly extinguished.

Truck 107 brought another house fire under control shortly after 8 p.m. Saturday at 312 New Natchitoches Rd., West Monroe. The flames were nearly under control damage was constricted to the storeroom at the home of G. A. Estess. Only minor damage resulted.

AMERICANS ARE CHIDED

BONN (AP) — The influential West German daily business newspaper Handelsblatt chides Americans and British for not mastering foreign languages. It concluded a sarcastic editorial saying: "Buyers don't want themselves looked upon as members of a colonial people."

Robert Kennedy Receives Award

NEW YORK (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy was named winner Saturday of the American Jewish Congress' 1962 Stephen S. Wise Award "for advancing human freedom."

The attorney general will receive the award at a dinner here Oct. 28.

Dr. Joachim Prinz, president of the congress, also announced that the Wise award "for exemplifying individual achievement" will be presented to Frederick W. Richmond, president of the Urban League of Greater New York.

The awards were established in 1949 on the 75th birthday of Rabbi Wise, a founder and long-time official of the AJC.

JAPAN HIKES FARES

TOKYO (AP) — Japan's Cabinet has approved an average 10 per cent fare hike for the 14 major private railways effective Nov 1

Storm-Battered Oregon Offered Federal Help

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—White House officials announced Saturday the federal government is set to offer all possible assistance to storm-lashed Oregon.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger made public a message of reassurance to Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon as President Kennedy landed here to speak at a Democratic rally. Edward A. McDermott, director of emergency planning, sent the telegram from Washington telling Hatfield his regional director at Everett, Wash., had been instructed to help out.

"The President is concerned about the people who have suffered as a result of the storm and hopes that the situation rapidly improves," McDermott said.

Hatfield had wired Kennedy he might have to ask that wind-struck areas of Oregon be declared a disaster area, thus eligible for financial aid from Washington.

Gromyko Warns Germany Treaty Signing Is Near

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI) Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko warned the West Saturday that "the time draws near" for the signing of a German peace treaty that would make West Berlin a "Free, demilitarized city."

Gromyko told a news conference Russia believes the Western side of the wall-lined border dividing the former German capital should be manned with guards to stop "provocative actions" undertaken from West Berlin.

But he made it clear that Russia would not consider a vote in East Berlin, which he repeatedly described as the capital of East Germany, to let its people decide their own future. He said Russia "categorically rejects any discussion of the question concerning East Berlin, which does not exist."

Gromyko was long on doctrine and short on information in a 90-minute conference in which correspondents vied with Soviet delegation members for seats in the crowded room.

A U. S. spokesman said after Gromyko's conference: "There wasn't anything particularly new in it, so we don't have any comment."

Gromyko would not say whether Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev plans to come to the General Assembly later in this session.

Firefighters Kept On Run

The Monroe fire department kept a busy schedule Friday and Saturday when they answered three house fire calls and were too late to a barnfire to be able to save it.

A midnight fire burned a barn down on Ticheli Road and late Saturday, fireman still had not found an owner of the structure. Truck III responded to the fire at 12:32 a.m., but were unable to save the building.

A house fire at 11:36 p.m. Friday left a frame structure at 411 N. 13th Street damaged. Trucks 101 and 103 quickly brought the blaze under control and were through cleaning up and back in their stations at 2 a.m. Saturday.

The building was owned by The Rev. Averette, but was occupied by Negro tenants. No one was injured in the fire.

Another house fire alarm was turned in at 10:32 a.m. at 313½ 9th St. in Monroe. The tenant in the room was Frank Johnson. Trucks 101 and 110 responded to the call, and the blaze was promptly extinguished.

Truck 107 brought another house fire under control shortly after 8 p.m. Saturday at 312 New Natchitoches Rd., West Monroe. The flames were nearly under control damage was constricted to the storeroom at the home of G. A. Estess. Only minor damage resulted.

RESCUERS WORK to free Mrs. Peter Gordon of Castro Valley, a small community near Oakland, Calif., Saturday. She was pinned against her home by a mud slide and shattered retaining wall. Mrs. Gordon was inspecting her garden when the wall suddenly broke under the strain of a mud slide caused by the worst rain and wind storm to hit the area in October since 1904. She was pulled out with only slight injuries. (AP Wirephoto)

THE CHACAHOULA

Yearbook Arrives On NLSC Campus

Arrival of the Chacahoula, Northeast State's 1962 student yearbook, caused the biggest excitement on the campus Saturday.

The yearbook, along with many others in the nation, has followed the popular trend of fall delivery for the past twelve years.

Distribution of the publication will continue Monday from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. in Stubbs 112. Hours scheduled for the rest of the week will be posted in various buildings on campus, according to the Chacahoula adviser, Mrs. Annie Lee West Stahl.

The design on the rich black and gold cover of the current edition is developed in flexible form throughout the book in soft gray, black, and shades of blue.

Activities, characteristic of Northeast, are emphasized in four pictures of students in four - color process and sections designated with blue captions. Also in blue is "Miss Louisiana 1962," which features Miss Diana Smith's full page photograph in the opening section.

The administration division opens with a double - page spread of the president, Dr. George T. Walker, and Mrs. George T. Walker, captioned "The First Lady."

Full page pictures are used for division pages, illustrating the variety of work done in various departments.

Special recognition is given to Miss Sarabeth Boughton, "Miss Northeast," with a formal page photograph and several smaller ones taken during the annual pageant shown on the opposite page.

The beauty section gives an equal amount of space devoted to Miss Merilyn Burson, who captured the "Miss Chacahoula" title by vote of five off - campus judges. Following are full - page photographs of other beauties who placed in the upper ranks of the contest, and the runners - up form a double - page montage spread.

Men and women favorites in the four classifications, ranging from freshmen through seniors, are effectively displayed. Also shown prominence are students who were recognized as "Who Who in American Colleges and Universities."

Numerous activities, with emphasis on traditions, occupy several pages. These include social sororities and fraternities. Professional organizations, religious groups, clubs and class sections form a large part of the yearbook. This last section opens with students who were the first to receive the master's degree from Northeast.

Sports and health and physical education come in for a big share of the Chacahoula because of interest in both major and minor sports and the broad program of H and PE.

The 1962 edition was edited by Henry Chriceol of Mangham. Associate editors were Peter Mangham and Dixie Harvey of West Monroe and Tallulah, respectively. Advertising manager was John Leist of Monroe; photographer, Richard Greene of Monroe; class editor, Shirley Allen of West Monroe; organizations editor, Merilyn Burson of Monroe; feature editor, Jane Loker of Monroe; sports editors, Patsy Bearden and Wayne King of Monroe. They were assisted by John Pennel of Miami, Fla., Dave and Don Styron of Overland Park, Kans.

Compromise Public Works Bill Passes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate and House Saturday passed a compromise $5,069,134,000 public works appropriations bill and sent it to the President.

Passage paved the way for adjournment of Congress.

The Senate agreed to seven projects, totaling $1,265,000, added to the bill in the House.

The compromise bill compares with the original House total of $4.6 billion and the Senate bill of $5.2 billion.

The House approved after adding $1,265,000 for seven additional water projects.

Projects added include:

Planning for bascule bridge over Sabine-Neches River, Tex., $50,000.

The bill carries $400 million to start President Kennedy's emergency public works program to aid depressed areas.

The bill also would provide $1.2 billion for the Army Engineers and the reclamation bureau to plan and build various types of water projects; $3.1 billion for the Atomic Energy Commission, and funds for the Tennessee Valley Authority, Panama Canal, Bonneville Power Administration and the Southeast and the Southwest Power Administrations.

Other projects on which there had been disagreement which were approved by the House and Senate included:

Army Engineer construction: Arkansas-Red River salinity control, $300,000; Port Arthur Hurricane protection $115,000.

Army Engineer surveys: Arkansas-Red River pollution studies $227,000; Red River in Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas $300,000.

Construction items on which there was no disagreement included: Sabine-Neches waterway $1,500,000

Lawyer Still Awaits Word On Captives

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—International negotiator James B. Donovan flew to New York on Saturday to resume his campaign for the U.S. Senate and await further word from Fidel Castro on freedom for Cuban invasion prisoners.

The New York lawyer rested two days in seclusion in a Miami hotel after a strenuous and often interrupted negotiating session in Havana with the Cuban prime minister over liberation of the Bay of Pigs invasion prisoners.

Donovan said he intended now to pick up his fight against Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., seeking re-election.

He strongly denied a report by CBS radio that he might withdraw from the Senate campaign. "There is absolutely no basis for the story," he said.

Donovan said he received Saturday the first of several communications he expected from Castro. He said he anticipated receiving the remainder in New York early next week.

The communication dealt with Castro's consideration of the offer made by Donovan for drugs, medicine, medical supplies and baby food in exchange from freedom of the 1,113 prisoners.

Castro told students at the University of Havana on Friday night that the Cuban Prisoners Families Committee must come up with not less than $62 million worth of "things like medicine and medical equipment."

Donovan, asked to comment on Castro's statement, said, "As I said at the press conference on my arrival in Miami, let Mr. Castro place his own evaluation on what I have offered him."

"Things still look favorable," Donovan added referring to hopes for release of the prisoners.

The New York lawyer said he expected to return to Miami if the prisoners were released.

Donovan, who negotiated the swap of Soviet spy Rudolf Abel for American U2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, reportedly has been working without compensation for the families committee.

He stated some time ago he would place negotiations for release of the Cuban prisoners ahead of his campaign for the Senate. In recent weeks he canceled several scheduled campaign appearances when negotiations dragged out in Havana.

Grevemberg Says Politics Not For Him

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Back at a business desk after a call to the colors during the last Berlin crisis, Francis Grevemberg said Saturday he's out of politics.

"I'm all through being a candidate, period," he said.

And glancing back toward the years when he was a state police superintendent who choked off gambling, Grevemberg said he'd do it the same way again.

"I've no regrets," he said.

Grevemberg built his anti-gambling crusade into a bid for the governors office in 1956. He was one of the Democratic rivals brushed aside in the late Earl K. Long's landslide return to office.

He leaped back into the campaign four years later — this time as the Republican candidate and lost.

Grevemberg, an Army colonel with the Soldier's Medal, Legion of Merit, French Croix de Guerre, and the Italian Military Valor Cross, was picked by former Gov. Robert Kennon in 1952 to be his state police chief.

Using precise military tactics, Grevemberg's state troopers swarmed around the state in gambling raids.

Enjoying himself, Grevemberg adopted such tricks as using a bulldozer to crush confiscated slot machines.

The first two years after he took up the hatchet, he smashed 5,398 slot machines, padlocked more than 100 gambling places, put many bookies out of business, closed honkytonks catering to teen-agers.

Grevemberg was president of the Baton Rouge Board of Realtors before he answered the reservist summons a year ago. He served as commander of the 204th Transport Group of the Louisiana National Guard, a headquarters unit at Fort Eustis, Va.

Back in town, Grevemberg has accepted a position as president of Southern Mortgage Insurance Corp., a new company engaged in insuring lenders from loss on residential first-mortgage loans.

Grevemberg said he hopes to expand into other southern states.

Storm-Battered Oregon Offered Federal Help

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—White House officials announced Saturday the federal government is set to offer all possible assistance to storm-lashed Oregon.

Press secretary Pierre Salinger made public a message of reassurance to Gov. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon as President Kennedy landed here to speak at a Democratic rally. Edward A. McDermott, director of emergency planning, sent the telegram from Washington telling Hatfield his regional director at Everett, Wash., had been instructed to help out.

"The President is concerned about the people who have suffered as a result of the storm and hopes that the situation rapidly improves," McDermott said.

Hatfield had wired Kennedy he might have to ask that windstruck areas of Oregon be declared a disaster area, thus eligible for financial aid from Washington.

Frank Knight, 72, Succumbs

Frank Knight, 72-year-old Monroe resident, died Saturday afternoon in a local hospital after suffering a heart attack.

Mr. Knight, a retired pipeline worker, resided at 3305 Lee Ave.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete Saturday night but will be under the direction of Peters Funeral Home.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Mary Knight, Monroe; and two step daughters, Mrs. Dale Austin and Mrs. John Ortego, both of Lawton, Okla.

SPEAKS AT LUNCHEON

Davis Addresses Press Association

BATON ROUGE (AP) — Gov. Jimmie J. Davis said Saturday the Louisiana Press Association "put its finger on the core of differences between government and the press—lack of communication."

Davis spoke at a luncheon meeting of the LPA, which put on a two-day clinic on government and the press.

"You and I agree on many things," he told the newspaper publishers, editors and teachers and students in journalism. "Our areas of agreement are much greater than those of disagreement."

If the government and the press were to work together, Davis said, "their alliance could prove to be one of the most potent forces for good that our society could ever create."

In Louisiana, he said, 'we could project an image of our state that would attract more industry, sell more goods and services and materially better the standard of living of all our people.

"But instead," he said, "our advertising for state, paid for by the tax dollars of our citizens, stresses our advantages while the front pages of our newspapers may dwell upon our disadvantages.

"If our state ran a deficit last year, the people are entitled to know it, but at the same time equal prominence should be given to the fact that the state government has taken steps to prevent a recurrence of this."

One of the greatest accomplishments of his administration and the legislature, he said, has been cutting back the operating budget of the state.

C. P. Liter, general manager of The Baton Rouge State-Times and Morning Advocate, said covering the state capitol here is very different from 20 years ago when he was a capitol correspondent.

"There is a tendency," he said, "to lose that personal contact we used to have. The newspapers lose by failing to make personal contact" with public officials.

Twenty years ago, Liter said, he and one other reporter covered the capitol regularly and they could freely chat with public officials.

"There is probably no way to cover the capitol without press agents," Liter said.

Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of education, invited the LPA in a speech delivered by his press secretary "to tell your readers the unbiased and truthful story of education in Louisiana."

Joe Smither, the secretary, said Jackson had a previous engagement and couldn't accept an invitation to take part in discussions on government and the press.

The speech said, "our citizens need to know the dire financial crisis existing in education today in Louisiana. . .

"Our citizens need to be informed of a basic economic fact that it takes more money—not less, even in an 'austerity age'—to provide more classrooms," teachers, books, transportation, custodial workers and supplies.

"Are you willing to assume the responsibility and duty of a free press, to inform our citizens of the needs of education? . . .to forego the personal political attacks?"

Jackson offered several guidelines for the editors, publishers and journalists to use "in fulfilling your solemn obligation to inform the people fully and fairly and in an unbiased manner."

State treasurer A. P. Tugwell said he is obligated to pay out about $51 million a month this fiscal year but is able to pay out only about $41 million because many state revenues are collected late in the year.

Tugwell said the state needed a revolving fund or authority for the state treasurer to borrow money to meet big demands.

Ellen Bryan Moore, register of the state land office, explained Act 150 of the 1962 legislature, which authorizes her office to make an inventory of state property and asked the help of the press in explaining the act to the public.

Rufus Hayes, commissioner of insurance, asked newspapers to help explain to the public that "the public makes its own insurance rates, through its own record of accidents and fires."

Wade O. Martin Jr., secretary of state, discussed an instance in which a public official was attending a meeting of private citizens to discuss formation of a new political party.

"Does the fact that a public official is attending a private meeting make it a meeting that is the subject of invasion by newspaper reporters?" he asked.

Alabama Judge To Hear Suits For Integration

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Four separate integration suits—three against Birmingham and another against Gadsden — are scheduled in federal district court beginning Oct. 24.

U. S. Judge Seyborne Lynne will continue on Oct. 24 the hearing of two suits seeking integration of Birmingham schools. Lynne heard two days of testimony in the consolidated cases Oct. 3 and 4, but recessed the hearing until Oct. 24.

U. S. District Judge H. H. Grooms will begin hearing cases on a docket beginning Oct. 25, including pending motions in two integration suits, one against Birmingham and another against Gadsden. Both suits ask similar judgments.

Five Negroes filed the Birmingham suit last July 10 asking integration of all public buildings and public land leased and owned by Birmingham. Specifically named in request for an injunction were the public libraries, city hall facilities and a motel at municipal airport.

U.S. Military Maneuvers To Open In Texas

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP) — What the military call the largest live fire maneuvers in peacetime U. S. history begin at this sprawling post Monday.

The exercise will involve more than 19,000 men, largely from the two armored divisions here, with support from Air Force strike squadrons in New Mexico, Louisiana, South Carolina and Florida.

Exercise Three Pairs replaces the originally scheduled Core Shield Exercise which was cancelled when the Army failed to obtain about 2 million acres of private land needed for the maneuver.

The Air Force will fly live firing missions and the Army will deliver fire to simulated targets.

One objective will be to test new techniques of giving ground troops close air support.

Directing the exercise will be Gen. Paul D. Adams, commander of the U. S. strike command at MacDill Air Force Base, Ala.

DEATHS

Common Market Speech Slated At Area College

RUSTON (Special) — Dr. S. E. Gerard Priestley, a native of England and a specialist in international affairs, will speak at a convocation in Howard Auditorium at Louisiana Tech Monday, under the auspices of the programs committee of the college.

The subject of Priestley's address will be "Historical Significance of the European Common Market."

In the past 25 years, Priestley has traveled in more than 70 countries on six continents. He holds six earned degrees in history, political science and philosophy. He recently returned from an extensive tour of the Soviet Union and the countries of the Near East.

From 1948 to 1953, Priestley served as vice chairman of the Speakers' Research Committee for the United Nations. He also was moderator of a radio program, United Nations Forum of the air, originating in New York City.

In Europe, Priestley watched the rise and fall of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy. After America entered World War II, he lectured to more than a million men and women in the armed forces of United States and her allies.

Negro Hunter Is Found Dead

WINNSBORO (Special) — The body of Willie Taylor, 55, Negro of Wisner, was found Friday afternoon on the Hope estate near Wisner.

Taylor apparently died of a heart attack while hunting and the body was discovered by another Negro hunter about 5:30 p.m. and authorities were notified.

Deputy Sheriff Claude Frey, who investigated the report, said that the Negro was lying on his back at the foot of a tree with his loaded single-barrell shotgun at his side. The officer said that there was no evidence of foul play and the Negro had a known heart ailment.

Common Market Speech Slated At Area College

RUSTON (Special) — Dr. S. E. Gerard Priestley, a native of England and a specialist in international affairs, will speak at a convocation in Howard Auditorium at Louisiana Tech Monday, under the auspices of the programs committee of the college.

The subject of Priestley's address will be "Historical Significance of the European Common Market."

In the past 25 years, Priestley has traveled in more than 70 countries on six continents. He holds six earned degrees in history, political science and philosophy. He recently returned from an extensive tour of the Soviet Union and the countries of the Near East.

From 1948 to 1953, Priestley served as vice chairman of the Speakers' Research Committee for the United Nations. He also was moderator of a radio program, United Nations Forum of the air, originating in New York City.

In Europe, Priestley watched the rise and fall of Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy. After America entered World War II, he lectured to more than a million men and women in the armed forces of United States and her allies.

Negro Hunter Is Found Dead

WINNSBORO (Special) — The body of Willie Taylor, 55, Negro of Wisner, was found Friday afternoon on the Hope estate near Wisner.

Taylor apparently died of a heart attack while hunting and the body was discovered by another Negro hunter about 5:30 p.m. and authorities were notified.

Deputy Sheriff Claude Frey, who investigated the report, said that the Negro was lying on his back at the foot of a tree with his loaded single-barrell shotgun at his side. The officer said that there was no evidence of foul play and the Negro had a known heart ailment.

U.S. Judges To Decide In Barnett Case

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The question of what to do about Mississippi Gov. Ross Barnett's defiance of federal court desegregation orders comes up again — the fourth time — here next week.

And this time the judges of the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ponder the problem with a new angle — Barnett's surprise statement, through an attorney, that he won't promise to comply with all of the court's orders.

An attorney for Barnett, Charles Clark, startled the seven-judge panel at a hearing Friday when he said he wasn't able to promise that Barnett would comply with all orders of the court.

Clark said Barnett would comply "insofar as he is physically able," and would decide himself when he is able.

At the end of the hearing the court ordered written briefs on a Justice Department motion for an injunction barring Mississippi officials from interfering with Negro James H. Meredith's presence at the University of Mississippi.

The court said it intended to finish the business of the injunction before taking final action on the contempt convictions against Barnett and Mississippi Lt. Gov. Paul B. Johnson Jr.

The contempt convictions — complete with the threat of large fines against both, and jail for Barnett — resulted from their defiance of court orders in blocking the 29-year-old Negro from enrolling at all-white Ole Miss.

While the courtroom aspects of the Ole Miss desegregation drama heated up, the campus at Oxford took on an air of weekend quiet that might envelope any campus.

Meredith left the small college town by border patrol airplane after his last class Friday for a weekend holiday — presumably a meeting with his wife at an undisclosed place.

The Mississippi football team, caught up in the controversy when the Defense Department ordered it not to play on the campus last weekend, had an open date.

Many of the students went home for the weekend. Others lounged around the campus. Some caught up on their studies.

The only remaining sign of the riot that erupted after Meredith appeared two weeks ago, leaving two dead and scores injured, was the dwindling force of federal military units.

At Washington, the office of Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., said the total number of troops at Oxford now was only 3,760 — a fraction of the approximately 20,000 in the area at the height of the tension.

Dean of Students L. L. Love, obviously aiming at the sporadic outbursts of booing and minor violence on the campus, ordered an immediate end Friday to all demonstrations. He warned that violations would "bring immediate and drastic disciplinary action."

Ben Bella Courts Both U.S., Cuban Relations

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —Algerian Premier Ahmed Ben Bella says he thinks Algeria can keep on good terms with both Cuba and the United States.

"We can very well have good relations with the United States on the basis of respect of mutual sovereignty," he said in an interview, Friday.

"And we can also have good relations with Cuba because we think there are some aspects of the Cuban experiment that may be of interest to us."

Speaking in response to questions, he said it was for Cuba and the United States to settle their differences.

"I think," he said. "There are subjective factors involved in it which have unfortunately aggravated this situation and introduced an extension of the whole question.

"However, I want to emphasize one fundamental principle, and that is the respect of sovereignty of any nation."

Ben Bella, who saw Algeria admitted to the United Nations last Monday, will call on President Kennedy in Washington next Monday and later go to Havana.

The young looking Algerian leader, in a dark blue suit, sat with a reporter in his hotel suite and for 20 minutes answered questions submitted ahead of time.

He spoke in rapid French without notes while his press officer, Cherif Guellal, interpreted into English.

It's a small wonder!

It's also quite an unusual relationship - a relationship that could exist only beween a very small boy and a very large dog. The little fellow is boss. There is no doubt about this in either parties' mind. He is a small wonder all right - ordering an obedient companion around that out-weighs him a good hundred pounds! Size isn't always might, and this is doubly true when it comes to a News-Star—World Want Ad. Small in size, a News-Star—World Want Ad can perform tasks unequaled.
